SALEM DAY AT THE FAIR

Fine Program Arranged and This City Will Be at the Front

All arrangements are being completed to make Salem Day at the Portland exposition a great success. The Commercial Club took the matter in hand Friday evening, and has secured the cooperation of the mayor and city government, and the Merchants' League has also agreed to hold a meeting Tuesday evening, and join in the movement to send at least 2000 people to Portland on Wednesday, June 14th.

The committee on program met at Mayor Waters' office this morning, and outlined their work. The Oregon Stalwart quartet will sing. Hon. J. H. Albert, of the state commission, will introduce Mayor Waters, who will preside. Hon. John H. Coleman, of Willamette University, will respond for the city, and addresses commendatory of the capital will be made by several others from outside of this city.

The committee unanimously selected Mrs. J. A. Carson as hostess for Salem day, with authority to select her own aides. Mrs. Carson has accepted the position, and nothing will be omitted to make the occasion a social success, and the whole demonstration will be a credit to the Capital City.

The mayor will issue a proclamation the Monday before Salem day, and there will be a street parade and general promotion work for the good of the Capital City, and the fair management will be convinced that this city has more than 4000 population, as they have been advertising it to the world.

A committee is at work on badges and banners, and the enthusiasm is growing. The S. P. Co. has decided to give Salem a special train, or several of them if needed, and a special train to return on in the evening after the fair, so that all will be accommodated and made comfortable.

The Largest Strawberries.

Mr. N. Englehard, proprietor of the Asylum avenue store, says when it comes to raising big strawberries, Salem can beat Hood River, hands down, noting that a box at Hood River was filled by 17 berries. He says he is selling them at his place, not picked boxes, but as a steady thing, where 15 berries will fill a box to overflowing. They are raised by N. Welch.

DECLINE TO CONSULT FURTHER

Employers Decline to Further Consult With the Strike Leaders

Chicago, June 5.—Hope of peace in the teamsters' strike is revived today, although the Sunday conferences brought no results, and Attorney Mayor asserted his clients, the employers, decline to have further consultation with the strike leaders, tending to a settlement. Still a belief prevails in labor circles that the end is approaching.

Stay of Execution Granted.

Judge Grosscup today granted a stay of execution in the cases of Mulligan and Donahue, the express teamsters, sentenced to jail by Judge Kohlsaat for refusing to answer questions in the injunctive proceedings. The men were admitted to bail. Their cases will now be heard by the United States court of appeals.

WILLIAM WILL WED TOMORROW

Popular Enthusiasm Being Shown in Berlin Over Prince's Marriage

Berlin, June 1.—Gray-haired citizens of Berlin declare that tomorrow will add to their stock of recollections the memory of the greatest scenes of popular enthusiasm they have ever known. Crown Prince Frederick William will be married shortly after 12 o'clock to the Duchess Cecelie, of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, and it is expected that after the ceremony the royal couple will pass before the people in open carriages, accompanied by the usual accessories of military and official pomp.

The German law requires that the marriage should be solemnized by the civic authorities, and therefore the Duchess Cecelie and the Crown Prince will first be married by House Minister von Wedel, and later at a religious service under the eyes of a large assemblage of privileged persons from many parts of the world. The floral and other decorations of the chapel in the Schloss, where the religious ceremony will be performed, are extremely rich.

The wedding gifts to the bridal couple were presented in the white room of the palace this morning, when deputations with congratulatory addresses were also received. The wedding presents were numerous and on a scale of great magnificence. They came from the various rulers of Europe, from relatives of the contracted parties and from the chief municipalities of the empire. They included splendid Sevres vases and Gobelins tapestries from President Loubet of France, magnificent tapestries and rugs from the Sultan of Turkey, and various articles of gold and silver from the king of Italy, the Czar, King Edward VII, and other sovereigns of Europe. The most magnificent gift of all, however, was the silver service of several hundred pieces subscribed for by the chief cities of Germany.

The visiting princes and envoys were entertained at a state dinner at the palace this evening. Later there was a gala performance at the opera.
