PATRIOTISM

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia.

The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier, and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

"After I received the advice which you gave me in regard to my treatment," writes Geo. Dornier, Esq., of 705 Pulaski street, Baltimore, Maryland, "I used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' according to directions. After using four bottles I considered myself cured, as I have not felt any symptoms since. Had tried almost all remedies that I heard of that were good for dyspepsia, but without relief. Finally, I became discouraged, and wrote to you for advice, with the above result."

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 31 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEW YORK LETTER

New York, Nov. 12.—So many sumptuous new hotels in New York have been constructed lately, or are now approaching completion that the facilities for luxurious existence within the city have been greatly increased. Indefatigable, indeed, are the efforts of many people to enjoy themselves more liberally than in other years, and the efforts of professional gamblers to afford them abundant opportunities for amusement are persistent. Close under the shadow of one of the most palatial hotels recently opened in upper Broadway some members of the regular detective force succeeded recently in gaining entrance to a house which was used for faro and like games. After a somewhat stormy and tempestuous experience they succeeded in bringing about the capture of the professional experts. A great deal of money is being risked at night, as well as in the daytime, by the adventurous.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hills, of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, is for the strenuous religion. The present-day religious spirit, he thinks, is not sufficiently militant, and recently, aided by the distinguished English Congregationalist, the Rev. William T. Lawson, of London, he has started out on an evangelistic campaign in Brooklyn along new lines.

When he left the Presbyterian church to enter the Congregational denomination, his letter to the Presbytery of Chicago giving his reasons for the change, revealed him as thoroughly dissatisfied with conventional methods of church life, and with the Laodicean temper of the times, and he then proposed that he and Dr. Gunselius, of Chicago, start out on a preaching tour of the large cities of the country, calling the church to life and the sinner to repentance. Dr. Hills is a liberal in theology; hence his mission and his methods will attract the more attention.

New York youngsters liberally grope up on the fire escape. To the average child two places of freedom only are possible—the street and the fire escape—and even these are forbidden territory, the former by his mother and the latter by the municipality.

But the fire escape child knows nothing of the municipality and has a good deal of fun in his narrow quarters. He makes acquaintances with other fire escape children across the back court, and for hours dally they all play "together," although 100 feet apart. Four children in Harlem have played contentedly so all summer and fall and have never yet been inside each other's houses. They play "house," "soldier," "Indian," and "camping out," and they fish with a long pole and bent pin over the rails of their respective fire escapes, making more marvelous catches than ever were lured out of the water. The janitors object, and the tenants complain, but it makes no difference to the boys. The New York youngster does have a hard time of it—but he doesn't know it.

Another effort is to be made by expectant heirs to reclaim a large strip of Manhattan Island. This time the persons interested are descendants of Andrew Hartsfield, who in 1795 leased to the city of New York 100 acres west of Central park. This property is estimated today to be worth $500,000,000. The Hartsfield heirs, 150 in number, are represented by J. T. Cowan, of Dallas, Texas, himself a direct descendant, who has come to New York to begin suit in the United States court. Mr. Cowan has in his possession the original lease and scores of letters written and received by his ancestors relative to the transaction.

Carriage dogs, the old-fashioned black and white spotted breed that long ago were a recognized adjunct of every village equipage, are coming into fashion again in the country colonies. On the roads in Westchester it is usual now to see one of these "huckleberries and milk" dogs, as they are called because of their peculiar spotting, trotting tirelessly along under the axle of a dog-cart or runabout. The breed went so completely out of popularity that dogs are now exceedingly hard to get. A stableman opposite one of the big clubs who is the fortunate owner of a pair of these Dalmatians recently realized $250 on a litter of ten and has a waiting list.

To celebrate his election as the first president of the new village of Rye, William H. Parsons has offered the Haviland inn, the oldest hotel in Westchester county, to the village for a municipal hall. The inn stands in the middle of the village square, and was recently purchased by Mr. Parsons. It was known as a tavern as early as 1750. Washington mentioned in his diary that he stopped there overnight while on his way to the battle of Horse Neck. Later General Lafayette was entertained there. Mr. Parsons stipulated in his offer that it must be maintained in its present style and be used as a museum for the exhibition of historic relics and for village purposes.

Few men but those working along the river front know that the Slocum disaster created more work for ship carpenters than anything that has happened for years, and its effect is still felt. Never before has there been such an overhauling of old hulks as during the last six months. Old hulks have been practically rebuilt, even to the smallest of the river craft, and the shipyards have contracts that will keep them busy for months to come.

After a varied career the Hotel de Logerot, at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Eighteenth street, has virtually passed out of existence with the surrender of the lease by the management. The building will shortly be torn down and a big office building will be erected on its site.

The hotel was opened by the Count de Logerot in 1891. He designed to make it the most fashionable place of its kind in the metropolis, and to this end expended a large fortune on its furnishings. But it failed to "catch on" with the fashionable set and during the last decade has repeatedly changed management. Lately it has fallen on such evil days that it became impossible for the proprietors to make ends meet.
