A "COLLARED" COMMITTEE

The United States Senate committee on interstate commerce seems to have moved itself into a railroad lobby.

If unofficial but seemingly reliable information be true the committee has formulated a report upon the Esch-Townsend rate bill which in sum and substance is a high-class brief for the railroads.

The committee has concluded an "investigation" in which only the railroad officials were heard and only the railroad interests given consideration.

This senate committee is composed of men naturally supposed to be servants of the public and guardians of the public interests, but an analysis of the personnel seems to have shown that practically all the senators who took prominent part in the so-called inquiry were the collars of the railroads.

This "official" inquiry, in which only one side was permitted to be represented, and even the carefully sifted testimony of one side was strictly sterilized before going on record, constitutes one of the greatest farces ever perpetrated upon the patient American people.

It is possible that the verdict of the committee is right. It is possible that the government could never justly fix railroad rates. It is possible.

But no snapshot judgment by railroad senators, based upon railroad testimony alone, will ever satisfy the public.

If the senate tamely accepts a report made up in this manner it will be a disgrace to free government. It will be a scandal that must stink to the stars.

The only comfort the public has lies in President Roosevelt's Denver speech the other evening, in which the president stated that rate legislation was urgent. It may involve Roosevelt in another enrollment with the railroad-owned senators.

It is gratifying to know that Secretary Taft is just as firm as the president on this point.

The coming special session of congress is bound to be full of fireworks.

BALL PLAYER INJURED.

Second Baseman of the Eugene High School Team Severely Hurt.

Eugene Guard: Paul Driver, the crack second baseman of the Eugene high school baseball team, received an injury yesterday afternoon which came near resulting seriously, and which will keep him out of the game for a long time.

While practicing with the team at the baseball grounds young Driver collided with another player, the shoulder of the other man striking Driver on the right jaw. The blow knocked him down, and in a semi-conscious condition he went to the dressing room under the grand stand and lay down. When the players started for town Driver was not noticed and the door of the dressing room was locked. His brother soon missed him, and found him in an almost unconscious condition. Dr. DeBar attended the young man, and found that the blow had almost caused concussion of the brain. He is confined to the house, and was improving this morning.

MARION COUNTY BAR

Meets and Hears Resolutions in Honor of the Late Judge Bellinger

The Marion County Bar Association met this morning in the county court and heard the resolutions in honor of the late Judge C. B. Bellinger, drafted by the committee appointed the other day. They are as follows:

Be it remembered, that at a meeting of the Marion County Bar Association convened in the court room at Salem, Oregon, on the 13th day of May, 1905, for the purpose of taking appropriate action touching the death of Hon. Chas. B. Bellinger, late judge of the United States district court, for the district of Oregon, a committee was duly appointed by the president of said association with instructions to report suitable resolutions to this court, in joint session, on this 18th day of May, 1905.

Said committee respectfully submit the following: That the deceased was for a long time a resident of Marion county, and in his early manhood was a member of the bar of this court, having commenced the study of law in Salem, with a firm, one member of which survives him, and by his talent and unswerving integrity he has conferred a high honor upon us, and we rejoice in his success in life, and the rich legacy as a man, lawyer and judge, he has left to the state, his family and friends.

Resolved, That in the death of Judge Bellinger the state of Oregon has lost a citizen eminent for his public and private virtues, a jurist of exceptional learning, purity and patriotism; and that his sudden and untimely death is deplored by all who knew him.

Resolved, That the Marion County Bar Association does hereby express its deep sorrow and sincere regret at the removal from amongst us of the said Charles B. Bellinger in the midst of an active life of service to the commonwealth and nation.

Resolved, That as a testimony of our high respect for the memory of the deceased, and of our sympathy for the bereaved widow and family, these proceedings be entered in the minutes of our association and in the journal of this court, and a certified copy of the same, with the action of the court thereon, be transmitted to the widow of the deceased.

Respectfully submitted,
B. F. BONHAM,
P. H. D'ARCY,
W. H. HOLMES,
GEO. G. BINGHAM,

Son Lost Mother.

"Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Me. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me from serious lung trouble." His mother's death was a sad loss to Mr. Reid, but he learned that lung trouble must not be neglected, and how to cure it. Quickest relief and cure for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed at J. C. Perry's drug store. Trial bottle free.

Money in Turkeys.

Roseburg Plaindealer: Mrs. Miller, of Hayhurst Valley, has 225 young turkeys at present, but does not expect to outdo last year's success in raising turkeys, as she raised 300 last year and sold $617 worth. This spring is not nearly so favorable to turkey raising as the two years past. Oakland, the great poultry centers of Douglas county, or Oregon, so far as that is concerned, may yet have a rival in Hayhurst.

STERLING MINE SOLD

The Famous Mine in Jackson County Changes Hands--Office at Roseburg

Roseburg Review: The famous Sterling mine, lying back of Jacksonville, in Jackson county, and acknowledged to be Oregon's greatest placer mine, has been sold by Messrs. Cook and Ankeny, of Jackson county, to Fred J. Blakeley, of Roseburg, who purchased it for a syndicate of Eastern and local capitalists.

The mine has been owned by the Cook and Ankeny families for nearly half a century, and has produced millions of dollars in gold.

In the early days it was mined by hand and as evidence of the number of men employed it is known that when Lincoln was elected president there were six hundred votes cast for him at the voting place on this mine.

Mr. Ankeny's father realized the great possibilities of the property if water could be had to take the place of manual labor. Away back in the '70's he began the building of a canal to convey the waters of the Little Applegate river on to the mine. Winding around the sides of the great mountains which hedge the mine in on all sides this great ditch or water-way was constructed, and when completed the canal was twenty-seven miles in length.

The elder Ankeny did not live, however, to see the splendid results of his labor. The first year the giants tore down the banks and when the annual clean up came, it was found that little pay dirt had been moved. Shortly after this the elder Ankeny died. The work was then taken up by his son, Hon. Henry E. Ankeny, of Eugene. During the next season, under his management, the mine showed splendid returns, and has since continued to do so every year, making both Mr. Cook and Mr. Ankeny very rich men. All these years Mr. Ankeny has managed the property.

The news of the sale of the Sterling caused a great deal of surprise in all quarters. Mr. Ankeny stated that he sold the mine because he had arrived at an age where he did not care to mine any longer, and owing to his large interests in the Klamath country had not the time to give it the required attention even if he had the inclination.

Mr. Blakeley, who returned home this morning, gave out the following interview to a Review representative: "Yes, I have purchased the Sterling mine, and it is needless to say am well pleased with my bargain. Some months ago, the proposition was made to me. I made a careful inspection of the property myself, then had some mining experts pass upon it, and finally had Mr. Charles Roberts, our capable county surveyor, make extensive surveys to determine the feasibility of putting the water on the Medford side of the mountain for irrigation and other purposes. Upon the judgment of these various gentlemen, I decided to purchase the property."

"Having interested some local friends in the deal, I then went East and succeeded in getting Eastern friends to join with us, and yesterday the entire deal was closed up."

"It will take some little time to decide just how we will proceed, but I can say that this water right covers an immense territory, included in which are the great apple orchards of the Rogue River valley, and they need water badly. This water right alone is worth half a million dollars of any man's money, and I feel safe in saying that the improvements we contemplate making will make the mine a better paying proposition in the future than it has ever been in the past."

"The gentlemen interested with me have abundant means to put the property in shape and make all improvements necessary. The offices of the company will be located in Roseburg. Just who the officers and directors will be I cannot say, but a meeting will be held in this city in a few days, when that matter will be fully settled."

"The price paid for the property is matter between Messrs. Cook and Ankeny and my associates, and while it is a large sum, I can say we are satisfied with the purchase and presume the late owners are equally so."

"Mr. J. D. Heard will be manager under the new company. He went south on the overland train this morning to take charge, and was accompanied by Mr. Ankeny."

Roseburg is fortunate in securing the headquarters of this large company, and will do its full share toward the development of our sister county on the south. This mine has in recent years been valued at $300,000, and it is reported that the new company expect to expend about $500,000 in the development of their plans.

Former Salem Girl Married.

Monday morning, at Wellesley Lower Falls, at the parol residence of St. John's church, Rev. John McGrath united in marriage Patrick H. McGrath, of this town, to Miss Mary E. Coulter, of Wellesley Hills. Mr. McGrath is one of the best-known young men in Natick. He is proprietor of a drug store on Main street, and lieutenant in the Ninth regiment. Miss Coulter is well-known in Wellesley, and has a large circle of friends. The best man was John H. Lucey, of Natick, and Miss Minna H. Lambert, of Boston, was bridesmaid. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's brother. Mr. and Mrs. McGrath left for Washington, where they will spend their honeymoon, on returning from which they will be "at home" after May 10th, at their residence on Park avenue.

The above notice was taken from a Wellesley Hills, Mass., paper, and will be of great interest to many Salem people. The bride is a native Salem girl, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Coulter, who lived here about 20 years ago. Mr. Coulter was a well-known architect. Since the removal of the family to Massachusetts both Mr. and Mrs. Coulter have passed away.

Trying to Play Even.

It is said a peculiar suit will be filed in the Salem courts next week. A man was fired recently because he took so much time from the office at noon. He intends to bring suit against his boarding house keeper for an allowance equal to his salary for the rest of his life, claiming that he lost his job because he had to wait so long for his meals.

The figures above give another conclusive proof of the fact that the famous Sharpless Tubular Dairy Separator stands far in the lead of all other machines on the market. You will notice that the four machines tested were of the same rated capacity. The Sharpless Tubular overran its rated capacity 73 pounds. The Tubular ran at the lowest speed of the crank, and made a skim milk test of only .015 of 1 per cent, the best test made. The capacity of the Tubular machine exceeded that of the — by 121 pounds, the — by 57 pounds, and the — by 57 pounds. The most valuable separator is the one that gives the greatest capacity for the money, and accomplishes thorough separation. The Tubular leads in capacity, efficiency, ease of operation and durability.
