Florence Roberts, in "Marta of the Lowlands."

in a big way to attract the masses, and the stupendous business done by the William H. West's big jubilee minstrels all over the country is ample evidence of this fact. Compared to other so-called minstrel organizations this famous and long-established attraction is like one of the mammoth three-ringed circuses to an insignificant sideshow. Costly European acts, the sweetest singers, the funniest comedians, and innumerable other features make the William H. West's big jubilee minstrels the greatest drawing attraction of its kind in the world, and absolutely unequalled in the annals of amusements. One of the great features of this season is the engagement of Frederick V. Bowers, the famous author of great singing sensation direct from his "Because" and "Always," in his 26 weeks' engagement at the St. Louis fair.

Florence Roberts.

Florence Roberts' performance of "Marta of the Lowlands" at the Grand Opera House on Friday night will be one of the genuine treats of the season and no one who enjoys the best in dramatic art can afford to miss it. A Northern critic says: "Marta of the Lowlands" is a novelty. It is a play which anyone should be able to appreciate and enjoy, not only for humor or comedy, but from uniqueness of treatment, plainness of plot and more than average acting. "Marta" will be a play remembered by those witnessing it when the more miasmatic problem dramas are obliterated from the memory.

Miss Roberts was excellent and artistic. Again she repressed emotion and gave such a clear and sympathetic view of Marta that her admirers are justified in showering praise and compliments upon her. It is a part she should long keep in her repertoire, but "Marta" would be less satisfactory with a leading man weaker than MacDwell. Little Ollie Cooper cut out a niche for herself as Nur, and was one of the bright spots of the drama. William Yerrance, as Tomas, is also deserving of a paragraph to himself. The other characters, even that of Sebastian, "the master," are more or less shallow.

Seats for this performance on sale at the box office Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

man. He uses chalk as readily and accurately with both hands, at once, as the ordinary man would use a pencil in writing. Mr. Wise is positively the world's greatest and only double-handed artist. The name of Sanford B. Ricaby has stamped itself so forcibly upon minstrelsy that if it were to be omitted from a history of this most fascinating form of theatrical entertainment the case would be parallel to a story of the civil war in which no mention was made of the illustrious Grant. Mr. Ricaby's whole life has been devoted to minstrelsy, and in the development of an amusement that has a perennial hold upon the affections of the great American Republic no man has played a stronger part. He has always kept far abreast of the times and his competitors, and each year with increasing wealth, influence and experience he has outdone his achievement of the season before. In Wm. H. West's big jubilee minstrels, which will be the notable attraction at the Grand tonight will be seen the culmination of all that is original and up to date in minstrelry. In this age things must be done

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF MINNEAPOLIS

Claims Vinol Contains One Hundred Per Cent. More Curative Value Than Any Other Medicine.

Mr. Geo. W. Putnam, our local druggist, says "Such testimony as the following is pouring in from our best class of citizens all over the country and is positive proof that Vinol is a splendid medicine and possesses all the curative, body building and strength creating properties which we claim for it."

Mr. Theo. J. Birgelein, of Minneapolis, Minn., one of the foremost citizens of this great Western city, writes: "I always stand ready to recommend your cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, as I have found it does 100 per cent. more good than any other medicine I have ever tried. For five years we have used Vinol in our family, and each succeeding year I feel like praising it more and more as the greatest curative, and strength-creating tonic in the world."

Mr. Putnam says: "Vinol is not a patent medicine. Everything in it is printed on the bottle. It contains in a concentrated form all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work. We have never sold anything in our store equal to Vinol to build up the run down, tired and debilitated, and give renewed strength and vitality to the weak and aged or to cure chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis, or incipient consumption. We ask the people of Salem to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails." Geo. W. Putnam, druggist.
