POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

If we continue Republicanism and protection we shall soon be making the fifty million dollars worth of iron and steel products that are now imported.

The markets of the world for foreign imports amount to about ten billions of dollars annually. The home market of the United States, measured by the purchasing power of the people, amounts to considerably over twice that in value and is estimated by many to be worth thirty billions of dollars during every twelve months.

The outlook for a splendid fall business is most profitable and will continue favorable so long as Republican success seems assured beyond question.

President Roosevelt has been and will continue to be the President of the whole people, without regard to section, race, color or calling.

There is no doubt that Judge Parker thinks it expedient to declare that the gold standard is "irrevocably established," but we would like to know before the campaign is over whether Judge Parker believes in the gold standard against which he voted in 1896 and 1900.

No truer words were ever spoken than those of Senator Fairbanks in his speech of acceptance wherein he said: "President Roosevelt has been confronted with large and serious questions. These he has met and solved with high wisdom and courage. The charges made against him in the Democratic platform find an irrefutable answer in his splendid administration, never surpassed in all the history of the Republican party and never equalled by the party which seeks to discredit it."

GOOD REASONS GIVEN WHY STUDENTS SHOULD STUDY LAW IN A WESTERN SCHOOL.

(Oregon Law School Journal, Salem, September, 1904.)

It is a fact not generally known by persons who contemplate practicing law in Oregon or other Pacific Coast States that graduates of Eastern law colleges are not familiar with the law or practice here, and this familiarity with our procedure must be acquired after graduation at great expense and loss of time. When our attorneys of repute have a case in a sister state they always retain an attorney in that state to assist them, one who is familiar with the practice. And an attorney who would fail to do this would take grave chances on losing even a good case, however eminent he might be in his profession.

For these reasons and for others that readily suggest themselves to the reader, we have no hesitancy in saying that it will be for the best interests of law students to study in a Western law school where he will be environed by the theories of actual practice, instead of learning law where theories and practices adapted to Eastern states are promulgated. We do not wish to be understood, however, that all the law and practice is different in the East from that of the West. The common law rules are in the main the same, but on account of preponderating interests being different in the different Pacific Coast states from that of the East many rules which are adhered to there are greatly modified or discarded here.

STUDY LAW AS A PART OF YOUR BUSINESS EDUCATION.

(Oregon Law School Journal, Salem, September, 1904.)

The study of law, when systematically and intelligently pursued, is an easy, pleasing and interesting subject to comprehend. Law is only common sense, based upon reason and experience, applied to the regulation of the affairs of our fellow beings in their business intercourse with each other, defining their rights and duties toward each other and furnishing an orderly and just manner of redressing their wrongs and the protection of their property. If you are engaged in a life of business and follow any occupation or have any dealings with your fellow man you will find that it is all governed by just and wholesome laws, and that your education is not complete for a successful business career until you have acquired a knowledge of law. We do not say that all successful business men have studied law, but we do say that you will find that the greater portion of successful business men have studied law, though they may never have practiced before the bar. Many persons are now studying law, not with the intention of becoming a practitioner, but for the business education that law affords them. If you attend a law school a couple of winters you have prepared yourself so that you can be admitted to the bar, and you will scarcely notice the time which you have spent in obtaining this education. A legal education is within your reach, and all that you have to do is make up your mind that you will acquire it. It does not require a genius to study law, any one who has a common understanding can study law readily. Many young men, if they consider the time they have already wasted, know that if they had applied such time to a purpose that they would be enabled to complete any kind of an education they could desire.

A Special Policeman.

J. S. Stiles leaves for Salem Monday, where he will serve as a special policeman during the fair. There will be four of these special men, including Mr. Stiles, one each from Portland, Salem and one from Eastern Oregon. They are employed because of their peculiar fitness for the position, and, in the case of J. S. Stiles, is a compliment to his well-known ability over the state as a thief-catcher who is without a superior.—Eugene Register.

MORE GYPSIES ARRIVE

New York, Sept. 9.—The vanguard of a colony of 2000 gypsies who are planning to come to this country, arrived on the Carpathia, and was detained last night at Ellis Island. The party which arrived yesterday numbered 260, and a more picturesque band of immigrants has never tried to pass the threshold of the United States.

The band is under the leadership of Jose Micheal, who is a Brazilian by birth, but who says he is a naturalized citizen, having taken out papers in Boston.

Nearly six weeks ago he went across the water, it is thought, for the purpose of gathering the band of gypsies. When questioned by immigration officials he denied that he had collected the band, but said that he had met them on the boat, and had volunteered to help them after they reached this country.

They are going to Canada to settle. The entire group was looked upon with distrust by the immigration officials, and a rigid investigation will be made.

Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic

There is not a woman in this land but at some time in her life would have been the better for the use of this Tonic. For diseases peculiar to women a better medicine was never made. It is composed of the ingredients from which the system has been deprived by disease, overwork or dissipation. It enters at once into the circulation, building up the tissues that have wasted, making pure, rich blood in the most direct way. For weak, nervous, and unsteady people, pimply, pale or fleshless people, it will make strong, steady nerves and give the complexion that wholesome look that indicates health, producing good, solid flesh at the rate of 1 to 3 pounds per week. Druggists sell it for 75c per box, or 3 boxes for $2. It should be taken after meals, one or two tablets each time.

Fore sale by Dr. S. C. Stone, druggist.

To Promote Arbitration.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—Though the attendance will be relatively small as compared to that of some of the gatherings held in St. Louis this summer, the meeting of the International Arbitration Union here during the two weeks beginning today, is regarded as by far the most important convention of the exposition period. Those who have arrived to attend the sessions include some 300 men of world wide reputations, among them being eminent statesmen from nearly every country of Europe and representatives of the law making bodies of the Central and South American republics. Several scores of the members of the congress of the United States are expected to take part in the sessions.

As its name implies the union seeks to establish international arbitration as a means of settling disputes between the nations. One of the propositions that will be discussed and which may be expected to attract universal attention is that the President of the United States be requested to call a second congress of governments, similar to that held at The Hague, for the purpose of negotiating arbitration treaties between the United States and foreign governments, and between the governments of Europe, and also for the purpose of considering the reduction of armaments.

Listening for the Sound.

Every Inland Empire farmer has an ear upon the ground listening for the portage whistle—that rate-reducing sound! He has watched the legislature drill the hole and buy the fuse; he has flinched to feel his master turn again the grinding screws; he has seen the state commission pour the powder in the hole, where around the stony gateway, the waiting waters roll; he has heard the hot-air music from the press defiant flow, piping, "all is ready, governor, say the word and let 'er go!" He has seen the shots all capped and primed, has heard the doubtless scuff. Now he's listening for some one to touch the durned thing off.—Pendleton East Oregonian.
