OFFICIAL CENSUS SALEM, MAY, 1904, 13,287.

Republican National Ticket

For President, THEODORE ROOSEVELT, of New York.

For Vice-President, CHAS. W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana.

For Presidential Electors: G. B. Dimick, of Clackamas. A. C. Hough, of Josephine. J. N. Hart, of Polk. Jas. A. Fee, of Malheur.

SPEECH.

Talk happiness. The world is sad enough

Without your woes. No path is wholly rough;

Look for the places that are smooth and clear,

And speak of those who rest the weary ear

Of earth, so hurt by one continuous strain

Of human discontent and grief and pain.

Talk faith. The world is better off without

Your uttered ignorance and morbid doubt.

If you have faith in God, or man, or self,

Say so; if not, push back upon the shelf

Of silence all your thoughts till faith shall come;

No one will grieve because your lips are dumb.

Talk health. The dreary, never changing tale

Of mortal maladies is worn and stale. You cannot charm, or interest or please.

By harping on that minor chord, disease.

Say you are well, or all is well with you,

And God shall hear your words and make them true.

WE ARE ALL BENEFITTED.

"How is it possible for a man not directly interested in protection to be benefitted by it?" asks the free trader. Let us see. There are several thousand growers of prunes in this state. Their industry has been called into existence by the protective tariff, which enables them to compete with foreigners, and finally take possession of the domestic market. These growers, as a rule, have families, and they employ domestics in addition to the laborers in the orchard. The latter may be regarded as direct beneficiaries, but the domestics are not, yet they are certainly benefitted. The growers and their families and their hired people need professional assistance. They require doctors, dentists, lawyers, ministers, schoolmasters, etc., all of whom are benefitted indirectly by the establishment and prosperity of the industry. Then there are merchants in nearby towns who sell things that meet the wants of the growers; they and their clerks are also benefitted. And then come the artisans who supply the wants of the growers, the tailors, shoemakers, etc. They, too, are benefitted. The merchants in the small towns buy from the jobbers in the big city, and they and their clerks are benefitted. And so is the servant girl and the butler who has a job in the house of a merchant who does a profitable business in the prune growing districts. And then, too, we must count in the mechanics in the city, who build the houses for the merchants and the clerks who sell to the prune grower—but why go on? Instead of it being difficult to show how any but the direct beneficiaries are affected by protection, it is simply impossible to examine into the matter without realizing that every worker in a protected country is benefitted. The interdependence is complete, and all share in the prosperity which the stimulus to industry afforded by protection promotes.

PARKER A SECTIONAL MAN.

Judge Parker, so far as he is a public man at all, is exclusively a New York public man. It is doubtful whether he can properly be called an eastern man. If he has ever been west of the Allegheny mountains no mention of it has been made since his name became known outside his own state. He is said and believed to know absolutely nothing even of the middle west save from hearsay. Of the great west we know he is totally ignorant, because no man can know a country so unlike his own unless he has made it long visits. This is a grave defect in any candidate for the presidency. The institutions of the east are settled. No President can greatly influence their character or destiny. The west is in a formative state. Its control is largely still in Federal hands, and its future must be greatly affected by Federal action. The Pacific coast has no quarrel with any part of the east and no jealousies whatever in regard to it; but we do need, and if possible, must have, a President of the United States who is personally familiar with the great west and in personal sympathy with its ideas, its material requirements and its spirit and aspirations. To the west in its present state these qualities in a President may be of more importance even than his general views on the larger national policies.

For the west Mr. Roosevelt is an ideal President. With his home, his interests and his early associations in the extreme east, he has nevertheless spent much of his time on the open western ranges, where he at one time had interests; is familiar with its needs and possibilities, and, almost more than any of our own people, inspired with its free spirit and its possibilities. And this is no local interest. It embraces half a continent. Upon the development of the west more than upon any other one thing depends the material prosperity of the east. For both sections and all sections of our common country it is vitally important that the office whose incumbent can do most to affect the destiny of the west should be one who is familiar with its conditions and in sympathy with its people. The west recognizes this. It has adopted President Roosevelt for its very own. The majorities which he will receive in these states will be phenomenal. It is not to convince western men that these lines are written, but to call on our brethren at the east to remember that the west has now arrived at that crucial point of its history when the interests of the entire nation demand a President familiar with the undeveloped half of it and who can be most helpful in shaping and determining the character of its civilization.

A FARMER'S IDEA OF ROOSEVELT.

Mr. David Rankin has the credit of being the most extensive individual farmer in the United States. He owns fourteen farms in Missouri which contain about 22,000 acres of land in all. He personally supervises the operations on all, aided by a resident foreman. In summer he employs as many as 700 hands in the field, and uses from 200 to 250 horses for the various divisions of farm work. He raises corn by thousand-acre patches, and in a single year has sold 8000 hogs and 75,000 cattle of his own raising. Mr. Rankin stands six feet two inches without his boots on, weighs 180 pounds, and began life as a poor boy. He resides at Tarkio, Mo., in the vicinity of his farm property. He writes to Leslie's Weekly:

"I like Roosevelt because he is a Republican. I'm a Republican farmer. We farmers are more interested in the tariff than anybody else. The manufacturers make our markets. Our only trouble under a Republican administration is to get men enough to do our work."

"I like Roosevelt's expansion ideas. The Panama Canal business is one of the biggest things this country ever undertook. It means larger opportunity for our young men. It will take some such man as Roosevelt to put it through. He has the 'seat' to make it go. I like men that have 'seat.'"

"I like Roosevelt because he isn't afraid. Most men go wrong in politics because somebody has scared them. Wall street don't like Roosevelt because he don't scare. The labor unions, some of them, try to run things by scaring the men who ought to run them. They haven't scared Roosevelt and they won't. I like men who don't scare."

"I like Roosevelt because he aims to do what's right. He's fair. He isn't trying to break 'trusts' for political effect. So far as its legal and right he will prevent their abuses. That's all anybody should ask him to do."

"D. R. RANKIN."

CONSIDERATE ATTENTION.

The recent decision of our supreme court in the Christian Science case has given rise to many newspaper comments throughout the country, following from the Press-Knickerbocker, of Albany, N. Y., indicates the drift of sentiment:

"Perhaps the public may have noticed that the opposition to Christian Science, which was very much in evidence a few years ago, is dying out."

"Worldly as a majority of our people may be, they have been quick to recognize the goodness which is in the new religion."

"There is nothing in Christian Science which would suggest opposition. Faith is the foundation of the belief which has Mrs. Eddy as its chief exponent. Those who accept the good woman's teachings live pure and upright lives. As pious as the Pilgrims

Fathers, the Christian Scientists are more liberal than those pioneers of religion in the new world.

"Since the immortal Declaration of Independence was given to freemen, our people have held that all men are 'endowed by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights,' among which are 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.' As men and women are happy in their religion, any belief which contributes toward the happiness of the world must at least receive the considerate attention of the American public."

CLEAN THE SCHOOL HOUSE GROUNDS.

The shabby condition of the public grounds about the school houses in this city is a cause of some unfavorable comment.

Much has been done to improve the interiors, in the way of tinting the walls and hanging pictures. But the grounds are neglected.

If the walls and the pictures and neat buildings are an aid to make the children neat, how much more the appearance of the grounds.

Whether this lies with the principals, the janitors, the city superintendent, or the school board or the people makes little difference.

Unightly woodpiles, brush and rubbish, old boards, tin cans, and waste paper scattered over the school grounds are not educational.

One beautiful school house on naturally beautiful grounds has six woodpiles scattered over it. With a world's fair year ahead of us this is a matter that needs attention on the part of some one.

SALEM FOR ROOSEVELT.

The city of Salem can be looked for to give President Roosevelt a rousing majority.

All remember the presence of the sterling young cowboy President in our midst last year.

All recall how, when some one shouted "Hurrah for Harvard," the President arose in his carriage, and asked "Who's that?"

Naturally a Republican city, and favoring aggressive policies, the Roosevelt vote here will be large.

The working Republicans have decided to have one grand rally on the 31st of this month.

Keep your powder dry and your shouting organs in trim for that occasion, and they will be needed.

Important.

Good Spirits.

Good spirits don't all come from Kentucky. Their main source is the liver—and all the fine spirits ever made in the Blue Grass state could not remedy a bad liver or the hundred and one ill effects it produces. You can't have good spirits and a bad liver at the same time. Your liver must be in fine condition if you would feel buoyant, happy and hopeful, bright of eye, light of step, vigorous and successful in your pursuits. You can put your liver in fine condition by using Green's August Flower—the greatest of all medicines for the liver and stomach and a certain cure for dyspepsia or indigestion. It has been a favorite household remedy for over thirty-five years. August Flower will make your liver healthy and active and thus insure you a liberal supply of "good spirits." Trial size, 25c; regular bottles, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores
