UNION LABEL CAPITAL

OFFICIAL CENSUS SALEM. MAY, 1904, 13,287.

MR. CORNELIUS AS MARSHAL.

Of course, the Salem marshalship was promised to some one else by a few bosses. They were put out at Tom Cornelius' strength.

Mr. Cornelius was from the suburbs. He never asked permission to become a candidate except from his friends and the people.

A chief of police that wasn't the choice of a few politicians is a great victory for the decent people of the city.

The old partnership between the machine and the tenderloin elements has not been revived in the recent election, and never will be.

If a Republican who is a clean, honest man in his family life, a hard working taxpayer, can't make a good marshal, who can?

Let the better element of the community take courage. The Republican city administration will be found treating them fair.

BETTER MOTHERS.

Here is a pen picture of that true, old-fashioned mother of Bible times—Hannah—and there are so many points worthy of consideration by mothers of the present time that The Journal is going to quote a portion of the sketch:

"'Hannah as a mother was enthusiastic. She believed that children were blessings from the Lord and that motherhood was the highest possible honor. Another thing, when Hannah's child came she considered it a part of her religious duty to take care of it. Instead, therefore, of going up to Shiloh to attend all the great feasts, as she had done before, she stayed at home to give personal attention to the little one that God had given her. No doubt she supposed she was worshiping God just as acceptably in doing this as if she had gone up to all the great meetings. And who will say that she was not right? A mother's first obligations are to her children. She can have no holier or more sacred duties than those which relate to them.

"She may run to temperance and missionary meetings and abound in all kinds of charitable activities, and may do very much good among the poor, carrying blessings to many other homes and being a blessing to other people's children through the Sabbath or mission schools, but if she fails meanwhile to care for her own children, she can scarcely be commended as a faithful Christian mother. She has overlooked her first and most sacred duties, to give her hand and heart to those that are but secondary to her.

"Hannah's was the true one. A mother would better be missed in the church circles and at the public gatherings than be missed in her own household. Some things must be crowded out of every earnest life, but the last thing to be crowded out of a mother's life should be the faithful and loving care of her children. The preacher may urge that every one should do something in the general work of the church, and the superintendent may appear for teachers for the Sabbath school, but the mother herself must decide whether the Master really wants her to take up any religious work outside of her own home. For the work there she is surely responsible until the other is well done.

The best thing about Hannah was that she took care of her own child. She did not go to an intelligence office and hire a foreign nurse at so much a week and then commit her tender child to the nurse that she herself might be free from social and religious duties. She was old-fashioned enough to prefer to care for her own child. She does not seem to have felt it any great personal privation, either. She even appears to have thought it a high honor and distinguished privilege to do with her own hands a mother's duties. And when we think what this child became in after years, what the outcome was of all her painstaking and toil, it certainly looks as if Hannah was right. If anything half so good would come ordinarily out of faithful mothering, there are certainly few occupations open to women, even in these advanced nineteenth century days, which will yield such satisfactory results in the end as the wise and true bringing up of their children. The great want of this age is mothers who will live with their own children and throw over their tender lives all the mighty power of their own rich, loving natures. If we could have a generation of Hannahs we would then have a generation of Samuels growing up under their wise, devoted nurture.

"There is one other feature in this old-time mother that should not be overlooked. She nursed her child for the Lord. From the very first she looked upon him as God's child, not hers, and considered herself only God's nurse, whose duty it was to bring up the child for a holy life and service. It is easy to see what a dignity and splendor this gave to the whole toilsome round of motherly tasks and duties with the successive days brought to her. Nothing ever seemed drudgery, no duty to her little one was hard or distasteful, with this thought ever glowing in her heart. And is there another woman who may not have the same inspiration as she goes through her round of commonplace nursery tasks? Was Samuel God's child in any higher sense than are the little ones of thousands of mothers today? All children belong to God, and every mother is responsible for their molding and training for His service. Hannah understood this and found her task full of glory. But how many, even among Christian mothers, fail to understand it, and unsustained by a consciousness of the dignity and blessedness of this high calling, look upon its duties and self-denials as a round of toilsome, wearisome drudgery? It will be well worth while for every mother to study the motherhood of Hannah and learn from her of its blessedness."—Home Culture.

CONDENSED KNOWLEDGE

A man is what he thinks.

There's a fool for every folly.

Truth is the buffer of diplomacy.

The gossip's sting is in her tale.

Fashion is the juggernaut of fools.

The horsey woman likewise has her nay.

Gruffness is the outpost of a mean spirit.

The assinity of some men is forever braying.

Duty is a strict master, but the wages are paid in con that has currency with God.

Election Day in Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 13.—Little public interest is manifested in the municipal elections being held today in all towns in Mississippi operating under the code chapter on municipalities. The Democratic primaries were held some time ago and the municipal officers for the next two years named. The result in all cases are a foregone conclusion, as no opposition tickets have been named.

Trial of Von Pleve's Assassin.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 13.—The trial of Sasrneff, who assassinated Interior Minister von Pleve in July last, and Sikorifsky, his accomplice, began before the appeal court today. The trial is being conducted behind closed doors.

Fight Will Be Bitter.

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. R. Beall, of Beall, Miss., has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her. Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist. Price 50c, $1.00. Trial bottles free.

For Orphan School.

Two sisters of charity, from the St. Mary's Home for Orphans, at St. Paul, Ore., were in the city yesterday, soliciting aid for the school. Any offerings of food, clothing, etc., will be gratefully received by them, and if sent to the Sacred Heart Academy in this city will be forwarded to St. Paul.

In Finest Variety.

Gold watches and charms for ladies and gentlemen, also all kinds of jewelry at greatly reduced prices, at W. Calvet's, Practical Watchmaker, 158 State street. 12-10-eod-2wk

Miss Lola Senders, of Harrisburg, is visiting with the Misses Creighton. She has recently returned from a several month's trip in the East.

My! My! You are growing old fast!

And you know why, too. It's those gray hairs! Don't you know that Ayer's Hair Vigor restores color to gray hair? Well, it does. And it never fails, either. It stops falling hair also, and keeps the scalp clean. Sold for sixty years. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Miss Hapgood tells how she was cured of Fallopian and Ovarian Inflammation—and escaped an awful operation by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for four years with what the doctors called Salpingitis (inflammation of the fallopian tubes) and ovaritis, which are most distressing and painful ailments, affecting all the surrounding parts, undermining the constitution, and sapping the life forces. If you had seen me a year ago, before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and had noticed the sunken eyes, sallow complexion, and general emaciated condition, and compared that person with me as I am today, robust, hearty and well, you would not wonder that I feel thankful to you and your wonderful medicine, which restored me to new life and health in five months, and saved me from an awful operation."—MISS IRENE HAPGOOD, 1022 Sandwich St., Windsor, Ont.

Ovaritis or inflammation of the ovaries or fallopian tubes which adjoin the ovaries may result from sudden stopping of the monthly flow, from inflammation of the womb, and many other causes. The slightest indication of trouble with the ovaries, indicated by dull throbbing pain in the side, accompanied by heat and shooting pains, should claim your instant attention. It will not cure itself, and a hospital operation, with all its terrors, may easily result from neglect.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

"Before I wrote to you telling how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money in medicine besides, but it all failed to do me any good. My menses did not appear in that time, and I suffered much pain. I would daily have fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing down pain, and was so weak that it was hard for me to do my work.

"I used your medicine and treatment as directed, and after taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, menses appeared, my womb troubles left me, and I have been regular ever since. I used fourteen bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier together, and am now restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you, I would have been in my grave.

"I will always recommend your wonderful remedies, and hope that these few lines may lead others who suffer as I did to try your remedies."—Mrs. T. C. WILLADSEN, R. R. No. 1, Manning, Iowa.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over diseases of women.

Women should remember that they are privileged to consult Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., about their illness, entirely free.

X-RAYS

The weather is brite and fare.—Tom Cornelius.

* * *

Salem is still the great Santa Claus center of the Willamette valley.

* * *

It seems the Salem saloons will try the Sunday opening one at a time.

* * *

The X-Ray man is receiving copies of Madame Madame. It is very pretty.

* * *

We had scarcely got Mrs. Maybrick disposed of, when Mrs. Chardwick gets into trouble. Will these women never let the world rest in peace.

* * *

The Pilot Rock papers says a young merchant of that town was recently married to a young lady from the fair glades of Kentucky. Of course, there was a distillery at the head of the glade.

* * *

Some of the Salem saloon keepers seem to want to give themselves and the barkeepers a chance to go to church on Sunday. Better go to church than to some other place.

* * *

A man who is having his street graded out of the present gravel system will naturally oppose any change in the system.

* * *

Let this city do something besides talking good streets this coming year, says ex-Mayor Bishop.

* * *

The intellectual people had a play once that suited them. It was cold, frozen intellect. Give us something warmer with a little love-making and a few skirt dances. We will all live longer.

* * *

Again there is surprise. The high school contract was promised in advance and cannot be delivered. It seems a little public business is to be transacted by the public and for the public.

Horace McKinley, et al., will lose faith in the 'seben come eleben" mascot. It may work all right in craps, but looks like a hoodoo when played in land deals.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.
