CARNEGIE'S PLATITUDES.

"Stock gambling is not a business. It is a mere parasite on business." This is one of the rankest platitudes of a platitudizing millionaire robber. How did Carnegie make his hundreds of millions? BY PUTTING THE UNITED STATES STEEL TRUST STOCKS ON THE MARKET UNDER A HIGH TARIFF.

If the American government, by the grace of the Republican party, did not maintain a protective tariff on steel and iron that robbery would not be possible.

MANY MEN WHO WERE BORN AND REARED REPUBLICANS REVOLT AT THIS.

Not able to give away his money fast enough for libraries, Carnegie will now endow colleges.

He says the demand for libraries is winking down. He will go into a new line of gift-making to the great American people.

First he is enabled to rob the great American people by exacting extravagant profits on his steel and iron manufactures.

Then he is able to turn around and make presents of libraries and colleges.

Has Carnegie a right to forever keep on collecting his tariff-bolstered profits on the greatest necessities of a civilized people?

CAN A FEW MEN ASSERT THE DIVINE RIGHT TO CONTROL ALL THE COAL MINES, WHILE MILLIONS FREEZE.

Can Carnegie continue to hand the people a few platitudes in exchange for stockholder profits on steel and iron? MUST NOT THE REPUBLICAN PARTY DIVORCE THE TARIFF AND THE TRUSTS?

MURDERERS KILLED WOMEN.

The arrival of another murderer at the penitentiary last evening has started the morbid tongues to wagging, and from now until the date of the execution there will be column after column of space filled in the daily papers recounting the crime for which the doomed will pay the death penalty.

Two murderers await death within the walls of the state prison, and a third is having a rehearsing before the supreme court. The two first are in their present unfortunate positions through being jealous of their sweethearts. Guglielmo killed a young girl because she refused his hand, and he shot her in cold blood, according to the testimony. Louth, the Oregon City murderer, killed his mistress through jealousy. Each was prompted by a determination to have the woman that he loved or else destroy her existence.

Williams, the Dallas murderer, is guilty of an entirely different offense, but, strange to say, he, too, is charged with killing a mother and her daughter, although in the main he seems to have been prompted more by selfish interests than by a sentimental one. It was gain, pure and simple, that led Williams to snuff out the lives of two women.

Murders usually occur among men. The reformers and others believe that liquor and vice are responsible for a large portion of the crime in this world. Here are three men standing under the shadow of the gallows, yet the testimony does not bear out this theory. It is not even hinted that they were drinking men, or at least the murders were not committed while they were under the influence of stimulants, but these are probably unusual cases.

There is an opportunity for several nervous in the last chapter of these three men, and moralists and others would do well to study them.

A Savings Bank

—Is a valuable servant of the people. It takes their small earnings and invests them safely, making them earn a reasonable income. It relieves the depositor of the worry and risk of managing his own funds; in other words it shifts the responsibility from his own shoulders to that of the bank.

Thrifty, careful people who prefer a safe, sure proposition to the many "get rich quick" schemes should take advantage of the facilities afforded by our SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT.

FLESH BUILDER

The liver of the cod fish produces oil that is a wonderful flesh builder. No fat or oil can compare with it in that respect. To get the best out of it, it must be emulsified and made like cream. In Scott's Emulsion it is prepared in the best possible form to produce the best possible results. Thirty years have proven this.

THE GOOD OF A GARDEN.

The season is at hand when the human heart begins to hunger for a little garden spot.

It is not alone the plants and flowers that we long for.

The sense of sight and smell are not all that powerfully appeal to us when nature is arraying herself in green and throwing out her rich odors.

An inner something impels us to put our hands at work in the earth, to bathe our bodies in the sunshine, and to open our souls in devotion to things that are not gross, but sweet and pure.

Every city dweller who has a bit of ground about his house should begin to think about putting out a garden. It may be only five feet square, but he can plant it in green peas, succulent onions, radishes or lettuce, and still find room for a flower or two to throw a little color and a little fragrance into his life and the lives of his children.

If he has small children then he needs flowers all the more, that their tender rosy cheeks may keep his heart from toughening into sod or selfishness.

A little garden, if properly cared for, will save the city dweller many a dollar. But that is by no means the chief good. If he has more money than he knows what to do with he will still find profit in wielding the spade and hoe for exercise. There is no more health perspiration than that which comes from exertion in the garden, no perfume better than that which is wafted up from the moist soil. Such perspiration is more exhilarating than wine, and such perfume is sweeter than attar of roses.

It is as good a thing for a man's heart and mind as for his body, to get close to nature. To be pitted is the man who does not drink in with delight the fragrance of flowers after having breathed all day the stench of a city, and who does not learn a lesson from the noiseless, orderly, beneficent processes of nature that are constantly going on around him.

There are many reasons, economical, esthetic and moral, why every man should be his own gardener, if he can. Thousands of dwellers in hotels, flats, and tenements can't be. Their existence is as dull and cheerless in the season when all nature is gay as that of a bird that is caged. They may laugh, but so does the caged bird sing. But such is not true living for all that.

It seems that there is nothing in which God does so large a part for us as in the raising of fruits and vegetables and flowers. He gives the earth and moistens it, the seed, the sunshine—yes, and the instinct to do our own little part of just loving them comes from Him, too.

Too early yet to think about gardening? It is not too early to begin getting your plans ready, your seed ready and your spirits ready.

And when the warm rains and the hot sunshine come your preparations will blossom into delightful enjoyment, just as the bulb generated under the cold skies blossom forth into a beautiful flower.

A UNIVERSE ALL ALIVE.

I asked Mr. Burbank this question: "Has anything developed in your lifework, and in your study of the great elemental forces of nature, to imperil true faith or render dead a belief in God or the immortality of the soul?"

He answered: "My theory of the laws and underlying principles of plant creation is, in many respects, diametrically opposed to the theories of the materialists. I am a sincere believer in a higher power than that of man. All my investigations have led me away from the idea of a dead, material universe, tossed about by various forces, to that of a universe which is absolutely all force, life, soul, thought, or whatever name we may choose to call it. Every atom, molecule, plant, animal, or planet is only an aggregation of organized forces, thus holding them for a time latent, though teeming with inconceivable power. All life on our planet is, so to speak, just on the outer fringe of this infinite ocean of force. The universe is not half dead, but all alive." —April Century.

Beautiful Women

Realize that luxuriant hair of rich, youthful color always adds to their charms. The hair may be golden, black or brown, but when it becomes gray or faded there is an appearance of age, though she may feel as young as ever. Under these circumstances gray hair is a drawback to man and woman.

interesting opera, and certainly will be most fetching when well rendered. About 50 singers will take part and Mr. Aylsworth is confident of a great success. They are practicing faithfully every night in the armory, and will give the piece in the opera house on April 7th and 8th. A certain percent of the proceeds will go to the high school library. Mr. Aylsworth expects to give the opera in several of the valley towns. He will go from here to Silverton.

The masquerade dancing party, given in the armory Wednesday evening, by the "Tigers," was a decided success. It was an "amalgamation of all the nations." "Little Lord Fauntleroy" attracted a great deal of attention in a black velvet suit. The little Japanese, lady with her many chrysanthemums, was known as "Chrysanthemum." This character was sustained very effectively by Miss Luella Leonard. The one Chinaman in the crowd was represented by Mr. Sidney Morrison, who had the Chinaman's walk to perfection. Many other characters and nations were represented and well carried out by those present. There were about 50 couples present, and all spent a most pleasant evening. Music was furnished by the DuBoise orchestra, with Mrs. O. D. Henderson as piano accompanist. Mrs. Thomas Livesley and Mrs. Nettie Beggs acted as patronesses for the evening.

The first award in each class of stallions will be $10; in second prize, $5. A $15 sweepstake prize will be given to each class of horses, draught and roadsters. You can trust a medicine tested 60 years

Sixty years of experience, think of that! Experience with Ayer's Sarsaparilla; the original Sarsaparilla; the strongest Sarsaparilla; the Sarsaparilla the doctors endorse for this blood, weak nerves, exhaustion, general debility.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENCE.

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics."

Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food properly digested. There is no other way and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy, that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and, unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure stomach trouble by the use of "tonics," "pills," and "cathartics" which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs, and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass bottle at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets, because it is not only the sick and ailing, but well people who use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well. Prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.
