Vinol, the New Form of Cod Liver Oil

CAUSES A SENSATION IN MEDICAL CIRCLES.

Not Only in America, but in Europe.

"Good news goes fast," said Mr. Geo. W. Putnam yesterday, talking to a reporter about that wonderful Vinol, concerning which so much is heard nowadays. "Why, you know that besides being talked about in New England, many of the prominent papers in America are devoting care or less space to this wonderful discovery. See here, what do you think of this?" Whereupon Mr. Putnam produced an article from the Lancet, of London, England. The Lancet is the greatest medical publication in the world, and anything appearing in its columns is considered as indisputable evidence. "Let me read this to you," said Mr. Putnam. "I won't bother you with much of it, but here is enough to show you what the great men of the old world think of Vinol," whereupon he read the following:

"Recent investigation has led to the isolation of several distinct bodies in cod liver oil, notably amongst which are the alkaloids. These principles have been tested faithfully, and the results from the subject of an exclusive report by Gautier and Mourgues in the Journal de Pharmacie, who concluded that the combined active principles of cod liver oil act as powerful stimulants of nutrition and assimilation, and show definitely the nature of the principles to which the oil owes its valuable medicinal properties.

"And the best part of this is," continued Mr. Putnam, "it is not only the physicians that are enthusiastic, but the people who are taking the remedy. After all, I do not blame them much, either. It does not take but a minute for any one who is obliged to take cod liver oil to find out that Vinol is tasteless. Then the patient soon realizes its advantage. It does good so much more quickly, and accomplishes the desired end in a much more marked manner than cod liver oil in its crude form was ever able to do. Oh, yes, of course I consider the success of Vinol as assured. How can it be otherwise—a discovery that has revolutionized the form and made it practical to prescribe the greatest known medicine for all wasting diseases.

"Just think what it means—getting all the benefits in a concentrated form, and no more nauseating, vile-smelling grease. Yes, come any time you would like to see me. I am always glad to see you about Vinol, and I find out more to say in its praise every day."

Warming Up Drew.

Ed. Journal: Prof. Drew's, et al., little dodger, which is now issued on Saturday instead of Sunday, as formerly, cites as one of the reasons why local option is going to carry next November, that the "Journal" is against it. This sort of three-cornered fight, or state of affairs, between the two daily papers and the professor's dodger, reminds us of the condition in which we find our Presidential campaign. Populist Watson, in his letter of acceptance, declared he had respect for Roosevelt, who came out into the open and says to the enemy, "here I am. You know what I stand for and what I represent. Come along and fight me." But he had no respect for Parker, who like a sphinx, sat silent, and for aught anyone knows, was playing two hands in the game. Parker retreated behind a mask of silence and stood for nothing, but always replied that he was "against" whatever the other fellow was for. Now, the Drew dodger is positioned like Watson. It has a chance to appreciate open campaign work, but reserves its stuns for an open fighter, while it patronizes a Parker. Watson, on the contrary, flays the silent coward and highly commends the position of his most formidable enemy. Dodger, however, attacks the only open fighter in the campaign. It has been said, before now, that one press won't print in two colors. In the stress of breaking the Sabbath by working, is there any technical difference between tending bar on Sunday and getting out a campaign dodger between sermons? The "Journal" at least don't break the Sabbath by compiling materialistic political "waps" on Sunday. The dodger's first issue started with a Sunday edition. The serious effect this impractical warfare inaugurated by "what we cannot control, shall not be controlled," is going to have upon the students, coming from far as well as near, who are registering under this exponent of Sunday campaign dodgers, will be considered in the near future. Parents at this day are growing slower in sending their children to institutions under the governing hand of campaign artists in local politics. The institution from which the editor of the Dodger gets a chance to earn a livelihood, has been a pet with Salem for years. It has been touching the public purse ever since it was formally opened. It is even now asking that we forget our recent raising its $30,000 indebtedness and put up a nice new $5000 medical hall. We want to see new buildings, but it will never be said it was "Drew" out of us by this sort of campaigning. When President Coleman was questioned as to local affairs, he said, "It is never good policy to meddle with local politics," yet we all know he was as thoroughly awake to both the legal and moral nature of the existing conditions as any one else in Salem. In the week-day edition of the Dodger it cites a remedy for replacing the deficit impending the loss of saloon license to the city and states it is offered upon the suggestion and advice of a "prominent attorney," who, doubtless is the very attorney who sits and votes for a saloon license, and never records his emphatic NO! when the roll is called. How can the editor of the Dodger seek the aid of a sub-editor who is voting for license? The position of the assistant, counseling and advising editor is untenable in this Watson-Parker-Roosevelt campaign, for the simple reason he is voting for a license, and thus selling the right to carry on criminal business for $400 a year, and at the same time aiding in a fight to close the very saloon which he himself gives the privilege of operation according to city ordinance. If a man can't see this with one pair of specs, how many pair of specs will it take to make him see that?

A Word for the Boy.

Ed. Journal: Our part of the city is torn up over a boy. There seems to be no one to say a word for the boy, who has been the innocent cause of all the trouble. His mother wanted him to comb his hair before going to school, and did not succeed in making him do it. She then took him to school, and asked the teacher to make him comb his hair. The teacher tried to make him perform his tonsorial duties, but failed, and the mother suggested that the principal be invited in, and they all three had it out with the boy right then and there before the whole school. Result, boys' hair still not combed, several black and blue marks on boy's neck, mother enraged and takes the boy before the school directors, and the city superintendent spends several hours trying to straighten out the matter. It will all be fixed up, but the boy is still unkempt. The mother is right in trying to have her child go with his hair dressed to school. But the publicity given the whole subject is not right to the child. The boy's hair should have been combed in private. The mother should have spoken to the teacher privately. The teacher should not have reprimanded the child in the presence of others. The principal should not have taken a hand in the way he did. The boy probably has some feelings of his own, and the three grown persons should learn to rule by intelligence and govern by love rather than by issuing orders and laying down laws that they must then proceed to enforce or suffer loss of authority. But the loss of a child's self-respect should also be considered. If grown-ups do not cherish that article as highly as it should be.

BOY FRIEND.

Ed. Journal: As a resident of Yew Park, I desire to say a few words concerning the treatment we are receiving at the hands of the city officers. About a week ago Special Officer Penland arrested eight hoboes who were camped in Yew Park. These fellows had lived there several days, and were very independent and impudent to the neighbors. They helped themselves to chickens, potatoes and wood, in fact everything eatable suffered from this gang of lazy marauders. The next day they were turned loose by the police judge, with the warning to get out of town. They immediately returned, and it was necessary for the officers to again serve notice on them to move. Sunday night Officer Penland again arrested eight in almost the same place, and guilty of the same crimes. They were lodged in the city jail, charged with vagrancy, and Mr. C. Rogers, on whose place they were camped, went down to the police court Monday morning to swear out warrants on a charge of trespass, but they had been turned out. People out our way are determined to stop the tramp nuisance, and if the city courts will not protect the residents of this part of the incorporation, they will hold another style of court out in the suburbs. It is up to the proper channel.

Deposed Sovereign to Marry.

Paris, Oct. 25.—The ex-emperor of Annam, Ham-nghi, who since his capture in the mountains of Kwang-si, after a long and bitterly-waged war of rebellion against the French, has been kept a prisoner at Algiers, has just obtained the authorization of the French government to his marriage with a young French woman named Laloe, the daughter of a judge at the appeal court of Algiers. Mlle. Laloe fell violently in love with the deposed sovereign some time ago, but the suit was opposed by the girl's father, on account of the would-be bridegroom's color and religion. Finally, through the applications of the young lady, all barriers to the match were broken down, and a marriage arranged. The ex-emperor now receives an annual pension of $6000 from the French government, and will receive about $20,000 a year after his marriage.

So great is the success of William E. Gorman's farce, "A Friend of the Family," that he has been induced to try fortune on Broadway, New York, with it, and after the present tour of the West will go to the Bijou theater for a run. His company will be exactly the same as the one which appears at the Grand opera house one night, Thursday, October 27th, which includes William Friend, late star with "Stranger in a Strange Land," Harry Crandall, the original "Burgomaster," Eugene Redding, who was a member of "Why Smith Left Home" company, during its successful New York and London engagements, Miss Helen Travers, of Charles Frohman's "Are You a Mason," Thais Magrane, late woman with Joseph Haworth, Violette Villiers, who scored a hit with Klaw & Erlanger's "Liberty Belles," and others.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co. Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. L. C. Glover, Vice Pres. Milwaukee Business Woman's Association, another one of the million women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: I was married for several years and blessed my home. The doctor said I had a complication of female and I could not have any children unless I could be cured. He tried me, but after experimenting for several months, my husband suggested, and one night when we noticed a testimonial of a woman who had been cured of similar trouble through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, he went out and bought a bottle for me. Your medicine for three and one half months, improving steadily, and in twenty-two months a child came. I cannot fully express my thankfulness that is in my heart. Our home is a different place now, have something to live for, and all the credit is due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Yours very sincerely, Mrs. L. C. Glover, St. Milwaukee, Wis." Vice President, Milwaukee Business Women's Association.

Women should not fail to profit by the experience of the women; just as surely as they were cured of the troubles related in their letters, just so certainly will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure others who suffer from womb inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous exhaustion and nervous prostration; remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.

An Indiana Lady Tells of a Wonderful Cure:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: It is a long time since I have been able to write and tell what your medicine has done for me. I was three years with change of life, physician thought a cancerous condition of the womb. During these three years I suffered untold agony.

"I cannot find words in which to express my bad feelings. I did not ever see another well day. I read some testimonials recommending your medicine and decided to write to you and give you my name.

"Before I had taken half a box of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to sleep. I have had six bottles and am so well I can do my work."—Mrs. LIZZIE HINKLE, Ind.

If there is anything in your case about which you want special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She can answer you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. Address is Lynn, Mass.; her advice is always helpful.
