

RUSSIA'S INDUSTRIAL UPEHAVAL

Military and Police Powerless to Preserve Peace During Sunday

St. Petersburg, Jan. 23.—Fifteen thousand strikers living on the outskirts of the city started to march into the city at 10 o'clock and later were stopped by two squadrons of Cossacks drawn up in five rows. The strikers refused to halt, whereupon the Cossacks fired three rounds of blank cartridges. Some of the strikers fled out on the ice of the Neva, but a majority held their ground. The commander of the Cossacks fearing a disastrous affray made an urgent call for reinforcements and ordered his men to load their guns with ball cartridges. The strikers, hearing the latter order, wavered, whereupon the commander of the squadrons ordered his men to charge at a gallop, whereupon the strikers retreated in disorder. It is reported that some were killed and scores were wounded in the melee. The troops guarding the winter palace fired two blank volleys at a crowd about the general staff officers and neighboring Alexander gardens, after which they made a charge upon the crowd along the Veliky prospect. Many were seen to fall. A crowd of strikers attempted to gather at the palace square, but the police kept them moving along the Veliky prospect and other surrounding thoroughfares. The workmen's quarters on the Vasilevski island, which extends westward from opposite the palace, is strongly guarded by police, who also are attempting to prevent the strikers from gathering.

A large number of strikers held a midday meeting and resolved to march to the palace. A crowd of several hundred started along the Sestayal Sadovaya, intending to cross the Nicholas bridge and march through the Admiralty quay to the palace. Four Cossacks attempted to turn the crowd back before they reached the bridge, but the Cossacks were forced to retreat. A few minutes later the Cossacks returned largely reinforced and charged the mob, slashing right and left. The mob was cowed and retreated in a panic. A number were wounded, including a woman, who was terribly crushed. A large crowd is now assembling at the corner of Bolshaya Morskaya and Bevas, the Veliky prospect, in front of the officer of the general staff, where the wide roadway leads to the palace yard.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—More rioting is occurring in the various districts. On Vasilevski island, where the workmen were more turbulent, the crowds continue to endeavor to pass over the bridges, but have so far not succeeded. The soldiers have been compelled to fire ball cartridges in several affrays. Estimates place the number of killed and wounded anywhere from 25 to 200.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—(5 P. M.)—Fighting continues in different parts of the capital, and is gradually assuming the most serious proportions, and strong patrols are blocking all the streets in the center of the city and stopping everybody whether provided with police permits or not. It is impossible for reporters now to visit the various localities to ascertain the details. Officialdom is reticent concerning the casualties, but a high official was overheard to say to a subordinate: "There must be hundreds killed by this time."

Sticks are used to convey the wounded over the snow-covered streets. Reports received state that the leaders are holding conferences to arrange details to renew the attacks in the palace square tonight.

Barriades continue to be erected, especially on Vasilevski island, where it is feared there will yet be awful bloodshed. The strikers have yet been unable to obtain many firearms. The troops are growing savage at the continued persistence of the mobs, and fears are expressed that they may get out of the control of their officers and a general massacre result. Up to the present time the officers are being obeyed implicitly and they are continuing their policy of not firing bullets until the last resort. The railroads running into St. Petersburg are becoming irregular, and trains are moving

Rheumatism

What is the use of telling the rheumatist that he feels as if his joints were being dislocated? He knows that his sufferings are very much like the tortures of the rack. What he wants to know is what will permanently cure his disease. That, according to thousands of grateful testimonials, is slowly owing to rumors that the strikers intend to wreck the lines.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—No reports have been received of serious rioting from the provinces, which is due perhaps to the exercise of internal censorship. It is rumored that the authorities are arranging to bring more troops to the capital, but the report lacks confirmation and is probably untrue, as a large number of troops in the St. Petersburg barracks have not yet been called upon to assist in subduing the rioters.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—Numerous Red Cross wagons are moving through the street conveying the wounded to the hospitals. The Nevsky prospect was practically cleared of strikers early this evening, but later on mobs began to gather about the railroad stations, but are quieter than the mobs on Vasilevski island, where the most resistance is now centering. As two sledges conveying the bodies of dead victims moved away from the rioters many of them uncovered and in chorus sang that beautiful hymn of eternal memory which forms the last part of the orthodox church burial service. It is learned that General Eller was wounded and Police Inspector Shornikoff was injured. Officers through the day have shown conspicuous bravery. At a conference of police prefects this evening it was decided not to proclaim martial law unless disturbances became more violent. Opinion expressed by officials at a late conference was that the backbone of the resistance was broken.

London, Jan. 22.—A St. Petersburg dispatch says that Father Gopon has been wounded and that among the killed is the superintendent of police.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—There have been several slight outbreaks in the vicinity of the Neva shipbuilding and the Poutiloff Iron Works, both of which are strongly guarded by Cossacks. The strikers retired after a feeble effort.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—(11:30 A. M.)—About 11,000 workers attempted to march on the palace from all parts of the capital, but were held in check after a short conflict about the academy of sciences. While the strikers on Vasilevski island were attempting to cross near by the Dvortory bridge leading direct to the palace, the workmen shouted: "Don't shoot us; we are your brothers." Several Cossacks held back and were immediately arrested and conveyed to the barracks.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—Near the palace a number of infantrymen laid down their rifles, refusing to use them against the rioters. In a later conflict near the Poutiloff works the troops fired into a mob of several thousand. The casualties numbered 80.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 22.—(2 P. M.)—A strong force of strikers returned to the Neva yards, where hard fighting followed the Cossacks' first fire into the air, which was without effect. Then they fired into the crowd, which gave way. Many were removed on stretchers. Authentic details of the casualties are unobtainable. Women are prominent among the strikers. During the fighting at the Poutiloff works women waved red flags, inciting the men to attack. Others placed themselves in the front ranks and led the charge against the infantry, who received them on their bayonets, wounding many.

Berlin, Jan. 22.—The Vossische Zeitung says in an interview that Father Gopon later escaped from the custody of the soldiers, and while attempting to reassume the leadership of the strikers was shot dead. The priest, the paper says, fell while leading a charge against troops.

Paris, Jan. 22.—A telegram from St. Petersburg tonight says that the strikers defeated the troops in an engagement and occupied all approaches to the winter palace.

ATTEMPTED TRAIN ROBBERY

Portland, Jan. 23.—What is supposed to have been a plan to hold-up the O. R. & N. Co.'s eastbound train, known as the Spokane flyer, was partially accomplished just after the train left the East Portland station Saturday night, shortly after 6 o'clock.

Four masked men boarded the rear platform of the last car, known as the "Walla Walla sleeper" at the east side depot. The track enters a dark ravine a few hundred feet south of the depot, and the train had no sooner turned into the gulch than four men entered the smoking compartment, and commanded the occupants to throw up their hands.

The robbers secured considerable money, watches and other valuables. The O. R. & N. Co. has offered a reward of $500 for each bandit. The state has a standing reward of $300 each, making the aggregate $8200.

Royal Visit to Erin.

Dublin, Jan. 23.—The arrival of the Prince of Wales in Dublin today was made the occasion for a general holiday. The city was profusely decorated and large crowds lined the streets to the vice regal lodge in Phoenix park. Tomorrow his royal highness proceeds to Ashford on a visit to Lord Ardilaun, returning to Dublin one week hence to take part in a series of state functions that will cover a period of several days.

YOU CAN INTEREST HIM.

Any Man Over Fifty.

You can interest any man over fifty years of age in anything that will make him feel better, because while he may not as yet have any positive organic disease, he no longer feels the buoyancy and vigor of twenty-five nor the freedom from aches and pains he enjoyed in earlier years, and he very naturally examines with interest any proposition looking to the improvement and preservation of his health.

He will notice among other things that the stomach of fifty is a very different one from the stomach he possessed at twenty-five. That greatest care must be exercised as to what is eaten and how much of it, and even with the best of care, there will be increasing digestive weakness with advancing years.

A proposition to perfect or improve the digestion and assimilation of food is one which interests not only every man of fifty, but every man, woman and child of any age, because the whole secret of good health, good blood, strong nerves, is to have a stomach which will promptly and thoroughly digest wholesome food because blood, nerves, brain tissue and every other constituent of the body is entirely the product of digestion, and no medicine or "health" food can possibly create pure blood or restore shaky nerves, when a weak stomach is replenishing the daily wear and tear of the body from a mass of fermenting half-digested food.

No, the stomach itself wants help and in no roundabout way either; it wants direct, unmistakable assistance, such as is given by one of two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

These tablets cure stomach trouble because their use gives the stomach a chance to rest and recuperate; one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contains digestive elements sufficient to digest 3000 grains of ordinary food, such as bread, meat, eggs, etc.

The plan of dieting is simply another name for starvation, and the use of prepared foods and new-fangled breakfast foods simply makes matters worse, as any dyspeptic who has tried them knows.

As Dr. Bennett says, the only reason I can imagine why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not universally used by everybody who is troubled in any way with poor digestion is because many people seem to think that because a medicine is advertised or is sold in drug stores or is protected by a trade mark must be a humbug, whereas as a matter of truth any druggist who is observant knows that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured more people of indigestion, heartburn, heart trouble, nervous prostration and run-down condition generally than all the patent medicines and doctors' prescriptions for stomach trouble combined.

NAGGING PAINS

Newport News, Va., July 22, 1903. Last summer while recovering from illness of fever, I had a severe attack of inflammatory Rheumatism in the knees, from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniments and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S. S. S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken three bottles I felt a great deal better, and I still continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than for years, and I cheerfully recommend S. S. S. to any one suffering from Rheumatism. 513 3rd St. CHAS. E. GILDERSLER, Va.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or some other acid poison in the blood, which when deposited in the muscles and joints, produce the sharp, cutting pains and the stiffness and soreness peculiar to this disease. S. S. S. goes directly into the circulation, all irritating substances are neutralized and filtered out of the system, the blood is made pure and the general health is built up under the purifying and tonic effects of the vegetable remedy.

NORMAL SCHOOL REFORM

One Board of Regents for All and Uniform Course of Study

The legislative program this week includes a bill to put all the normal schools under one board of regents, with power to make a uniform course of study, and cut out all the local grafts. The presidents of the several normal schools are said to favor this plan. At present each of the four normal schools has 12 regents, including the state board of education, composed of the governor, secretary of state and state superintendent of schools. This state board is to be retained on the board of normal school regents, as at present, but, instead of 36 regents, to be appointed by the governor, he will appoint four, one from each county where a normal school is located. This joint board will have power to make a uniform course of study, and absolute control of all the schools. This bill will put the Oregon normal schools on a more permanent footing, will improve their educational standing, and reduce the expense of management. The basis of appropriations will be changed to an expenditure based on the attendance of persons who are taking a professional teacher's course of study, and the applicants for admission must sign a blank application that they intend to take such a course as the state board prescribes, and that he or she intends to following the teaching profession. The bill has been carefully prepared by a conference between the governor, Superintendent Ackerman and Secretary Dunbar, and will accomplish a great educational reform, if it goes into effect. The joint board of regents and uniform course of study is the plan on which the normal schools of California and Washington are conducted. In California the state normal school principals are made by law members of the state board of education. There are bills introduced in each house to abolish the Normal school of Oregon. The Miller bill, in the senate, to abolish all four, and the Caldwell bill, in the house, to abolish two of them, Drain and Weston. The bill for joint control and uniform course of study should be passed.
