

TRAVELERS AT THE WORLDS FAIR

St. Louis, Oct. 22.—Of course no one everywhere, rain or shine, and where ever he goes he uses it to point out objects of interest. Now it's all right to poke a big red, yellow and green poll parrot in the Honduras building. All he can do is to squawk profanity and say "shut up!" But when it comes to poking at $400 vases in the Japanese section or at the porcelain wares in the German section it is a different matter. One fellow with a 90-cent umbrella damaged a $200 Rockwood lamp in the Varied Industries building the other day.

The woman who doesn't know how to step into a boat is also here. Most women have learned how to step off a trolley car, but they don't step into lagoon launches every day. A party of five were capsized and thrown into the lagoon one day this week because one Fair, an of course he must carry it boat instead of in the bottom. The whole bunch was fished out of the lagoon by the by-standers.

One of the interesting sights in the Varied Industries building is the procession that lines up to the attar of roses fountain in the Bulgarian section, each one with his handkerchief ready to hold under the drippings from the fount. Some days, however, this fount is not discovered for hours, when some individual who knows all about it walks up and saturates his handkerchief with the rose-scented water. Then the crowd like a flock of sheep, proceeds to perfume itself.

Making attar of roses is a great industry in Bulgaria, and this fount is intended to illustrate the bountiful richness of the country's product. The sculptural part of the fountain represents the struggle between Turkey and all races under one Turkish oppression. The roses from which the attar of roses is made grow in great luxuriance in the valleys of the Balkans, the soil and climate being peculiarly adapted to the growing of roses that are rich in the oil that gives them their odor. One dealer in this country sells a million dollars worth of Bulgarian attar of roses every year.

Equally interesting are the men who line up to a hole in one of the booths from which air is escaping and which they find will brush their hats clean. Each one holds his hat against it until it is thoroughly "brushed" and goes away happy in the satisfaction that there is no colored man near by to demand a "tip." It is only a feature of an exhibit which illustrates the dustless method of cleaning carpets and furniture by sending compressed air through them by means of a hose attached to the pumping apparatus that stands out in the secret. The old way was to "beat the life out of them" with a stick.

Butter on the Curb.

Claude Burris, the genial counter-jumper at the Harriet & Lawrence grocery store, is an accommodating young man and takes out little packages for the customers whenever necessary. He started down the street yesterday just at the noon hour with a large roll of butter for a local restaurant. He carried the "grease" under his arm and was mounted on his faithful bike.

As he rounded State street he made a misene, and boy, bicycle and butter piled up in one forlorn-looking pile. The butter was uninjured, but the rider

YOUNG WIFEHOOD

Boston, Mass., 152 Shawmut Ave., Oct. 25, 1902.

After I had been married about four months I felt my health generally decline. I seemed to lose the light step and dragged wearily along instead. My appetite failed me and I lost health and strength. I was nervous and had shooting pains through my limbs and stomach while bearing down pains and constant headaches added to my misery. The menstrual flow became more and more profuse and I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. My husband called in three different physicians and I took enough medicine to kill or cure a dozen women, but it all had no effect on me whatever, until I took Wine of Cardui. In a few days I felt a change for the better, my general health improved and at the next time of my periods my flow was more natural and I was in less pain. Gradually I recovered my health and strength and am now in perfect health. I take an occasional dose of Wine of Cardui which keeps me well.

I am happy to give you this endorsement.

Bessie Ricker
President, Back Bay Woman's Club.

Why don't you try for the same health Mrs. Ricker has? It is easy to secure if you take Wine of Cardui according to directions. Wine of Cardui strengthens weak and worn-out women of any age and assists the mother and housewife to bear her exacting duties. Wine of Cardui makes women fit for all the duties of womanhood.

It will relieve the pains of irregularity, cures falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, ovarian troubles, and has been known to remove what physicians considered dangerous tumors. Women who use Wine of Cardui do not suffer at the monthly periods. They do not suffer hysterical attacks, because Wine of Cardui gives them strong nerves freed from the irritation of female suffering.

A $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui purchased from your druggist will keep you free from pain.

We've only one life to live,
So in living let's all try to give
Of comfort and joy, not things that annoy,
For we've only one life to live.

Some day we'll be a long time dead,
So in living don't let it be said
That you're a back number
And to the "times" you do slumber,
For you'll sure be long enough dead.
