CAPTURE GERMANS

Capetown, South Africa, June 17.—The report that Hottentots had captured Warbad, the chief German military station in Southwest Africa, is confirmed. The German officers in the town escaped.

Has Strong Affections.

The Hillsboro Independent says: A curious bit of zoological tragedy and comedy is being enacted at the home of Mr. G. Walla Whitmore, near Laurel, of this county. It appears that Mr. Whitmore's little boy, being fond of using his rifle, some two or three weeks ago shot a mother skunk and two of her nest of young ones, located under an old building, leaving two little ones unharmed. A cat, whose kittens had fallen victims to the unerring aim of the small boy, made friends with the little orphan skunks, and is now contentedly nursing them, apparently to their intense satisfaction.

Sacajawca's Monument.

The Sacajawca monument was shipped from Chicago, June 14th, Salem day. It is being transported free of charge over the Northwestern lines and Northern Pacific, and so, by chance, follows very closely the route taken by Lewis and Clark, under the guidance of the woman in whose honor the statue is to be erected.

Forever Old, Yet New.

Like the story of love, which is as old as humanity, yet forever new, is the question of the meat supply for the Sunday dinner. It is an easy one if you will but think of the old reliable market of E. C. Cross. You will not be disappointed there.

Paper at the Pen.

"Lead a Hand" is the latest newspaper to make its bow to the Oregon public. It appeared among the exchanges this morning. It is a three-column, four-page paper, with some very interesting matter, and is printed and published in the Oregon state prison.

X-RAYS

It is a significant fact, and speaks well for their moderation, that none of the Salem school board called for the resignation of their own relatives.

As A. O. Condit will be president of the school board for the next year, and there may be stormy times, Dr. Eppley is at least a man who cannot be thrown out by the president.

Jake Wenger, circulating a petition for his friend of the large mouth and fine voice for school director, shows that men of fine talents will get together once in a while.

One of the school ma'ams says she don't know whether Doc Eppley or Jake Wenger is the handsomest man, but she would like to vote for all the members of the Stalwart quartet for school director.

It took fine work to remove three of the best teachers, none of them related to the school board, but all orphans, from our schools so deftly that their friends never made the discovery until they were gone. It is just that kind of business that Dr. Eppley is everlastingly opposed to, whoever was to blame for it.

Jake Wenger, that jolly fat Dutchman who sings in the Stalwart quartet, and has a tenor voice like a harp with a thousand strings, is out with a petition to make Doc Eppley school director. Jake swears by Doc and sings by him. He likes him because he is of his own build, only more so. He also likes Eppley because he is a square fellow and likes everybody, and everybody likes him. They have sung together for many years, and Jake says he has yet to find out anything about him that is not all right. In fact Jake knows him every inch, and that's a good deal. He has sung with him, and traveled with him, and fed with him and slept with him, and Jake says therefore he knows what he is talking about, and wants everybody else to know it.

The state tax commission seems to be thoroughly under control. It will carve up the big tax-dodging interests. Men who mean to do things to equalize taxation were carefully "found out" for this commission. Then to make doubly sure no one would be hurt a soft-spoken corporation employe was made secretary. To prevent any justice whatever being done to the overburdened taxpayer the whole thing was moved bodily to Portland, and will never show up again until it appears to draw pay, and parcel out the appropriation. Of course, their bill will not be thrown into the waste-basket, as the people have confidence in the whole organization. How not to tax the great interests that are escaping taxes, and how to cinch the poor man's cow, is inscribed in boxcar letters on the whole proceeding.
