FRUIT GROWERS MEETING

Many have taken an interest in the fruit growers' meeting, called at the city hall Saturday at 1:30 o'clock. The indications are that there will be a short crop of small fruit, and the growers are not inclined to take prices the cannery is offering, but will make an effort to find an outside market. A committee will probably be appointed to try to establish another cannery.

Man's Unreasonableness.

Is often as great as woman's. But Thos. H. Austin, manager of the "Republican," of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist, price 50c.

New School District.

A warm contest was had today over the creation of a new school district. Chas. McNary appeared for the petitioners and John Reynolds for the remonstrants.

The hearing was had at the court house, before the county authorities, on the question of dividing school district No. 61, or West Stayton. The new district is to be created of territory south of the present district, and the petition was granted. There will be an appeal taken.

Will Give Concert.

Misses Beryl Emerson, Edith Maplethorpe and Edith Eyre went to Turner this morning, where they will give a musical concert this evening. The program will be especially good, consisting of instrumental solos and duets by the Misses Maplethorpe and Emerson and vocal solos by Miss Emerson. Miss Edith Eyre will assist as reader.

Endeavors Entertain.

The Endeavor Society of the Christian church will entertain tonight at the church, with a specially prepared musical and literary program. Everybody invited.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND

The Arnold Shows the Center of Attraction This Week

Large crowds of pleasure seekers have been attending the Arnold shows this week, and, as the week nears the end, and the engagement draws to a close, the attendance in no wise abates, in fact each afternoon and evening witnesses a larger concourse of people under the big tent than the previous day. There is only one cause for this, and that is—the shows have caught the public fancy. Through the entire program the acts are of a high order, and there is something doing all the time to keep the audience interested and amused.

Mr. Arnold has this season gathered together a high-class of artists and performers, and everything throughout is of a clean and interesting order.

Last evening the largest crowd of the week attended the show, and from the unstinted applause given the different acts, the audience was evidently pleased, and put in good humor from the start.

In the main pavilion the performance opens with De Elmer on the single trapeze, and the Kohers, double trapeze. The work of the former is great, in fact he being one of the best single performers in his line before the public today. His balancing act is fine, and always gets a good hand. The Kohers in their double work, caught the appreciation of the audience, and were loudly cheered. Next on the program came Prof. Hornes with his trained dogs and monkeys, and this is an act that always appeals to a show crowd.

The professor has his pets well trained, and entertained the people for 20 minutes, by putting the dogs through all kinds of antics and tricks. Sam Kitchi, hand balancer, and Madame Telswari, lady wire artist, the famous Japanese, took a turn at amusing the audience. The work of both these people is of a high order, and caught the fancy of the spectators, who were unstinted in their applause.

From the main pavilion to the stadium the performance was then changed, and in this department the acts and turns were of a high order. The cottage act by the Dore family is one of the funniest parts of the show, and, in the language of the show people, "worth the price of admission alone." The Dores are finished acrobats and fun-makers, and keep their audience on the broad grin all the time they are in the lime light. Baby Irena entertained with the song "I am Doll's Mamma," which caught the fancy of the crowd, and she was warmly cheered. The ring and single trapeze act of the Kohers was one of the top liners in this part of the show, and was followed by the Traviolas with the hoops. This duo did everything imaginable with the hoops. DeOmzo, the man with the barrels, was one of the main features of the evening, and his blindfolded work was very clever. The performance in the stadium concluded with the sensational bicycle act by the Hoffmanns—Lou and George—who produced their Madison Square success, the cycle dazle. This is one of the cleverest bicycle feats ever brought before the public, and must be seen to be appreciated.

Next on the program was the "Dixie Land" show. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hun entertained the folks there, and Mr. Will M. Brown, the versatile comedian kept the audience in good humor with his funny sayings and songs, and caught the popular fancy when he sang the song, "Oh, Lord, if You Don't Help Me, for Goodness Sake Don't You Help the Bear." All the members of this company are good entertainers.

Back again to the main pavilion and there was something doing to attract and interest. Sam Kitchi in his sensational rope slide held the audience breathless for the moment while he performed his thrilling act. The Flying Victrolas on the aerial bars, assisted by Farmer Austin, the Rube clown, held the people's attention for fifteen to twenty minutes with their daring feats in mid air, and many were the "ohs" and "ahs" from the audience as one after the other of the thrilling high air acts were performed. Farmer Austin as a fun maker and aerial artist was immense, and came in for a large share of applause.

Taken all the way through, the Arnold shows are entertaining from beginning to end, and those who fail to attend will be missing a good, clean entertainment. One of the noticeable features of the shows is the uniform courtesy shown by all the employees connected with the company—such and all of them trying to make the patrons powerful and influential friends of Guglielmo to obtain a pardon from Governor Chamberlain, but the governor, after the most careful consideration of the case, refused to grant the pardon, as it was plainly evident that the young man was guilty and deserved to pay the full penalty for his awful crime. Ever since the condemned man has known that he must expiate his terrible crime on the gallows, he has had spiritual consolation and advice administered to him at the hands of a Catholic priest, as this is the faith he holds.

ITALIAN MURDERER HANGED
