Well Preserved

Women often astonish new acquaintances, who are introduced to a large family of strong boys and healthy girls, who call this young looking woman mother. It is popularly supposed that maternity is the foe of beauty, and the worn and faded face of many a mother seems to warrant the belief. But it is hard to believe that nature should compel a woman to sacrifice the rightful dower of her beauty in order to carry out a natural function of her being. And nature does not. The pains and sufferings incident to motherhood are, to a large extent, unnatural.

by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which prevents and cures nausea, tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, induces refreshing sleep, and makes the baby's advent practically painless.

Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co., Wis., writes: "I have been intending to write to you ever since my baby was born in regard to what your 'Favorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I am now. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 lbs., and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any uterine trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Why

does the manufacturer put up his article in a valuable glass jar instead of a tin can?

Because

At a very small increase of cost it gives housekeepers a useful receptacle of necessities instead of a worthless tin can.

Eppley's Perfection

BAKING POWDER is the only article so put up, but the reason all housekeepers want it is because it produces the best results for the least expense. Try it for its virtues as well as to get the can.

A SEEDLESS APPLE

Grown By Colorado Man and Exhibited at Fair—Much Like the Jonathan But Solid as a Potato.

That it is just as easy to grow an apple without seeds as it is to grow an orange is demonstrated by John F. Spencer, of Grand Junction, Colo., who had an exhibit of seedless apples in the horticultural building at the world's fair.

The variety, as yet not technically named, is much like the Jonathan. Experts have examined the apple, and have pronounced it a wonder. It has been the desire of apple raisers for years to produce a variety without seeds. The core of an apple takes up a goodly portion of the bulk, and the husks surrounding the seeds are disagreeable when taken into the mouth, not being easily dislodged if caught in the throat.

The strange thing about the Spencer apple is that it is absolutely without seeds or even cells. All the way through the meat is of the same firmness and juicy quality.

Placed in another orchard, however, where bees are gathering stores, it is sometimes the case that a speck of pollen from blossoms in the orchard containing the "seed" apples may be deposited by an insect in one of the "seedless" buds.

The result is a solitary seed in the heart of the new wonder in pomology. This is without core or even the usual husk, providing that the seed of an apple has no relation to the fruit, except from the standpoint of germination, neither the flavor nor texture being the least affected.

Nobody knows exactly how Spencer perfected his seedless apple. It was done by a series of grafting or budding, the intermingling of varieties, until the desired result was obtained. All that anyone has been able to find out from the originator is that varieties were crossed, and recrossed, the ones containing the least number of seeds being used in experimenting.

But why apples containing a minimum number of seeds, should, by being budded, produce a variety absolutely seedless is what is puzzling pomologists.

A peculiar feature of the Spencer pomological wonder is that the trees do not blossom. A conical-shaped bud, dark green, and very compact, makes its appearance, assuming shape of the apple without opening. This, it is claimed, renders it almost immune to frost or ice, and makes it impossible for moths or other insects to deposit their eggs, as is easily done when the ordinary tree is in bloom.

The cause of this complaint is not in the head at all, it comes from the stomach. A stomach that has become clogged from over eating, drinking or abuse in any manner, will warn you by bringing on sick headache. Cure the pains and distress in the stomach, and the headache stops of itself. All bilious attacks, dyspepsia, belching, bad taste in the mouth, muddy complexion and yellow eyes, are cured by this remedy. It is called Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills, one for a dose, and is sold by druggists all over the U. S. for 25c per box. For sale by Dr. S. C. Stone, druggist.

An Auction in Japan.

They have auctions in Japan just as we do in America, but they go at it in a little different style. The auctioneer exhibits the article which he proposes to sell and asks for bids on it. He does not exhort or cajole, and there is no excited clamoring of bidders. Lawyer Marks would be impossible in Japan, for each man who desires to make a bid draws from his pocket a slip of paper, writes upon it the highest figure he will pay, and his slip in a box. After the bids are all in the auctioneer opens the box, glances at the bids and promptly awards the article to the man who has offered the greatest sum.

Forced to Starve

B. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies with a sore on my upper lip so painful sometimes that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At J. C. Perry's drug store; only 25c.
