National Reunion of Confederate Veterans...ville Next Week

Louisville, Ky., June 13.—Louisville will keep the late string on the outside next week and put the big pot in the little one in honor of the United Confederate veterans.

There will also be more camps represented than at any former gathering of the veterans. The reports also indicate that there will be more veterans in uniform than ever before.

Another feature of the reunion in the matter of attendance will be the presence of several scores of those who were surgeons in the Confederate army.

And while the veteran will be placed prominently in the front during the week, with something provided for his comfort and entertainment every minute of the time, yet will there be much of social gaiety and brilliance for the younger set.

The big reunion ball will be given at the Galt House. This, of course, will be the largest and most brilliant of the social features.

One of the many features for the entertainment of the veterans will be a moonlight excursion on the Ohio river. This excursion, tendered to the Georgia Encampment, will take place on Wednesday night.

The work of decorating the city for the reunion will be commenced on Monday. The committee in charge of this part of the work has been busy for months past and as a result of its efforts it is promised that the downtown district will be garbed in gala attire to an extent never seen here before.

"THE YELLOW KID."

How Outcault Made His First Hit With the Help of the Color Scheme Man

Here is the story of Outcault's first hit, the "Yellow Kid."

About the time that he left Truth, Edward Harrigan's play "O'Reilly and the Four Hundred" was running successfully in New York City. In it occurred a song, "Maggie Murphy's Home," which began with the words: "Down in Hogan's Alley." Outcault had laid the scene of a little series of "comics" in Hogan's Alley, and found that the pictures were acceptable to Truth.

The "Kid" came on the scene first simply as "one of the chorus," to help fill the picture, and took no prominent part. By a happy inspiration the man who laid out the color scheme gave a glaring yellow to the gown (really night-shirt) in which Mr. Outcault had clothed him.

Mr. Outcault emphasized the ears of the brat, and promoted him from a "thinking" to a "speaking part" by inscribing some impudent legend on his gown; and the Yellow Kid had arrived! A "Yellow Kid" epidemic ravaged the land. The Kid appeared on buttons, on cracker tins, on cigarette packages, on fans, on show cards; finally he was dramatized.
