FOUND DEAD IN STREET

Chicago Automobile Driver Shot to Death While Running Car for Another Party

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Murdered in his automobile, evidently while driving the same, an unidentified man, who is supposed to be Wm. Bates, a chauffeur, was found this morning on Archer avenue near Lamont, a Chicago suburb. His hands were clasped to the steering wheel, and he had a bullet wound in the back of his head. An empty cartridge was found in the bottom of the car. After the shooting the car had apparently started back into a ditch, but someone had placed an obstruction behind it to prevent the car from leaving the road. The car bore the Chicago license No. 278, and was rented at 9 o'clock last evening to a man giving the name of Dove. Shortly afterward the machine was seen leaving the Auditorium. The police are investigating the mysterious affair.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—Bates, the murdered chauffeur, was employed by the Dan Canary Automobile Company, on Wabash avenue. The machine was sent to the Auditorium, in response to a call from a man giving the name of Dove, who has not since been seen.

An action for the recovery of real estate by George J. Wolfer against H. A. Hinkle and H. A. Hinkle is being tried this afternoon in Justice Turner's court. Bonham & Martin are attorneys for the plaintiff, and Carson, Cannon & Cannon for the defendants. The complaint states that defendants have possession of a 10-acre hop yard and adjoining, in all 79.39 acres, and refuse to vacate same. The answer states that defendants leased the property from plaintiff for one year at $100 per year and that there was a lease giving them an option for four years, and that plaintiff had no right to order them off if they paid the required money every year for that time. The first year of the lease expired October 1, 1904.

LABOR CONVENTION ACTS ON IMPORTANT MATTERS

A long resolution, intended to state the principles of the federation as a rebuke to the Employers' Association, was rejected.

It was held that such action would be taken as a sign of weakness. The convention also put itself on record as against the establishment of an arbitration board, to be appointed by the secretary of labor and commerce, Congressional bills providing for the abolishment of child labor, and to prevent competition between army and navy musicians and civilian musicians were endorsed.

OFFICERS ON TRACK OF FIREBUG

Burning of Old Mill Last Night Leads to Clew—No Arrests Made

Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening the wooden mill on North Mill creek, was discovered in flames, and the fire department responded promptly to the summons, but when they reached the the fire the building was a mass of flames, and its total destruction was only a question of time.

and tried to turn in an alarm, but the telephone line was not working at the time, and they could not get Central. The alarm was rung in by some one on another line soon afterward.

The burned building was known as Mill "A" and was the property of the Salem Flouring Mills Company. It escaped from the fire of several weeks ago, when the large brick mill was destroyed.

The officers have been following a clue from the time of the first fire, and last night they unearthed evidence that will warrant an arrest in the near future. The party accused of the crime is a young man about 29 years of age, and resides in North Salem. He was around the building yesterday afternoon, and remarked to the workmen employed in tearing down the walls of the brick mill, "that the wooden mill would make a fine fire." Last night, after the alarm was turned in he emerged from the river bank, several blocks from the mill, making it almost certain that he had first started it, and then made his escape along the river.

The wooden mill contained a quantity of flax fibre, ready for the linen mill, also several tons of straw, and a scutching machine.

It is impossible to see what object he could have in destroying the property, except for the purpose of seeing the buildings burn. Other purposes may develop later, and the young man, who is being shadowed, may have accomplices.

The total loss will be about $4000 on the building and perhaps $1000 on the contents, which were owned by E. Bossa, the flax man.
It is certain that the fire, like the preceding one was of incendiary origin, and was started in several places in the building. The family of E. C. Herzer, residing about two blocks south of the mill property, first discovered the fire,

MASONIC LODGES INVEST

In State Street Property and Will Erect a Modern Four Story Building

The Masonic fraternity of this city last evening voted to purchase of Mrs. J. M. Kyle the property on the northwest corner of State and High streets, and the deed will accordingly be made within a short time. The purchase price is not made public, but it is understood to involve a considerable sum.

tion of a modern building, at least four stories in height, and perhaps even higher. They have at the present time several propositions under consideration, which will materially affect their plans one way or the another, but it is certain that the building will be erected.

The corner is one of the most valuable and slightly in the business portion of the city, and is vacant. It is in a prosperous district, and the announcement that the Masons have purchased it will mean much for the city.

"For some time the members of the order have felt the need of a home of their own, and realized that a modern office building would be a paying investment, besides being a valuable acquisition to the city. They sought a suitable location, and selected the State street lots on account of their central location to the heart of the business district, and to the county, government and state buildings.

A leading member of the order said this morning: "It is true that the Masons have invested in the property mentioned, and we intend to erect a temple on the lots in the near future. While it cannot be stated definitely just when the active work will commence on the structure, it is safe to say that within a year the building will be completed. The lodge contemplates the erection of a modern building, at least four stories in height, and perhaps even higher. They have at the present time several propositions under consideration, which will materially affect their plans one way or the another, but it is certain that the building will be erected.

"The plans which are under consideration involve the erection of a building modern in every respect. It will be fitted with steam heat, and equipped with a complete elevator service."

A conference of both sides of the furniture wagon strike will be held today, in order to effect a settlement, if possible.
