Silverware Worth Buying

That the best is the cheapest, goes without saying when buying silver-plated spoons, knives and forks. They are used three times a day, every day in the year—so you'll save money in the long run by buying good, durable heavy-plated ware.

Here are Rogers' fine plated goods at unusually attractive prices:
$4 A SET FOR ROGERS' KNIVES AND FORKS—6 OF EACH.
$1.25 FOR A SET OF ROGERS' TEASPOONS.
$2.50 FOR A SET OF ROGERS' TABLESPOONS.

THEIR RIG BROKE DOWN

A Party of Salem Pleasure Seekers Long Time Getting Home

Bright and early Sunday morning a jolly party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. O. Neeland, Miss Swartz and S. O. Burkhardt, with a three-stated rig, went out to Silver Creek Falls, on pleasure bent. After an enjoyable day they started home in high spirits, admiring the beauty of the Waldo Hills and verdure on all sides. Their delight, however, was of brief duration, for, while yet 16 miles from the city, the coupling of the hack suddenly went out of business, and they were stranded. Around still spread the beauty of the hills, but things no longer looked good, while a slight rain had awakened all the sticky qualities of the rich, red soil, which got in its work on shoes and skirts. The ladies arose to the occasion with many and varied suggestions about getting home, a place that had become doubly dear. Finally one of the gentlemen footed it to the nearest farm house, and persuaded the good-natured rancher to bring the party home. The only rig he had that would carry the party was a wagon and a hay rack, and on this the party negotiated the weary miles to Salem, arriving about 2 o'clock this morning, not exactly footsore, but certainly weary, but none the worse for the day's strenuous outing. The others have not yet been heard from, but this morning a bootblack earned 45 cents cleaning the crimson soil from Mr. Burkhardt's shoes, and he worked at contract rates, too. A friend who saw him said that his first impression was he had stolen a farm, and is not certain yet that suit may not be brought to recover it.

GOVERNOR CAPTURES A THIEF

Diamond Thief Caught in the Act by Governor Chamberlain

Governor Chamberlain, of Oregon, and brakeman Walker, of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, divided honors in the capture of a diamond thief during the ceremonies attending the opening of the portage road Saturday.

A few minutes before the opening of the exercises at Celilo, the group of state officials standing on the flag-draped platform, were startled by an exclamation from Governor Chamberlain: "That man's a thief!" Simultaneously the governor seized the arm of a red-nosed individual, who had quietly appropriated a diamond pin from the scarf of Dr. J. B. Morris, president of the Lewiston chamber of commerce. Others aided the governor in holding the thief until a deputy sheriff reached the platform and took him in charge.

On the special train to The Dalles rode the deputy sheriff and his prisoner to that city. On the trip the thief jumped from a window and dropped to the ground uninjured, while the train was moving at a speed of 20 miles an hour. The fugitive ran for the bluffs. His escape was witnessed by brakeman Walker, who hastily pulled the bell cord, jumped from the moving train and gave chase.

The train was stopped, and the passengers witnessed the pursuit. The thief turned at bay at a sheer bluff that rose 70 feet above him. He drew a knife and prepared to make desperate resistance. Walker closed in with a stout club. The thief was disarmed by a blow from the club and brought back to the train. When about to be put aboard the baggage car he resisted, and was beaten severely by the crowd. At The Dalles he was given a hearing before a magistrate, and bound over to the grand jury.

ENTERS THE FIFTH WEEK

The fifth week of the Martin-McVay meeting at the Christian pavilion began under very auspicious conditions yesterday. Indeed, it was the best day since the meeting has begun, and there have been a number of "bests." The evangelists were both at their best, and seem to not be growing weary in well doing, while all the circumstances seem to be working to one end, and that is that good may be the result of the efforts being put forth by these able men. There were 15 accessions to the church as a direct result of their efforts yesterday. The music by the chorus improves from day to day, and is an important feature of the service. Professor McVay is very successful as a chorus leader, and infuses a vitality in the singing that is inspiring, while his solos are pleasing and impressive. Unlike many cultured singers, he sings in such an unaffected manner and speaks his words in a clear, distinct tone, so that every word is easily understood.

"The Infallible Way" will be the subject of Dr. Martin's discourse tonight. On next Sunday afternoon there will be a special meeting for children in the pavilion. The subject will be "A Dozen Do's and a Dozen Don'ts."

County Court.

In the county court today Matt Bars was appointed guardian of his children, Jessie, aged 16; Bonnie and Bertha, each aged 14, and Samuel, aged 9.

Thomas S. Golden was appointed administrator of the estate of Thomas S. Golden, deceased.
