Pays Tribute to Clary.

Reginald DeKoven, composer of Robin Hood, heard Mary Louise Clary sing in the Oratorio "Samson and Delilah," in New York city. His opinion was expressed in the New York World as follows: "Not since Annie Louise Cary last sang here has a finer contralto voice been heard in New York." Mr. J. W. Henderson, the foremost musical critic in America, also compares Clary to Cary in these words: "This young woman has been gifted by nature with the most imposing contralto voice we have heard since the days of Annie Louise Cary. The tone power and quality are remarkable. The audience applauded her as if she had just come down from the heavenly choir."

Professors Seley and Newberry have engaged this wonderful singer for a song recital at the Grand, May 12, and have set a popular scale of prices, 25c 50c and 75c, in order that everyone can afford to attend.

This concert will certainly prove to be the most notable event of the kind that has ever been presented to a Salem audience. All who love music should awake to this fact before Clary sings, instead of saying after the concert, "I wish I had known that it would be so good."

The Dying Drummer's Sweethearts.

A gay and handsome traveling man lay on a bed of pain; All hope was past, his life ebbing fast; he ne'er would rise again. "Have you no sweetheart, fair and true?" they whispered o'ed his bed, "Whom you would tell a last farewell?" The young man softly said:

"There's Leona back in Ellensburg, and Beas in North Yamhill, There's Millie down in Albany, and Kate in Jacksonville. There's darling Jess in good old Burns, and Mary in John Day, And write to Sue in Portland, too, or he—I will be to pay."

The watchers started in surprise, and then they said once more: "And tell us, pray, without delay, the girl whom you adore.

The girl whom you have sworn to love, and bring both wealth and fame; Your promised wife and hope, and life, quick, let us know her name."

"In Baker City Ethel lives, Go; phone her quick," he cried, And Carrie calls from Klamath Falls, and Ann from old Seaside. There's Cora down in Tillamook, and Helen in Westfall."

The young man aghed, "It's time I died; I've sworn to love them all."

Twin Colts.

A valuable mare belonging to Alvin Ireland, of Monmouth, gave birth to twin colts one day last week, says the Polk County Observer. Both colts were perfectly formed, and were fine specimens of their class. Owing to the death of the mother, the young animals died of starvation before they were found by Mr. Ireland. Twin colts are exceedingly rare, and it is seldom that both live. Mr. Ireland is confident that both of these colts would have lived if the mother had not died, and greatly regrets his loss.

The Dayton Herald of May 5th, says Geo. C. Will, the pioneer and well-known dealer in musical instruments and sewing machines at Salem, was in Dayton Wednesday on business. He was accompanied by one of his traveling men, F. C. Clifton. Somewhat to the surprise of the gentlemen, they did a very fair business during the day in this little burg, disposing of six organs and one sewing machine. Following named are those who purchased instruments: Z. Spangler, E. P. Casseady, Thos. Parish, Mrs. Jane Versteeg, E. Ishem, Geo. Freshour. Prof. Leavitt purchased a fine sewing machine.
