SOMETIME.

Sometime, faltering hands, Shall your toiling cease, Unheeding all demands, Yelled lie in peace.

Sometime, halting feet, Shall your task be done; Your last journey all complete, The race of life be won.

Sometime, weary brain, You will cease all thought, Careless be of joy or pain, All your striving naught.

Sometime, heavy heart, You will cease to ache; Be quiet under sting or smart, No more with grief to break.

COWBOY WRITER.

Mr. Adams, whose books on the life of the true cowboy have won unstinted praise, both as accurate pictures and as good fiction, has just completed a new volume under the title of "The Outlets" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.) It describes the struggle of the cattlemen to find a market for the enormous herds that had been accumulating in the vast grazing lands of Texas during and after the Civil war.

That interesting cowpuncher, Tom Quirk, now in the employ of Don Lovell, has charge of the exciting drive from Texas to Fort Buford, on a government beef contract, the account of which reads more like a novel than an account of daily work. There is more action and less minute description of detail, so that it is even more entertaining than "The Log of a Cowboy," while just as circumstantial and veracious in its picture of the drive. Any one who loves men with the bark on will enjoy reading Mr. Adams' descriptions of the tricks of the trade, the loyalty of man to man, and the good fighting qualities which are pitted against treachery and sharp practices in this life on the plains.

The spirited illustrations by Mr. E. Boyd Smith are as successful as those in the two previous books by Mr. Adams.

A Remarkable Man.

Patrick Gass, a soldier who accompanied Lewis and Clark to the Pacific coast in 1804-56 and wrote and published an account of his travels in 1807, seven years before Lewis and Clark's travels were printed, died in 1870, aged 99 years, after having endured untold hardships for about 100 years, the last 50 years of as a habitual drunkard. His biographer, Dr. Cones, says: Thus ended a life in some respects unparalleled. Men have turned their century, but how many have done so after such sieges of war, whiskey and women as Gass withstood for nearly 100 years. It may help us to appreciate the duration of his life, if we remember that he attained nearly the average period of human existence in the eighteenth century, and then rounded out to the full traditional three score and ten in the nineteenth.

Extend Albany Local.

The Eugene Guard says that a gentleman who travels all over the state, and is in close touch with railroad officials, today informed a Guard reporter that an official of the Southern Pacific Company has told him that the Albany local train will be extended to Eugene within two weeks.

A. O. U. W. GRAND LODGE IN SPECIAL SESSION

The grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Oregon meets today in Portland in special session, to consider the matter of a readjustment of the assessment rates of that order.

The plan proposed is the one adopted and recommended by the supreme lodge at its last session, and was defeated at the last regular meeting of the Oregon grand lodge last summer.

The session today is a special meeting called by the grand lodge officers, and was thought to be necessary on account of the chaotic condition of the order in this state at this time. The large number of suspensions and delinquent members made it almost an absolute necessity that some steps be taken to correct the assessment rates, and, as the last grand lodge had refused to do so, the head officials believed that a special session of the governing body was the only form of relief.

The tendency of the times is toward substantial insurance, and, while cheap rates have their attractions to certain people, the better informed are satisfied with rates that are sure to protect their policies at death. This is true in old line companies, as well as fraternal societies.

The effort that the Workmen will make is to place the rates on a basis where the old and tried members of the order will not be forced out when they reach an age where they are not desirable risks. During the past few years this condition has prevailed, and thousands of members have been forced to give up their policies because they considered the rates unjust. This evil will be corrected, it is believed, at the present session.

In the event that the rates are adjusted then an effort will be made to abolish the session of the grand lodge in August, provide for the election of grand lodge officers and provide for the expenses usually voted by the grand lodge at its regular session.

ARBOR DAY AT SCHOOLS

Tomorrow is Arbor Day, the day on which thousands of school children all over the United States celebrate the planting of shrubs and trees, and otherwise beautifying the grounds of their schools.

The public schools of this city will not hold any special exercises tomorrow. The Lincoln school gives a program at their hall in the evening. At the North school each room will observe the day as they see fit. Flowers will be the day as they see fit. Flowers will be cleaned. There will be no observance of the day at the Yew Park school, and the regular duties will be pursued.

Owing to the grounds of the Central school being taken for the erection of the new high school building, it is impossible for the schools to plant trees and go through their accustomed exercises. However, in each room there will be practical talks about Arbor Day and as soon as the schools are located on their new sites, the trees and shrubs will be planted.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Entertains Friends.

Miss Blanche Brown entertained a number of friends at her home on South Commercial street Wednesday evening. The evening was spent in singing and playing numerous popular games, after which a dainty lunch was served. Those present were: The Misses Wiggins, Lenna Cavanagh, Maud Laughhead, Greta Looney, Leda Proph and Blanche Brown, Messrs. Ralph Matthews, Paul Stahl, Paul Wallace, Frank Meyers, Otto Ragan and William Kantner.

Married in This City.

A pretty home wedding took place yesterday at the home of L. W. Benson, in North Salem, when Miss Edna Banta became the bride of Christian Oleason. Both of the young people are residents of Marion, but the bride resided here until a few years ago, and has scores of friends who extend their best wishes and congratulations.

They left last evening for a trip to Portland.

Will Take a Revised Census.

It comes to the Democrat on good authority that since the year 1900, 500 more school children have been added to the list and 387 more voters registered. The committee of the citizens' league, appointed to retake the state census of Baker City in connection with the assessor, expects to put the machinery in motion the first of the week, and it will be then thoroughly determined whether or not Baker City has gone backwards or forwards during the past five years.—Baker City Democrat.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Others Are Guilty.

The Baker City Democrat says: Roy Miller, president of the Bank of Sumpter, at the time of its wreck, is to be prosecuted. Are there not others equally as responsible for that bank failure?

GREAT CLAM BAKE

Independence proposes to set the pace for the Willamette Valley Development League, and will give a grand clam bake some time next month.

The people of that section are in earnest in the matter of developing the valley, and do not propose to stop until there is new life infused into the people of this section.

The clam bake will probably be one of the greatest affairs in the history of the state, and hundreds of invitations will be issued. The clams will be shipped direct from Newport, and the citizens of Independence will contribute every dollar to the purchase of supplies to make the bake a grand success. Committees will be appointed to arrange a suitable program, and otherwise entertain the hundreds of visitors expected.

A SUPERB DISPLAY.

Eilers Piano House Making an Exceptionally Fine Showing During Their Sale of the Gilbert Bros'. Bankrupt Stock of Pianos and Organs—Rarest Pianos Exhibited—Pianola Demonstration Every Evening—Sale Soon to Close—A Few Splendid Bargains Remain.

By all of Salem's best musicians and musical judges who have called at our store during this sale, our display of fine pianos has been pronounced the finest ever seen here. By the same people these used pianos, the residue of the stock of Messrs. Gilbert Bros., the bankrupt bankers of Salem, are declared remarkable bargains.

Only one of these used pianos now remain, so great has been the demand for them in the few days we have been holding this sale, and they will be gone before the end of the week.

Cash is preferred in this sale, but we are willing to accommodate any one who finds it more convenient to make a small cash payment, and complete purchase in moderate monthly installments.

Exhibited Here Now.

We have now displayed at our temporary quarters the most representative piano that the world now produces—the Chickering pianos, of Boston; the Weber, of New York, and the Kimball, of Chicago, also such other great makes as the Hobart M. Cable, Stacey & Clark, Crown Orchestral, Schumann, Jacob Doll, Baus and Clarendon. Prices on all will be found exceedingly moderate and we will extend to Salem purchasers our usual small payment privileges if they wish them. If you want to secure the very best, it will pay you to call now.

You Should Not Miss Them.

Our Pianola concerts, which are given every evening, will be found very enjoyable. Mr. A. L. Lovelace, our resident manager at Salem, presides at the instruments, and is ready to give full information concerning every feature of the Metrostyle Pianola, the Aerola and also the wonderful Aeolian Piano.

Remember this week ends all these exceptional opportunities for Salem music lovers. Eilers Piano House, temporary salesroom corner of Liberty and Court streets, in the House Furnishing Company's store. W. H. WEIR, General Agent.

Oil is to take the place of water in laying the dust on Jackson street, between Washington and Oak streets, in Roseburg, says the Evening Review. All of the business men on the block named have signed a tentative agreement to purchase at least one barrel of oil apiece—42 gallons—for the purpose in view. One moderate coat of oil over the street is sufficient to keep the dust down for a month or more.

SCATTERS POISONED BOLOGNA

Independence has a dog poisoner, and he has succeeded in cleaning out the entire canine population of that enterprising little city, only half a dozen curs remaining of the vast family that formerly wagged their appendages around the walks and streets.

There are several theories concerning the poisoner, and one is that there is an organization working through Oregon towns and cities in the state, and it is thought by some that it is but the first move to commence systematic raids upon the business and residence districts of the localities, where the robbers will not be molested in their doings.

The people of Independence have employed a Portland detective from the Brown agency of that city, and they expect to catch the guilty party if it is within their power. The detective, however, has been at sea since his arrival, and is unable to locate the guilty wretch.

The poisoning is accomplished by means of particles of strychnine placed in bologna sausage, and distributed about the streets and yards. Several
