

HEIRS RUSH AFFAIRS

Administrator in McVickers Estate Appointed for Fear of Trouble

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The heirs of Mrs. J. H. McVicker, who died at Pasadena, California, on Thursday, secured the appointment of an administratrix today in the probate court. The action was taken in anticipation of any clash that may result on the arrival of Dr. H. E. Zeigler in Chicago with the body. It is asserted in the petition that no will was left. The value of the property is estimated at $258,000.

The heirs named the application are Horace McVicker, Mrs. Sarah B. Game, of San Francisco; Miss Jennie Boydston, of Sterling, Ill. Neither Dr. Zeigler nor Mrs. Minnie Effe, of San Francisco, who has the reported will, are mentioned.

Rich Gold Fields.

Tokio, Aug. 29.—Following an inspection made by the government engineers, the government has issued a proclamation making complete preparation to develop gold fields recently discovered in the province of Iwate. The engineers estimate that these fields will yield gold to the value of $500,000,000, and they are now preparing to start mining operations. It is estimated that the annual yield of the mines will be $15,000,000.

Repudiates Socialism.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29.—The United Garment Workers of America, at the last meeting of their annual convention last evening voted down a resolution committing the organization to Socialism. A resolution exonerating Acting Secretary Thomas J. Crouchley of wrongdoing in office was unanimously adopted.

Cab Hire at Half Price.

The war on prices of cabs is still raging. Simpson's stables made the cut to one-half price, and still maintain those prices. Opposite the court

There are ginger worms and red-pepper bugs—queer boarders—that have to be looked for, not in Schilling's Best, but in making it. There are eggs of these queer boarders, too small to be killed by grinding. Don't keep spices warm, or they'll hatch.

TIMES SCORES BAILEY

New York Democratic Paper Wants Definite State- ment

New York, Aug. 29.—The New York Times, Dem., recalling a recent speech of Senator Bailey, in which he gave assurance that the Democrats, if in control of the government, would reduce the tariff but slightly, has this to say editorially:

"The Democrats may as well drop the tariff issue, if they cannot discuss it like men with robust convictions. They will win no votes by paltering with the subject. This is a year of plain speech. Voters of this country are without exception adults. Tariff discussion thus far heard in the campaign seems to have been addressed to nursery audiences.

"Senator Bailey began well, in that part of his Brooklyn speech which he devoted to tariffs. He approved the platform declaration that Dingleyism is 'robbery of many to enrich a few.' For a moment his speech gave promise of having real stuff in it, but the old 'tariff-scare' ghost rose before him, flapping its tattered ceremonies, and he instantly turned, as all half-hearted tariff talkers have got into the way of turning, and put himself on the defensive.

From that point on his speech was all apology and appeasement. Don't be alarmed, we shall touch the tariff but gently. We are not free-traders. There must be thumping big revenue raised, and its chief source must be import duties. It is perfectly well understood that those import duties will protect American manufacturers against their foreign competitors, and soon through the old, tiresome, nerveless, spineless rignarole—Lodge or Aldrich might as well have made the speech.

There is no virtue in the proclamation of a policy invariably accompanied by a naturalizing declaration that you don't mean a word you say. With the perfect frankness of a friend we must say that what was the matter with the tariff paragraphs of Judge Parker's speech of acceptance. There was no pledge, no promise, no affirmative declaration of Democratic opposition to the extensions, private favors and public outrages of the Dingley tariff.

"If the Democrats really intended to do nothing with the tariff, they should quit talking about it. Democratic orators ought to rid themselves of the paralyzing fear that the tariff reform campaign will disturb business.

"Nothing on earth would so help the business of this country as the cutting down of duties that stand in its way."

You Can't Afford

To walk to or from the depot when you can have a cab take you for 25c. Simpson's stables, opposite the court house.

The rarest of all wild beasts is the rhinoceros, and the only one in captivity is in the menagerie of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows. Naturalists estimate this specimen as beyond price, and scientists, explorers and students have come from all parts of the world to inspect the curious beast. The educational value of a visit to this menagerie cannot be overstated.

Do it today.
The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'till tomorrow what you can do today," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it today!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TODAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Bosch's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.
