For President. THEODORE ROOSEVELT, of New York. For Vice-President, CHAS. W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana. For Presidential Electors: G. B. Dimick, of Clackamas. A. C. Hough, of Josephina. J. N. Hart, of Polk. Jas. A. Fee, of Malheur.

ROOSEVELT AS A SAFE MAN.

Colonel Charles J. Bonaparte, of Maryland, is a man of great influence in business and commercial circles. In seconding the nomination of Robert Garrett as representative of the Second congressional district of Maryland, Colonel Bonaparte said:

Some of our Democratic friends are much troubled just now because they think President Roosevelt "unsafe." He has had to deal, probably, with more grave and delicate problems, demanding for their solution tact, patience, self-control, and sound judgment on his part, than any President since the close of reconstruction; and while in many cases he has done what many people thought he should not do, is nearly every instance he has surprised and disappointed his numerous critics by complete success. To note but a few illustrations: The pacification of the Philippines, success of self-government in Cuba, the settlement of the coal strike and the consummation of the Panama treaty, with its assurance of an isthmian canal. A man justified by the event in matters such as these is, I think "safe enough for another trial; and at all events, these so often mistaken in their prophecies of failure might know a little less assurance in calling him "unsafe." In truth, I doubt if we have ever had a President, and I, at least, have never seen a man more open to suggestion, advice or remonstrance than Theodore Roosevelt. He can not be ejected, he can not be bullied, he can not be bought, either with money or anything else. If Democratic editors mean that these qualities render a President "unsafe," then they are quite right to prefer another candidate; and I venture to add that David B. Hill is remarkably well fitted to suggest a candidate to suit them.

It may be owned that, whether Mr. Roosevelt be "safe" or not, certain classes of people would undoubtedly feel in greater safety were he out of the White House. "Grafters" who look to "pull" for immunity; men, whether rich or poor, few or many, in the North or in the South, who trespass on the constitutional rights of their fellows; rebels and conspirators in the Philippines; Moorish brigands who kidnap our citizens; South American adventurers who would "hold up" our canal—in short, criminals and law breakers of high and low degree in our midst, enemies of our country both at home and abroad, all these gentry agree in finding him too "strenuous" for their comfort, and would sleep better with a "safer" President at Washington. If the newspapers which declare him "unsafe" are the mouthpieces of one or more of these classes, I find no cause for wonder in their utterances; otherwise these seem surprising, except as showing that they have nothing more sensible to say.

PRINCE OF PROMOTERS.

All recall how within a year one J. J. Henry struck this town, and bought the Electric plant of the London & San Francisco bank. He paid that institution in bonds against the property. Then he proceeded to fill the air with promises of what he would do to improve the service.

He would build loops at each end of the line, build to Thomson and to Morningside and Liberty. Above all, he would make light so cheap that the poorest citizen could afford to have lights.

In the mean time he bought up the gas plant, for bonds, and got some contracts renewed, and then began to advance rates on lighting, until merchants and residents were forced to put in private lighting plants.

On the showing of increased earnings he was able to display he sold out his Salem properties, and cleaned up about $75,000. It was a good thing for J. J. Henry. But is it a good thing for the community?

Will not this community have to pay the earnings on increased capitalization? How long before there will be another clean-up?

IDLENESS AND IDEALS.

An interesting type of young woman is described in the prospectus of a fashionable salaried and health school in New England. It is the "semi-invalued young woman without definite aim in life."

Behind the sympathy, even tenderness with which she is described: "Capricious health and not having to work for a living are generally the initial factors in developing these cases. At the same time, high ideals are not wanting, and society or the ordinary duties of the home do not satisfy. The feeling of accomplishing so little in the life of such day torments the individual into a restless discontented state of mind, which after a time reacts unfavorably on the general health."

It is a fine Italian hand that links idleness and ideals! Surprisingly admit is the suggestion that the prospective patients are so exquisite as to be above "the ordinary duties of home."

The German Emperor's assertion that the interests of women should be limited to "the three K's" or, as we should say, "the three O's"—church, cooking and children—is unwarrantably dogmatic. But it can safely be said that there is something wrong with the ideals that urge young folks beyond the normal interests of their age and kind.

In primitive peoples the instincts are pretty much masters. Boys and girls find themselves swept into the fundamental relationships, conjugal and parental, without knowing how or why. Civilization, in prolonging education, has deferred these things until the mind is able to cope with them. Nothing is commoner than the type of young person who, seeing how artfully nature lures simple folk into the bondage of wifehood, the servitude of maternity, asserts its own superior wisdom by electing to have ideals—and idleness! But though nature in pursuit of her own ends, habitually hoodwinks her creatures, it is not so easy to out-trick her for ours! The ideals of idleness, even when they include much chasing of so-called culture, do not satisfy. Revolting nature "torments the individual into a restless, discontented state of mind, which after a time reacts unfavorably on the general health."

One of the cures practiced in such cases is the rest cure. No doubt it is necessary! But how much trouble and expense would have been saved if the patient had not despised the work cure!—Saturday Evening Post.

THE NEW HEALTH ORDINANCE.

Well, the city is to have a health ordinance. Now let all prepare to obey its regulations.

The city health board will probably make no unreasonable regulations, but work for a clean city.

The board and the city officials who have relations with it should work quietly.

At Portland they have a great deal of typhoid fever at present on the north side.

But the newspapers and health officers there are very circumspect that that nothing gets into print.

It is not necessary to spread contagion and reports of silt conditions through the newspapers.

It is neither right, wise nor necessary. Quiet work will accomplish greater results, and do no injury to the community.

Let the ordinance be published, and let all citizens learn its provisions, and prepare to obey them.

EDITORS MEET AT HOOD RIVER.

The meeting of the State Press Association at Hood River will be a great event socially, and everlastingly.

The people of Hood River are noted for their hospitality and will be found fully awake to the grand opportunities of the occasion.

Fruit fairs are common, but one held at this season, when the editors are there, will be something uncommon.

They raise apples up there as big as pumpkins, and of a great deal finer flavor. And they have bright people.

We bespeak for Hood River a good attendance on that occasion—October 14-15. Newspaper people will never regret their going to that place.

BOILS AND ERUPTIONS

Have been suffering from Impure Blood for many years, having Boils and other Eruptions. Having heard of S. S. S. I decided to try it, and am glad to say that it has done me a great deal of good. I intend to continue to use it, as I believe it to be the best Blood Medicine on the market. Cleveland, Tenn. W. K. DETERS.

For over fifteen years I have suffered more or less from Impure Blood. About a year ago I had a boil appear on my leg below the knee, which was followed by three more on my neck. I saw S. S. S. advertised and decided to try it. After taking three bottles all Boils disappeared and I have not been troubled any since. GEO. G. FRANKO, 714 W. Jefferson St., Louisville, Ky.

Newark, Ohio, May 25, 1903. From childhood I had been bothered with bad blood, skin eruptions and boils. I had boils ranging from five to twenty in number each season. The burning accompanying the eruption was terrible. S. S. S. seemed to be just the medicine needed in my case. It drove out all impurities and bad blood, giving me permanent relief from the skin eruption and boils. This has been ten years ago, and I have never had a return of the disease. MRS. J. D. ATHERTON.

country that has more than one city in this class.

Irrigation plans already outlined in California, Oregon and the Dakotas will involve the expenditure, in round numbers, of $27,000,000, and reclaim a million acres of land, capable of supporting a population of 500,000. This will be making blades of grass grow by the acre where not a single blade grew before. As the money is to be repaid to the reclamation fund from the sale of the reclaimed lands, the process can be repeated indefinitely, until all the lands known in American geographies of half a century ago as "The Great American Desert" have been conquered to the uses of civilization.

Good Spirits.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass state could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred and one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.

National Republican League.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 5.—The spacious auditorium of Tenthison Hall was crowded in every part this morning at the opening of the biennial convention of the National League of Republican Clubs. Owing to the interest in the presidential campaign the attendance is unusually large, and is likewise remarkable for the number of prominent party leaders present. Among these are Republican senators, representatives, governors, and other leaders from many states.

It was a few minutes after 10 o'clock when the national president, J. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, called the gathering to order. More than one thousand delegates were ranged by states on the floor of the hall, while several thousand spectators occupied the rear and the galleries. After brief welcome and responses Secretary Elbert W. Weeks of Iowa, read the call for the gathering, and various paragraphs of which were loudly cheered. President Moore then proceeded to deliver his annual address, which was permeated with Republican fervor and cordially received. Another feature of the opening session was the reading of a letter of greeting from President Roosevelt. The work of the convention is to include the election of officers, the reading of reports from committees and retiring officers, a general discussion of plans for the campaign and addresses by prominent party leaders. Tonight there will be a mass meeting at which addresses will be delivered by Senator Beveridge and Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury.
