

YOUNG WIFEHOOD

Boston, Mass., 152 Shawmut Ave., Oct. 25, 1902.
After I had been married about four months I felt my health generally decline. I seemed to lose the light step and dragged wearily along instead. My appetite failed me and I lost health and strength. I was nervous and had shooting pains through my limbs and stomach while bearing down pains and constant headaches added to my misery. The menstrual flow became more and more profuse and I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. My husband called in three different physicians and I took enough medicine to kill or cure a dozen women, but it all had no effect on me whatever, until I took Wine of Cardui. In a few days I felt a change for the better, my general health improved and at the next time of my periods my flow was more natural and I was in less pain. Gradually I recovered my health and strength and am now in perfect health. I take an occasional dose of Wine of Cardui which keeps me well.

I am happy to give you this endorsement.

Bud Ricker
President, Back Bay Woman's Club.

Why don't you try for the same health Mrs. Ricker has? It is easy to secure if you take Wine of Cardui according to directions. Wine of Cardui strengthens weak and worn-out women of any age and assists the mother and housewife to bear her exacting duties. Wine of Cardui makes women fit for all the duties of womanhood.

It will relieve the pains of irregularity, cures falling of the womb, leucorrhoea, ovarian troubles, and has been known to remove what physicians considered dangerous tumors. Women who use Wine of Cardui do not suffer at the monthly periods. They do not suffer hysterical attacks, because Wine of Cardui gives them strong nerves freed from the irritation of female suffering.

A $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui purchased from your druggist will keep you free from pain.

Miss Nellie Clark Writes Another Interesting Letter From Nanking China

Another very interesting letter from Miss Nellie Clark, who is stationed as a missionary at Nanking, China, has been received by her parents in this city, and they have kindly allowed The Journal to publish it. A great many people have evinced much interest in the other letters which The Journal has published from the far away country, and although they have not been intended for publication by her, they are none the less interesting. This letter, although mailed the 27th of December, was received in Salem on January 25.

Nanking, China, December 23, 1904.
—Well, it is almost Christmas, and you ought to see the way we are rushing around. First the bags of candy and oranges must be prepared for the Chinese children. Then the little brick chapel must be decorated for the exercises, and of course Mrs. Dannenberg and I have that to see after. We are getting some of the Chinese Christians to help us. They climb up and hang the evergreens and flags and other decorations, and we tell them how to do it. Our way of telling those who cannot speak English is curious to see, but we make them understand us, and they smile and do it. A large number of the Chinese understand English, so we can talk to them all right. I am learning quite a number of Chinese phrases and words and can talk to them a little. Day before yesterday Mrs. Dannenberg and I went out, bargained with rick-sha-men, went to Stanghai (the port of Nanking, about four miles from here), did some shopping, and came home without being cheated. You see, between the two of us we talk enough Chinese to do that.

December 26—Well, an old blind woman came to see us and I had to stop my letter, and I have been so busy that I haven't had time to write a scratch until now. It is after supper, Miss Kelley is in her study at work on her sermon for tomorrow, Miss Lyon is at school, the Dannenbergs have gone up to Mr. Johnson's, and I am in my study at work, so I will finish this letter now and get it off on the next foreign mail steamer.

Did I tell you about the Johnson family in any of my former letters? They are English, and were for years missionaries under the Foreign Christian Missionary society in Turkey, but they were transferred to Nanking and arrived here the day before the crowd from America arrived. So they are new, too.

This evening Miss Lyon and I took a long walk after school. We went out among the graves and passed a little heathen temple where the people take their dead children that they do not want to bury. In front of this little temple is a sort of shallow box up high on sticks, and those who do not want to, or who are too poor to bury their little dead children place their bodies in this box and the priests inside the temple see that they are buried. They call this the baby tower. We took a walk out among the bamboo trees and talked to some of the peasant women whom we found working in their gardens. Or, I should say, Miss Lyon talked and I listened. We came back by one of the other compounds, where the Johnsons, Dr. Layton's and Mr. Cory's families live, and called at their houses. When we got home we found Mary (Miss Kelley) back from her country trip and every one hungry. We did ample justice to the supper. You can imagine what I did when I tell you we had scalloped potatoes, strawberry preserves, canned peaches and pears, nuts with plenty of filberts and Brazil nuts among them, and a fried pan fish. You don't know what kind of a fish that is, do you? I didn't until I came here, but it is the best fish I ever ate in my life. It is a large fish, about the size of a very small salmon. The meat is white and very sweet. One makes a meal for us five people. It is a Yangtze river fish, and as we are on that river, we get fresh fish whenever we want it.

In the last letter I got from you you asked me if I had to eat China hen on Thanksgiving day. Say, please that you are so fond of is a native that you are so fond of is a native of this part of the world. Whole rows of them roost on the fences all around in this vicinity, and they don't roost very high, either. We have all such meat that we want. You may have your turkey, thanks, I will take the China pheasant. However, we had duck on Thanksgiving day. Cook took out all the bones, stuffed up the holes where the bones had been with dressing and brought the duck on the table whole with its wings and legs sticking up for all the world like it had bones in its body, but when Emma (Miss Lyon) began to carve it she sliced right through the bird. You know we don't have any cranberries here, but we have the sanjas, a fruit flavored somewhat like the cranberry. This makes fine jelly, and our cook keeps a supply on hand all the time. For this I am glad. And oranges! You know this is the land of the honey-orange, and they are fine. I wish I could send a box home. They are your style of orange.

Oh, yes! I must tell you about the bamboo shoots. Great groves of bamboo grow here, and the people eat the little green shoots and cook and eat them. They consider this to be a great delicacy. Now, you will laugh. I did the first time I heard of it, but a Chinese lady presented me with a great lot of them a few days ago, and we had them cooked, and I like them fine. They remind me a little bit of asparagus. Our cook makes a cream gravy and puts on them like we do new potatoes. Now, a little bit about Christmas.

There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which is no "just as good" medicine can show, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

Few people can understand the feelings of the pugilist as he is being counted out. He hears the seconds ticked off. He struggles to rise, but struggles in vain. He has lost the fight.

There are some who are making a losing fight for life that can appreciate this; those whose lungs are diseased. With every tick of the watch, they know that they are being counted out.

The great question is how can a quick rally be made to continue the fight against disease? Many who have asked this question have found a satisfactory answer in the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures bronchitis, obstinate, deep-seated coughs, hemorrhage, night-sweats, emaciation, and other conditions which if neglected or unskillfully treated may find a fatal termination in consumption.

"When I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. John T. Reed, of Jefferson, Jefferson Co., Ark., "I was very low with a cough, and would at times spit up blood. I was not able to do any work at all, was weak and my head was dizzy. The first bottle I took did me so much good that I had faith in it and continued until I had taken twelve bottles. Now I do not look like nor feel like the same man as I was a year ago. People were astonished and said they did not think I could live. I can thankfully say that I am entirely cured of a disease from which had it not been for your wonderful 'Discovery' I would have died."

Saturday afternoon there were exercises in the chapel. After these exercises most of the women came down to our house. It is a Chinese custom to go calling on all holidays and feast days, so they all came to call on us. I really think there were at least 200 of them. You know on our compound there are the girls' large school building, a woman's chapel, a day school building, and our home, besides the servants' quarters. Well, the women filled our house and the chapel and there were some left out in the yard. These wandered around and seemed to have a good time. They stayed until almost suppertime, and some stayed all night and slept in the chapel. In the evening Mr. Johnson gave a magic lantern entertainment for the foreigners and Chinese and the Christmas celebrations were over. Of course, this was all on Saturday, and Christmas was yesterday, Sunday.

I got six Christmas cards, a potted heavenly bamboo plant from one of the Chinese teachers, a lovely 1905 calendar from Miss Dale of Wuhu, a solid silver name pin—that is, my name as represented by the Chinese character made into a pin, from Miss Lyon, a book of Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words" arranged for the piano, from Miss Kelley, a box of lovely bonbons from Miss Quimby of the Adventist mission, a beautiful bonbon jar of Chinese blue ware from Miss Burke, also of the Adventist mission, a linen turnover collar from Mrs. Dannenberg, a gold Chinese character stick pin from our servant woman, a pair of tiny Chinese ladies' slippers and a typical painted Chinese fan from Miss Kelley's Bible woman, a beautiful piece of Chinese embroidery, silk worked on royal purple blue satin from Mrs. Whan, a Chinese lady friend, and a one-third share in a beautiful tea set that was presented to the young ladies' home by Miss Favors of Lu Chee Pa, besides a third share in a great many other things, such as pictures and candies that were given to the home.

Our rooms are now all decorated with holly. I never saw such pretty holly as we get around here any old place. But we can't get mistletoe. As one of the gentlemen said: "It is very difficult to secure anything that is liable to produce explosions." Don't know why he should say that in referring to mistletoe.

Well, I just made a pretty scratch. Kitty, a great big yellow Persian cat, a beauty you may be sure, just came in. Before I knew of her presence she gave a spring and landed right square on the keyboard of the piano at my back. Don't know which jumped the worse, kitty or myself. Anyway, she concluded not to stay there, so she has taken up her abode on my lap instead. Of course you know I gave her no inducement.

Well, today I saw another curiosity. A Hindu silk merchant was here with real Hindu silks and linen. It was the most beautiful stuff I ever saw. I invested, and if I can make arrangements to send you some, I will send you a dress pattern. Maybe I can send a waist as a sample, anyway. Now, don't accuse me of being extravagant. That beautiful India and Hindu silk that we pay such exorbitant prices for at home doesn't cost any more here than a good quality of gingham would cost there, so I can afford it. Tell papa to send me the number of his shirt, so I will know what size he wears and I will send him some silk shirts that will make the community green with envy, and it won't cost scarcely anything. This same merchant will be back before long and he will have a great many shirts with him, he says. He is the queerest, most pleasant little man I have seen for some time. He is very swarthy, with the dark brown eyes of the Hindu, and bows and smiles and says, "Yes, please," and "No, please," and talks a little pigeon English—enough so that he trades with the foreigners, but not with the Chinese, because, he told me, he couldn't speak Chinese. He heard me speaking to Bunling, our house boy, and asked me how long I had been in China. I told him, and I thought he would faint. He said he has been traveling up and down the Yangtze river for years. I was talking to the boy in Chinese, you understand. With love, from NELLIE.

THE MAN WHO CARES FOR HIS FEET

Does his shoe buying at Vogt's. Broad statement, that; but it has just as good foundation as he will have if we furnish his footwear. This is the reason: We know the shoe trade literally "from the ground up," and we put our knowledge to good use for the benefit of very shoe buyer in Salem. As to shoe values, one single, solitary pair will tell a long tale of merit for the money.
