FIRST SNOW STORM

In Three Years Causes Much Inconvenience to Travel

For once the small boy is happy, likewise the small girl. For the first time in three years Salem has a real, rousing snow storm. All day yesterday the snow fell, and by night the ground was covered with a thick coating of it. Down town the people went wild, at least some of them did. The clerks along Commercial street got right out in it, and the passersby suffered from the attack. Staid business men stopped long enough to grab up a handful of snow and throw at some unsuspecting fellow, and then—snow would fly from all directions.

Although the snow made a great many people happy, there were some who took a pessimistic view of the situation. "This here weather would be all right," remarked one old man from Iowa, "but this ain't the right kind of climate." Just then a big snowball hit him somewhere in the region of his mouth, and what more might have followed was drowned in snow.

The streets took on quite an Eastern look, and it is a real novelty to see the contrivances which are used in lieu of sleighs and cutters. Wheels are removed from buggies, and in their stead are secured home made runners, while a few real cutters, jingling with sleigh-bells, dash up and down the streets, while the small boy tugged along with his little sled hauling his girl home from school.

Last evening coasting was in order, and several parties went to the different hills in the suburban part of town, and spent a jolly evening. The best place for this was in Fairmount Park, where there was a long straight slide, and the sleds bobbed up and down and over, with scarcely a mishap. Some times, however, the sled would hit a bump, and the occupants would tumble off in the snow in a manner more ludicrous than becoming. But everything goes in coasting. Coasting is a novelty here, and is the most exhilarating sport. When you start down the hill the feeling which creeps over you is indescribable, and before you can define it you are lying in a heap of snow at the bottom.

This morning the snow was still on, and even better. The small boy didn't have to be called twice today. He was up with the birds, and out on the walk before breakfast. Fathers and mothers scolded in vain. "Hurrah for the snow."
The street car service of the city was in a badly demoralized condition this morning, many of the cars ran behind time, and some were unable to perform their usual runs for several hours.
This morning the walks were slippery from the long coasting, and it was indeed a funny sight to see the people on their way to work vainly trying to keep their feet. Sedate school ma'ams labored and tugged up the walks, holding to the fence to keep straight. The people who "just hated snow" waited in vain for a car, and had to start out afoot, under the close protection of an umbrella. Dignified young ladies were caught on corners and had their faces washed by some "audacious young man," who, in some instances were surprised to find how much color the girl had left, but no one got mad, and all joined in the sport.

The weather report says, "Friday, and Saturday, rain or snow," and all the young people—yes, and even some of the older ones—are wishing that it would be snow. Anyway, January 12th will be remembered as a truly big snow storm.

E. E. Davis and sisters, Mrs. S. G. Rundlett and Mrs. Thomas McHugh, have gone to Harrisburg to attend the funeral of their uncle, J. F. Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Davis went to Harrisburg last night, to attend the funeral of Mr. Davis' brother, J. F. Davis.

Miss Irene McHugh, of Portland, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McHugh.

SHERIFF HUNTS WITNESS

Who Had Business Away From His Home Although It Snowed

The jury in the case of M. M. High against the Southern Pacific Company for damages, for the killing of four horses by defendant's train, while passing Chemawa, after being out most of the night, returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $720.

Department No. 1 also handled some criminal matters this morning, among which was the case of John Wadkins, who was arrested on the charge of selling liquor without a license and selling liquor to a minor. He pleaded guilty to both charges and fined $300 on the first charge and given six months in the county jail on the last. There were peculiar circumstances connected with this case, and the action of the defendant very probably caused his sentence to be a great deal more severe than it otherwise would have been. The facts of the matter were that five witnesses were on the list and subpoenas made out for them, but, they all residing in Turner, and Wadkins claiming to the officers all the time that he would plead guilty, it was thought unnecessary to serve them until yesterday. At the last moment, when it would be extremely hard, so he thought, to get the witnesses against him, Wadkins apparently changed his mind and announced his intention to plead not guilty. Sheriff Culver immediately went to Turner to secure his witnesses, but, although it was snowing at the time, all these gentlemen seemed to have found some business that called them away from home, and, strange as it may seem, no one knew where they were. The sheriff is not a man to be outwitted, and he soon had sworn in two deputies, and started out into the blinding snow storm in search of witnesses. After a hard search all day he succeeded in rounding up two, and the rest came in of their own accord this morning. They were unnecessary, for the testimony of the two secured by the sheriff would have convicted the prisoner.

Carl Long, who was arrested on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, and convicted by the jury of assault and battery, was up for sentence this morning, and got four months in the county jail.

William Martin, who was tried for forgery and acquitted on the ground of insanity, was this morning ordered, by Judge Burnett, committed to the asylum.

Miss Mamie Montgomery, who is employed at the state printing office during legislature, went to her home at Albany for an over-Sunday visit.

J. W. Simmons, state organizer for the M. W. A., has been in Salem a few days and went to Monroe today.

OREGON INDIAN SCHOOLS

In the report of Estelle Reel, superintendent of Indian schools of the government to the commission of Indian affairs the reports of the Oregon supervisors are given as follows:
Report of Supervisor M. P. Holland.
Umatilla School, Oregon.—The general tone of the school was found to be poor, caused principally by friction between employes. The industrial work was at a very low ebb, the literary being very little better. The buildings are good and ample, the only additional one needed being a dairy and meat house and an addition to the laundry. A mission school on this reservation was found to be doing good work.
Warm Springs School, Oregon.—Plant, good; general management, fair. The needs of the school are: Improved water system to give a purer supply; removal of barn to higher ground back of school; employment of better carpenter; more and better farm and garden work, and better fire protection.
Salem School, Chemawa, Oregon.—This plant is an excellent one, in fine shape, and doing good work in the industrial and literary departments. Suggestions: Enlarged water and sewer systems; change in the method of purchasing the wood; the dropping of a number of white and aged pupils; more thorough physical examination of pupils before bringing them to the school, and change the name from Salem to Chemawa. During my rather lengthy stay at this institution it was seen that the name of "Salem" caused confusion in postoffice and telegraphic addresses and to travelers.
Siletz School, Oregon.—The general tone of this school was found to be fairly good. The farm and garden work was not as good as it should be, and the school room work was poor, the children reciting in a very inaudible manner. Fire protection was poor.
Grand Ronde School, Oregon.—This is a poor plant, in poor condition, but sufficient, in view of the steadily decreasing attendance, for future needs, provided necessary repairs be kept up. The farm and garden work was good, and the literary work was very good.
Report of Supervisor Charles H. Dickson.
Klamath, Oregon.—Location excellent; has magnificent spring water and beautiful surroundings. A new dormitory is needed for the boys. The industrial training in gardening and farming is made a prominent feature. Dairying is also taught. The girls are instructed in all branches of domestic work, and also in all branches of butter making. The course of study is followed as far as possible, and is found to be very helpful. In moral tone and in matters of discipline and general management, this school stands deservedly high.
Yainax, Oregon.—Location undesirable. Water poor. Buildings old and inconmodious. Unless better water can be provided, it will be wise to consolidate this school with the Klamath school. The moral tone is excellent, and also discipline. The industrial training is carried on as far as possible with limited facilities.

FULTON FOR CELILO CANAL

According to Washington dispatches it is evident that Senator Fulton intends to make an earnest effort, when the river and harbor bill reaches the senate, to have an amendment attached making an appropriation for commencing work on The Dalles-Celilo canal. Chairman Burton adheres to the position he took in his letter to Representative Williamson, and insists that the state portage will be ample to meet all demands of upper-river commerce. In fact Mr. Burton says he has been advised by several engineers that a canal at The Dalles would not tend to build up any considerable commerce, but would be a waste of a large amount of public money.

Senator Fulton takes issue with him on this argument. Aside from the fact that shippers of the entire Inland Empire are demanding an open river, Senator Fulton declares that the state of Oregon, assuming that the government was acting in good faith has expended $100,000 in the purchase of rights of way for the proposed government canal. It was generally understood in the last congress that, if the state would present this right of way to the government, Congress would provide all funds necessary for building the canal. To back out now that the state has fulfilled its part of the agreement would be bad faith.

Senator Fulton has hopes of having an appropriation for The Dalles project inserted in the bill in the senate, and of holding the senate amendment in the bill in conference. Chairman Burton will not listen to the proposition to make The Dalles improvement a continuing contract. If that change can be made by the senate, construction of the canal will be assured.

Deserves Credit.
Manager Welch of the electric street car company is deserving of much credit for the manner in which the line served the public. It required an extraordinary effort to move the cars at times, but by putting on an extra force of men and an abundance of power the cars did excellent service under the circumstances.
Enos Frennall, G. D. Burdick and J. S. VanWinkle were visitors in Albany yesterday.

BASKET BALL GAME

The first inter-collegiate game basket ball to be played in Salem year will occur tonight in the Willette University gymnasium, when Pacific College team will line against the men from the local university.

Pacific is said to have the strongest team she has ever had, and are coping with the expectation of winning. The local team will be greatly weakened by the absence of Pollard at tor and Matthews at guard, but, nevertheless, the local enthusiasts say Willamette shall not be defeated night. Both Pollard and Matthews be prevented from playing this season on account of school work.
The game will be called at 8 o'clock and an interesting contest is promised.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.
By local applications, as they not reach the diseased portion of ear. There is only one way to deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by a flamed condition of the mucous membrane of the Eustachian Tube. When tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and, unless the inflammation be taken out, and this tube restored its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is not but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by H. Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, F. J. CHENEY, & CO., Toledo, Sold by Druggists, 75c.
