

Timely Advice to Chittem Bark Peelers

A Liberal Business Proposition By a Salem Business Man

Anticipating a large crop of chittem bark for the year 1904, and realizing that this would bring about lower prices, making it less profitable for the producers, Mr. D. J. Fry, the druggist, has had erected a public chittem bark warehouse in Salem, where all who wish to store their bark free of charge for from one to five years, thus enabling those who refuse to have low prices forced upon them by the large manufacturers and brokers of the East and abroad, to hold their bark until a better market prevails.

Chittem Bark Peeling Will Soon Be a Thing of the Past

For a number of years Cascara Sagrada, or sacred bark, more commonly known as chittem, has been very successfully used as a laxative and cathartic. Indeed, this medicine has become so popular you will hardly find a drug store without it, in some form or other, in this country or in Europe, and every year hundreds of tons are exported to various parts of the Old World. Until a few years ago the gatherers of this world renowned product, not knowing its value, almost gave it away. Three and one-half to four and one-quarter cents per pound being the ruling price until last year, when sales were reported of $320.00 per ton. This sudden jump was brought about by the report that the bark was giving out, followed by a short crop, and although other sections of chittem trees in Oregon and elsewhere on the northwest coast have since been discovered, at the present rate of peeling, it will be but a few years when the last crop is harvested, hence the advisability and necessity of holding on to what you have, and in the end you will surely get better prices.

The Warehouse

Mr. Fry's new warehouse is located on Front street, near freight depot, within fifteen feet of the S. P. tracks and one block from the boat landing. The building covers a space of 40x82-1/2 feet, contains three floors and has a capacity of from twenty-five to thirty car loads. It is the first and only public chittem bark warehouse built in the northwest. The foundation and basement are made of concrete, the superstructure is covered on the outside with heavy galvanized iron, all openings are covered with the same, thus making it practically a fire proof structure. The building throughout will be cool in the summer and dry in the winter, and is therefore especially adapted for thoroughly curing and preserving chittem bark, for be it remembered this article improves by age, the longer you keep it the better it gets, and the more valuable it becomes.

Terms

The terms upon which chittem bark is received are simple and comprehensive. The bark is stored absolutely free of charge for from one to five years, or fraction of a year. To some this may seem strange, but if you stop to think it over, Mr. Fry can always get a larger offer for a car load of old bark than you can get for smaller quantities of uncertain age, and therefore he is generally in a position to pay more for your bark than any other buyer, and still save a margin of profit for his trouble.

As stated, your storage is free, the only condition is when you get ready to sell he wants a chance to buy, and if he cannot offer you as much as any one else, you have the privilege of taking your bark away without one cent of cost for storage. The only expense to you is getting it to the warehouse, unloading and reloading in case you do not sell to him. The latter will be trifling as you are within a few feet of the cars.

Form of Receipt

Parties storing chittem bark will be given a receipt as follows:

Salem, Oregon, 190...
Received from
sacks of chittem bark. The undersigned agrees to store above from one to five years, or fraction thereof, FREE OF CHARGE, with the distinct understanding that when ready to dispose of same owner will sell to me, providing I pay as much as any other buyer offers. Signed DANIEL J. FRY.
Not responsible for loss or damage, though best of care taken.

Money Advanced

On all bark stored with Mr. Fry, cash will be advanced if required, up to two-thirds the value. Interest on the loan will be charged at the rate of eight per cent per annum. All bark on which money is advanced must be insured at the expense of the owner.

Special Instructions

Shipments of bark must consist of a merchantable quality, packed in strong sacks, securely sewed, and on the end of each sack place the initials of the owner, also name of post-office. Failure to do this will necessitate a charge for same, as no shipment can be stored without being properly marked for recognition.

Nearly three car loads have already been received for storage, and a large amount of space is engaged.

Parties contemplating holding their bark for higher prices and storing, are requested to make early application.

SPEAKS THURSDAY NIGHT

Arrangements Made to Receive Secretary of the Treasury Shaw

The Roosevelt Club executive committee met last night and made arrangements to entertain Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who will speak in Salem on Thursday evening, September 1. President Smith named the following committees:

Decorations—Frank Davey.

Ushers—Frank Meredith.

Music—J. H. McNary and I. A. Manning.

The committee on reception, to consist of seven members, will be appointed by the president later.

Owing to the absence of Chas. A. Murphy from the city, F. T. Wrightman has been added to the committee on finance, which is now constituted as follows: F. T. Wrightman, chairman; E. Hofer, H. H. Turner, Ellis Richardson, Claire Baker.

The Iowans have decided to organize and meet Secretary Shaw, former governor of that state, in a body, and escort him with a marching column from the train. New Books for the Public Library.

The Salem Public Library Association has recently ordered 160 new books, among which are the following: One set of World's Best Literature (10 vol.), edited by Julius Hawthorne; one set of Six Thousand Years of History; one set of Theodore Roosevelt's Complete Works (15 vol.).

New books at the library now are "Four Roads to Paradise," "The Yoke," and "The Castaways."

We have a call at the desk for standard German literature, and would be thankful for any donation of German books.

Do it today.

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'till tomorrow what you can do today," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it today!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TODAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.

Michigan Democrats.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 25.—Members of the Democratic state committee of Michigan and the candidates on the state ticket are in conference at the Bancroft House today to organize by selecting a new chairman of the committee and otherwise perfecting plans for the campaign. Matters in relation to the chairmanship have been in something of a muddle since the resignation of Chairman Barkworth. Just whom will be selected cannot be foretold, but that it will be a Campaign man is absolutely certain.

In addition to choosing a new chairman the committee meeting today will select a candidate for judge of the supreme court to take the place of Thomas A. Dogle, who was named by the Grand Rapids convention, but subsequently declined to accept the nomination. L. T. Durand is spoken of as a possible choice for the vacancy.
