LOST GIRL FOUND

Found Wandering About on Streets of Silverton at Midnight

The girl Myrtle Thompson, better known as Maggie Dietz, of North Salem, was picked up at Silverton, by the night watchman, and turned over to City Marshal Simeral, who notified Chief of Police Gibson, who went after her today.

She was taken in a buggy to Silverton by a man. She claims he was a married man, but does not know his name, or at least will not tell it. She began to walk about the city of Silverton Sunday, and kept it up all day, peering into shops, and attracting the attention of the people. She did not seem distressed, but evidently is not strong minded, and inclined to be silly. Sunday night, at an early hour, the marshal took her off the street and kept her in a room until morning, and then put her in charge of Mrs. Hansen, who conducts the Palace restaurant.

Mrs. Hansen told a Journal reporter that she was a hard-working girl, and extracted from her the information that it was a married man who carried her from Salem to Silverton, and left her on the streets. Maggie went with the Dietz family to Alberta, and came back to Salem with them during the past year. Indignation at Silverton runs high against her abductor, and if captured he may be severely dealt with. She will be returned to Salem today, and probably restored to the family.

DIRECT PRIMARY SECTION

Not Clear as to the Registration of Voters at Coming Election

The registration of voters commenced this morning, under the provisions of the direct primary law, enacted by the people at the last election. The law is very indefinite, and it is doubtful if a county clerk in the state understands its provisions. The books are closed and certified to prior to the state election, and now they must be reopened, and one question that worries the clerks is whether they can re-register voters that have already registered in other counties and precincts.

County Clerk Roland this morning refused to register voters who had changed their places of residence since their former registration, alleging that the law did not contemplate such action. He was very anxious to get a legal interpretation of the section authorizing him to reopen the books, and will submit the matter to Attorney General Crawford at once, so that voters will have a chance to register.

It is very important, not only for the presidential election, but also for the city campaign, which will be conducted under the direct primary law. A failure to register will cause considerable confusion, especially in city affairs, when it comes to nominating candidates for the various offices.

PORTLAND PRICES PREVAIL

The Grand Opera House will open on Wednesday night with "On the Bridge at Midnight," a very popular drama. It will be presented with elaborate scenic effects, and the company is said to be one of the best on the road.

The prices for this show will be 25 and 50 cents, the same that will prevail at the Portland house during their engagement in that city. Every attraction that is billed for the Salem houses will be played at Portland prices this winter. When a company receives $150 in the metropolis they will receive that and nothing more in Salem. When they play Portland at popular prices, popular prices will rule here. In this way the people of this city will be enabled to see the best shows on the road, and at the same time not pay exorbitant prices.

Many shows that will play in Salem during the season are from the Marquam Grand circuit, and will be higher priced than those from the Cordray house. Manager Meredith has made a great hit with Salem theater-goers in thus arranging prices for the winter.

Petersen Again in Court.

J. H. Petersen was arraigned this morning at 10 o'clock in the recorder's court on three charges, carrying concealed weapons, driving on the sidewalk and drunk and disorderly. Peterson, it will be remembered, is the individual who some time ago, while around town made a bet concerning a bottle of liquor, and was accused of taking the money. He was arrested and discharged, but now appears in trouble again. He was fined $25, which he is arranging to pay.

In tea, Schilling's Best is by no means the costliest tea; it's a matter of taste. Of the fine kinds, the one you like best is your tea. Your grocer's; moneyback.

Rain Coats

A rain coat is better than rheumatism, and costs much less. Pneumonia comes cheap, but goes high. A genuine cravenette rain coat on the back is worth two umbrellas in the hand. The cravenetting process don't make the fabric air-tight—nor yet deluge-proof; does make it non-absorbent of moisture and odorless—all without changing its appearance. An ideal rain coat and fall overcoat combined.

$12.50, $18 to $22.50

A rain coat is a necessity—not a luxury.
