

My Life

Hung On a Single Thread With Heart Disease.

You should never wait until your life hangs in the balance before you give the necessary aid to your sick heart.

A weak heart is always serious, for it affects every organ of your body through its inability to purify and keep the system supplied with pure, rich, life-giving blood.

Any indication of heart trouble, such as shortness of breath after exercise, redness of face, hot flushes, oppressed feeling in chest, weak, hungry spells, palpitation, dizziness, sudden starting in sleep, irregular pulse, is serious, and should be cured at once.

The safest and surest treatment is Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, a nerve and muscle builder, a blood tonic. It acts directly on the heart nerves and muscles, giving them strength and vigor, and relieves every symptom of a sick heart.

Your life depends upon your heart, and a weak, diseased heart, like a single thread, can endure but little.

"I suffered for years with my heart. At times my life hung by a single thread. A weak heart is always serious, for it affects every organ of your body through its inability to purify and keep the system supplied with pure, rich, life-giving blood.

Thomas Harte, a Leeds Irishman, claims to be the oldest man in the world—says he is 138. He was married five times and is the father of 45 children.

Judge Chas. H. Carey, of Portland, is to be a judge of the United States court of claims. If a man has a good law practice he had better keep out of political offices. But Carey is probably tired of politics, having been in the midst of it for many years.

Any man who has a good business had better let politics alone. It is an old rule well worthy of observation. Keep out of politics until you get out of debt.

Any other town in Oregon that wants to be the second city in the state the history of the country that any should at once proceed to chuck up such coins have been presented for redemption. It is more than a century since the first half-cent piece was coined, and it is nearly fifty years since the government discontinued minting them.

If there is any considerable element of people who want to try municipal ownership of a public lighting plant, there never was a better chance to try it on than at present. The charter permits it. The city would make money out of it. The property offered the city is a bargain.

It should never be overlooked that the common people, the laboring people make any city what it is. They are the consumers and the largest producers of wealth. No rich man or large property owner can make a town or city without the others to live from.

The Green Bay, Wis., Advocate reaches us with an enlarged edition devoted to the manufactures of that place. It is that kind of an edition that once in a while brings a city to the attention of the whole world.

Thomas James Allingham, and his son, G. L. Allingham, and wife, have returned from living in Eastern Oregon for some years, and will reside in Yew Park. His son will work in the woolen mills. Mr. Allingham says it is so hot in Eastern Oregon that it seems almost like heaven to get back to Salem.

The national convention of Colored Elks is in session at Atlanta City.

The famous Crocker brigade is in session at Waterloo, Iowa. They were a lot of Iowa troops that would rather fight than eat, and they did more of the former than of the latter a good deal of the time.

The Junior Order of American Mechanics, the annex to the A. P. A., is holding a national convention at Portland, Me.

That live lumbering town of Falls City, in Polk county, has a newspaper, except the Argus.

The treasurer of the United States on May 6, 1803, redeemed two half-cent pieces. This is the first time in the history of the country that any should at once proceed to chuck up such coins have been presented for redemption. It is more than a century since the first half-cent piece was coined, and it is nearly fifty years since the government discontinued minting them.
