

AS CURED QUICKLY

Rheumatism in Two Severe Cases Mastered in a Few Weeks

Public Interest Aroused by the Quickness and Completeness of the Cures, and the Remedy Used by Mr. Schroepel and Captain Balfour in Great Demand in the Vicinity of Their Homes

In the winter of 1902-3 Mr. Schroepel was attacked by rheumatism of a most pronounced and incalculable type. So severe was the attack that he was confined to his bed and was unable to help himself. A doctor was called in and treated him without success. He subsequently sought his health, however, by means which he described with great enthusiasm in response to an inquiry from his neighbors.

"After five or six weeks of helpless activity and pain," said he, "during which I was receiving visits at regular intervals from the doctor I felt as bad as ever and almost despondent of ever being well again. About this time my mother, an old lady, of eighty years, visited me and earnestly entreated me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for my ailment. She declared that she had received great benefit from their use in ridding herself of rheumatic pains even at an advanced age, and she was confident they would help me. At her suggestion I gave up the doctor's treatment, reluctantly, however, and a member of the family was sent to the nearest drug store for a supply of the pills and inexpensive remedy which was so strongly recommended."

"And were you cured as the result of taking her advice?"

"Yes, quickly and thoroughly. Before the second box was finished I felt a manifest improvement in my condition and within two weeks I was not only able to leave my bed but to resume the spring work on my farm which had so long been neglected. I continued to use the pills, however, until eight boxes had been taken, although long before that I felt that the vestige of the disease had been eliminated from my system."

"Are there no traces of your former illness left?"

"Absolutely none. For a year and three months there has never been the slightest return of the old trouble, and that is the more remarkable because for years before every storm or spell of dark weather had caused serious and painful twinges. For this happy result I and my family freely praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Within the bounds of China township, St. Clair county, Michigan, there is no better known farmer than Mr. Henry Schoepel. His fine farm, with its pretty white residence and attractive lawns and gardens, is admired by scores of people who daily drive to and from the city of St. Clair, by way of the North road. Mr. Schoepel's birthplace is at the homestead where King school stands, within a mile of his present farm, and the whole of his forty-two years have been spent on these two farms. His cure has naturally, therefore, attracted a great deal of attention.

One of Mr. Schroepel's neighbors, Captain George Balfour, who during the months of navigation has command of one of the merchant steamers running between Buffalo and Duluth, after hearing of the salutary results in Mr. Schroepel's case, decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for an attack of rheumatism from which he was himself suffering. He took eight or ten boxes and now declares himself free from this painful ailment. It is little wonder that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are much in favor and in evidence in almost every home in the community where Mr. Schoepel and Captain Balfour are so well and favorably known.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure not only rheumatism, but also all diseases of the blood, such as anemia, scrofula, erysipelas, and diseases of the nerves such as neuralgia, sciatica and paralysis. They are sold by all druggists.

SENATOR FULTON HONORED

The San Francisco Chronicle, in writing of the Fairbanks-Fulton meeting in that city, says:

Senator Perkins introduced Senator Charles W. Fulton, of Oregon, who spoke half humorously, half sadly of his sudden drafting into the party of speakers owing to Senator Dolliver's indisposition. Senator Fulton awakened great enthusiasm, and during the progress of his address the already white-hot spirit of the throng fused his eloquence into one of the most remarkable instances of sympathy between audience and speaker—a sympathy which could only find vent in cheers and cries and applause of every sort until the Pavilion rang and thrilled.

Poor Statue Unveiled.

Haekensack, N. J., Oct. 7.—A heroic bronze statue of Gen. Enoch Poor, a soldier of the American Revolution, was unveiled here today with interesting ceremonies and in the presence of representatives of patriotic organizations in various parts of New Jersey. The statue was erected by the New Jersey Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. It represents the soldier with cocked hat, regimentals, epaulettes, and high spurred boots, standing with bared sword, the point on the ground between his feet. The statue was designed by Emilio Piatti.

Georgia W. C. T. U.

Eastman, Ga., Oct. 7.—The State convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union which will be in session here during the next three days has attracted many representative women from various parts of the state. The large attendance and the excellence of the program combine to give promise of one of the most notable conventions ever held by the Georgia branch of the national organization.

MURDERER RELEASED FROM PENITENTIARY

Minneapolis, Oct. 7.—Frank H. Hamilton, whose killing of Leonard in this city several years attracted widespread attention, was released today from the Stillwater penitentiary, having served his sentence seven years less the usual allowance for good behavior. At the time of the tragedy Hamilton was a young newspaper man of this city. Leonard, his victim, was the son of a wealthy Minnesota lumberman, now dead. The killing took place in the billiard room of a leading hotel and it was said that a young woman well known socially was involved in the trouble between the young men. Evidence adduced at the trial, however, tended to show that the killing was the result of a drunken brawl more than anything else and was not premeditated.

It is reported that Hamilton will make his future home in New York, a position having been secured for him there by a relative.

The WIDE-AWAKE MAN

Is the man who KNOWS about things, instead of GUESSING at them. When he hears an unfamiliar subject spoken of, he makes it his business to find out about it. When he reads, it is with open mind, ready to seize upon every new fact and make it his own.

He knows that the watchword of the Twentieth Century is Alertness, and that he can only succeed by being ready for success, profiting by the mistakes and successes of those who have gone before. And so he keeps by his side that greatest of all repositories of human experience and wisdom,

The Encyclopædia Britannica

Whether in the home, store, factory or office, BRITANNICA has long since come to be a necessity. There are actually millions of these volumes now open to answer every question and meet every need. The school boy and girl turn to BRITANNICA to find out further facts in the history of some country they are studying; or for interesting data about Botany, or Geology, or Astronomy, or Physics. The man of business places it among his office necessities, with his telephone or typewriter.

The reason for this universal demand for BRITANNICA is that it is

The One Work That Tells All

Here you do not get the smattering of a subject. You get a complete survey of it, written by the greatest authority. There were 1100 specialists engaged upon the work, and as high as ten thousand dollars was paid for a single article. No less than fifty-seven of these articles have been reprinted in book form for use in schools.

The new Twentieth Century Edition represents the high-water mark of Encyclopædia making. It is not a matter of a few volumes; but with the American Supplement and Index consists of 31 MASSIVE VOLUMES, aggregating 25,000 large pages, fully illustrated, and covering the entire progress of the world to the present year.
