FIFTY YEARS OF DEVOTION.

The celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of Sister Mary Feltonia to a life of charity is more than a passing event. It marks a long record of devotion to a noble purpose.

It was proper that it should have been observed in the chapel of the Academy of the Holy Names by celebration of a mass, and by exercises of a highly complimentary character.

The pure blossoms of spring were spread at the feet of this noble woman, and the flowers of rhetoric were placed in glowing terms upon record by devoted friends and admirers of the congregation.

Since the first sisterhood was formed by St. Catherine, the women of the Catholic church have maintained an unbroken record for deeds of charity and lives of devotion to a high and sacred calling.

No denomination and no sectarian spirit has been able to or has been disposed to attack successfully the purity of their motives and the earnestness of their zeal in the cause of pure religion and education.

The work of this sisterhood in Oregon has been influential in sending out into the world hundreds of young people strong in the cardinal virtues and radiant with the qualities that make for good lives.

Their work counts for the stability of the home, and the adornment of society, and the records of fifty years in this field by one woman is a monument of glory for the whole order which she represents.

OREGON WATER POWER.

The declaration of Hon. W. M. Killingsworth that the Oregon water powers were the greatest treasure still in the possession of this state, should not pass unheeded.

All know the commercial value as a producer of wealth of the great water power at the falls of the Willamette. If the state had retained that power it would have become a gold mine.

It may have been providential that private enterprise has been allowed to go ahead and develop water powers to show their immense resources and for producing electric current.

The state can be shown to have still in its possession millions of undeveloped and unemployed water powers, and these Mr. Killingsworth proposes shall remain the property of the state.

He labored to this end in the legislature and secured the formulation of a report by a special committee that is being widely circulated, and will result in some definite action by the people of Oregon.

For instance, in Marion county, in the forest reserve, are millions of horse power of water going to waste, that in time will be come valuable. Shall the state and the county retain these valuable gifts of nature, or shall they become monopolized and become private property?

Sues for Divorce.

Eugene, Or., March 23.—Suit for divorce was filed by Lizzie S. Haroun against her husband, F. S. Haroun. The case is one of considerable interest, the parties being more or less prominent in social and religious circles, and the defendant being president of the Eugene Business College.

The cause of action alleged in the complaint is adultery, and Miss Maude Decker, a teacher in the business college, is named as co-respondent. The objectionable conduct is alleged to have been practiced for two years past.

A Savings Bank

—Is a valuable servant of the people. It takes their small earnings and invests them safely, making them earn a reasonable income. It relieves the depositor of the worry and risk of managing his own funds; in other words it shifts the responsibility from his own shoulders to that of the bank.

Thrifty, careful people who prefer a safe, sure proposition to the many "get rich quick" schemes should take advantage of the facilities afforded by our SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

MOVING PLATFORMS ADOPTED

The rapid transit commission has, after three years of deliberation, accepted plans for and recommended the construction of a moving platform subway in 34th street, and those interested in the development of transportation facilities in this city are looking forward to the time when it shall be in actual operation. Though small systems of this type have been operated successfully at the world's fair in Chicago and in Paris, the line recommended to be built in 34th street will be the first really practical test afforded the system in an American city.

Though the term "moving platform" is suggestive of all kinds of untold dangers and of pitfalls without number for the aged and unsteady of foot, it is really the simplest thing imaginable, if the explanations of the promoters of the idea are to be accepted.

"The idea of walking," they exclaim, "when for 5 cents you can get there by simply sitting still! The subway! With all those intricate stairs to climb and breaking cars to fall under! No! No, wait for the moving platform!"

There no guard will yell in one's ear: "Step lively, please!" Coat tails will not be caught in slamming doors. No one will take a "local," and become profane because it is not an "express." There will be no dreary waits for trains. It will be just too fine for anything; just a case of step aboard and let the platform do the rest. And if any dissatisfaction arises; if one does not think he or she is getting full value for money invested, there is always the station platform. Get off and walk.

Strictly speaking the moving platform will be really several platforms, all moving at the same time, but at different rates of speed. There are to be four distinct platforms moving in both directions. On entering the new subway, which will be done by means of escalators, the traveler will land on a stationary platform. Running by this, like the wash of a brook against its shores, will be a platform two feet wide going at the rate of three miles an hour. Within this will be another platform of the same width moving at the rate of six miles an hour, and just beyond this the main platform going at the rate of nine miles an hour. This platform will be six feet wide, and, unlike the smaller platforms, will be fitted with the cross seats, each capable of accommodating four persons, room being left on the other side for a runway. The stationary platform will also be so arranged that it can be turned into a moving platform for night use or at times when any accident befalls the regular moving platforms. The mechanism of the system is so simple, however, that no serious breakdowns are looked for. The wheels producing the motion will be fixed at regular distances beneath the platform, which will roll over them like a belt over a pulley.

The estimated cost of the system will be $5,000,000 and it is asserted that when in full operation it can accommodate 75,000 persons an hour. The system will connect the new Pennsylvania railroad station by a subway with the ferry at East Thirty-fourth street, and may be extended to the West Thirty-fourth street ferry.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world. At J. C. Perry's drug store; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Threatens Disclosures.

Cleveland, March 23.—Mrs. Cassie Chadwick stated that she would go on the witness stand in the bankruptcy proceedings against her and make known all the facts in her possession that will aid her creditors. Some of her disclosures, she says, may not be pleasant, but she will not say anything that cannot be backed up by documentary evidence.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

JU JITSU USED TO ROB STRANGER

Norman Davenport, a Recent Arrival, Has Peculiar Mixup With Japanese Hold

That the jiu jitsu hold is effective, a stranger giving his name as Norman Davenport will testify. He is now in the Salem hospital, and has a twisted back as the result of an encounter with someone somewhere last night.

Davenport arrived in town yesterday morning on the 11 o'clock train, and he claims that he came here to locate. He had been informed that Salem was a good place to start a Turkish bath, and when he arrived in town he went to Landlord Conner, of the Willamette, with his proposition. He would pay rent six months in advance and fix up his rooms in the basement of the hotel. He represented that he was a first-class physical director, having had years of experience in that line of work. Mr. Conner made a proposition that was satisfactory to Davenport, and he agreed to accept it, saying that he would come around to the hotel this morning, and pay over the money.

He talked with Mr. Conner until after 8 o'clock last evening and left the hotel, saying that he was going out for a walk. He had not registered there, but in some manner had left his valise in charge of the clerk. The landlord was not apprised of this fact until today, and cannot account for his reason in not registering.

After leaving the hotel the movements of Davenport are shrouded in mystery, and it is hard to arrive at a definite conclusion. He claims to have spent some time at the free library room, and from there strolled out into the residence part of the city. It was not a very pleasant night for such pastime, but he wanted to see the town by lamplight, and he did.

It was about 10 o'clock when he next made his appearance, and he did not appear. Alderman and Mrs. Downing were on their way home, when they were attracted by moans and groans emanating from a prostrate form near the corner of Winter and Chemeketa streets. Davenport was found suffering from a severe wrench in the small of his back, and was unable to move his lower limbs. An ambulance was soon called and Sheriff Culver, Deputy Minto and Policeman Murphy were soon on the ground. The injured man was taken to the Salem hospital, and physicians summoned. They were undetermined as to the extent of his injuries, but thought at first that he was suffering from a broken back. Later examinations, however, dispelled this belief, and it was found that the muscles over the back were bruised, causing a temporary paralysis of the lower limbs.

This morning the patient was resting well, and Miss McNary said to a Journal reporter that he would probably recover. He rested well last night and seemed conscious during the entire time, describing with the most minute details the occurrences of the evening.

There are several theories as to the cause of Davenport's mishap. His story is that he was walking out on Chemeketa street about 9:30 o'clock last evening, when he was attacked by a man with a gun. He resisted the onslaught of the highwayman, and succeeded in wresting the revolver away from his assailant. He then proceeded to knock down the robber, but about that time he was grasped from behind by another man, and with a quick desperate hold the second thug succeeded in giving him a twist that rendered him hors de combat. According to Davenport's tale, he was thrown to the ground and his pockets rifled. He says that he had a roll of bills amounting to $450 and some change in a purse. A gold watch was also taken from him. He was unable to call for help, and remained on the sidewalk until found by Alderman Downing.

There are other theories and stories afloat, and the case is by no means clear one to the officers. Sheriff Culver, while not committing himself on the subject, was inclined to doubt the entire tale. He made a thorough investigation last night, but could arrive at no definite conclusion. Then certain circumstances which surround the affair lend a color of mystery to it, and whether it will be unraveled seems to be doubtful.

Just why Davenport made the trip to a dark portion of the city with a large sum of money on his person, why he did not register at the hotel, where he intended to stay, why he did not close his deal and pay his money to Mr. Conner yesterday, when the terms were satisfactory to both parties, why he did not leave his roll at the hotel safe, and where he brought the valise from in the evening, after arriving before noon, are a few of the questions that help puzzle the officers. They are all pertinent to the facts, and had Davenport taken any of the plans suggested, he would have some chance to recover his money, or at least have the guilty parties brought to justice. But he was certainly very slack and careless in dealing with strangers in a strange town, and, as the case rests, there will be a divergence of opinion as to the cause of the trouble.

It is hinted that a wrestling match took place somewhere in town, and that Davenport was one of the participants. He is a physical director, and has quite a reputation, according to his own story, of being able to handle an opponent in almost any old way. He himself is an instructor and firm believer in jiu jitsu, boxing and body development. The queer coincidence is that he should fall a victim to one of these methods in a town not particularly noted for science physical.

It is said that Davenport rented a room at a local lodging house yesterday afternoon, and had his valise in the room, but careful inquiry at the various rooming places did not bear out the statement. A report that he was accompanied by a woman also seems to have little foundation, as he spent most of the afternoon with Mr. Conner at the hotel, talking over the proposed bath parlors.

From a confidential source it is learned that Davenport recently was in Coos bay, and at different times had been with traveling troupes. It is stated that he was with the Fischer company recently with a moving picture outfit. He was a student of H. M. Strickler, director of the San Francisco Y. M. C. A., and had quite an acquaintance on the California coast, arriving from the south on a recent steamer to Portland.

Adulteration goes full length in spices and flavoring extracts—you think it isn't worth while to cheat in such trifles—four-fifths of "vanilla" is tonka; cost's one or two cents for "$1-worth". Schilling's Best are entirely pure; at your grocer's.

Free Traders Lose.

London, March 23.—As a result of the cabinet's decision yesterday to use no pressure upon its followers in regard to resolutions introduced by the opposition to commit the government on the fiscal question, a resolution introduced to last night's session of the house of commons by John Stirling, of Ainsworth (Free Trade Liberal) was carried by a vote of 254 to 2. The resolution declares that "in the opinion of the house the imposition of a general duty on all manufactured goods imported from abroad, not exceeding 10 per cent on an average, and varying according to the amount of labor on these goods would be injurious to the commercial interests of the United Kingdom."

While the action of the cabinet yesterday left no opening for a critical party division, the decision of the government to evade an issue on the fiscal question for the remainder of the session.

Brain Workers.

Brain workers suffer from headache because they over-tax and exhaust the brain nerves. Tired, irritated, turbulent brain nerves throb and ache; this weakens the brain power, and robs the memory.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills bring tranquility to the excited nerves and stop the pain.

If not relieved, this nerve disturbance is frequently extended to the stomach, causing nausea, vomiting—sick headache.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are convenient to take—just a little tablet, that in a few moments relieves the pain; they leave no disagreeable after-effects, as they contain no opium, morphine, cocaine or chloral in any form.

"From personal experience I can testify that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most excellent remedy for headache and neuralgia. I have been a great sufferer from both diseases for the past three years. A friend who had also suffered from neuralgia handed me some of the Anti-Pain Pills. I took them and they gave me almost instant relief. Since then I have a package at home, and another at the office, and they never fail to relieve me."

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

sion, and the fact that this was the first go-as-you-please vote, brought out a large attendance and good galleries. A strong Liberal whip summoned many members of the opposition, and the Nationalists turned out in full force.

Proposals Invited.

Sealed proposals endorsed "Proposals for construction of Salem High School," will be received by the board of school directors of Salem district No. 24 until 7:30 p. m. Saturday, April 1, 1905, at the police court room, city hall. Bidders are invited to be present.

Separate bids will be received for the construction of the building and the heating and ventilation. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of W. D. Pugh, Salem, Or. The board reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Bids must be made out on blank forms, which can be secured at the architect's office.
