TWO JEFFERSON WOMEN ASPHYXIATED

HENEY DENOUNCES GRAFT IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE

TRIAL ENDS TODAY

Oregon's Venerable Senator Is in the Hands of the Jury

Portland, Or., June 28.—The halls before the court room was opened were packed when the trial was resumed today, and there was a wild scramble to get in. Henevy resumed his argument, reviewing the evidence offered. He urged the jury to stamp out graft in the United States senate, saying that, since Burton was convicted, this would be the second case of the kind in clearing up dishonesty in the senate.

Portland, Or., June 28.—United States Attorney Henevy finished his opening argument for the prosecution in the trial of Senator Mitchell this morning, and was followed by Judge A. H. Bennett for the defense. Senator John M. Thurston will close for the defense and Henevy for the government. It is doubtful whether the case reaches the jury before tomorrow.

Henevy Upholds Tanner.

Henevy continued his strong presentation of the government's case, and will occupy part of the afternoon, making over six hours' argument. He upheld the testimony of the prosecution's witnesses, Tanner and Robertson. "Let them, if they will," said he, "attack the testimony of Tanner, and say he should not be believed because he is a perjurer. Tanner, humiliated and disgraced as he is, is nobility itself, and one to whom one might urge his children to look up to, compared to this defendant, who has sacrificed himself on the altar of friendship." The credibility of Robertson's testimony is upheld by Henevy. Bennett will open for the defense at 2:30. It is expected the case will go to the jury tomorrow evening.

Henevy concluded his argument at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and was followed by Bennett. Henevy's arguments were strong and eloquent. He carefully reviewed all the evidence, and appealed to the jury to decide the case on the evidence, and not let sentimentality interfere. He dwelt particularly on the unanswerable selfishness of Mitchell in asking Tanner to perjure himself for him, and the sacrifices made by the latter for his lifelong friend, and the contemptuous treatment accorded him.

WOMEN FOUND DEAD

Two Jefferson Ladies Meet a Sad Fate

Were on Their Way to Eastern Oregon to Locate Timber Land

(Special Telegram to the Daily Capital Journal.)

Portland, Or., June 28.—Mrs. William Jones, aged 38, and Mrs. R. F. Myers, aged 58, both of Jefferson, Marion county, were found dead this morning at 256 Eleventh street, having been asphyxiated during the night. Both came to Portland last night on their way to Prineville, where they expected to take timber claims. One jet was found turned on, and it is believed to have been accidental. Mrs. Myers had struggled terribly before succumbing and finally fell dead before the door.

(Both the ladies are well known at Salem, and were prominent in all good works at their home town. Mrs. Jones is the wife of a prominent business man, and was a worker in the Degree of Honor. Mrs. Jones leaves no children. Mrs. Myers was the wife of a wealthy hop grower, and leaves four grown sons. She was prominent in the order of the Eastern Star.)

Well-Known in Salem.

Mrs. William Jones was the youngest sister of Mrs. John M. Chase, of this city, and was herself a Salem girl, having been born and raised in this city. Besides Mrs. Chase, she leaves another sister, Mrs. P. W. VanBuren, of Astoria. Her maiden name was Zoe Lance, and she was the youngest daughter of J. W. Lance, who died in this county about seven years ago. About 15 years ago she married William Jones, of Jefferson, and has since resided in that city. Their only child, a boy of four years, died a short time ago.

Mrs. Jones was a member of the Maccabees and of the Degree of Honor, and took an active part in the work of both of these organizations. She was very prominent in the social life of Jefferson, being vice-president of the Jefferson Reading Club, and an active member of the Whist Club.

Mrs. R. F. Myers was another well known Marion county lady, her maiden name being Miss Eveline Miller. She was born on the old donation land claim of her father, Samuel Miller, south of Salem, and was a niece of Uncle Charley Miller, who is well known to all the old residents of this county. Her sudden death breaks up a happy home. She leaves to mourn her death a husband and four sons. Mr. Myer is a prominent hop grower of Ankesy bottom, near Jefferson, and it is at this place they have always made their home.

These women were members of a party who were on their way to Prineville, near which place they expected to take up timber claims. Mrs. Jones would have been accompanied by her husband, but, as he has charge of the telephone office at that place, both could not get away at the same time. It was the intention of Mr. Jones to go up and take up his claim after his wife returned.

Both of the ladies had traveled extensively, and the only solution of the accident is, the gas and electric lights were on the same fixture, and that in turning off the electric light they accidentally turned on the gas.

TEDDY A LITTLE EARLY

Gets out of Bed to Pay His Respects to His Old Wash Woman

Boston, June 28.—The first caller on President Roosevelt at the home of Bishop Lawrence was Mrs. Taylor, a colored woman, who came shortly after 8 o'clock, and waited on the veranda until the President came down stairs. The woman was stopped by secret service men, but she told them that she used to do the President's washing when he was in college, and they admitted her to the grounds. When told that Mrs. Taylor wanted to see him the President came down and shook hands with her, and held a short conversation. Mrs. Taylor said the President called on her at her home the last time he came to Cambridge. After breakfast the President was driven to Massachusetts Hill, where the commencement procession formed. The National Lancers formed the President's escort. The commencement exercises included the granting of diplomas to graduates, and the bestowal of honor degrees.

President Roosevelt and President Elliot headed the procession, followed by Secretary Loeb, Kermit Roosevelt, the President's son Former Secretary of the Navy Long, Charles J. Bonaparte, Lieutenant-Governor Guild, members of the faculty and members of the graduating classes of the various departments.

The President commemorated the occasion by today sending a cablegram to Emperor William, thanking him and the German people for the gift of the German museum to Harvard, and for many acts which in recent years have brought the two nations closer together. "This growing friendship between the two nations means much for the future welfare of mankind."

All Good, But Still Can't Win.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 28.—Perfect weather prevailed today for the tenth annual boat race over the Highland course. Thirty thousand persons crowded the bluffs on the Hudson to witness the battle of brawn and skill. Reports from all of the six crews say the oarsmen are in the pink of condition. Cornell is a strong favorite up to the start of the race, with Syracuse a strong second, Columbus, Wisconsin, Georgetown and Pennsylvania likewise had a good following.

Cornell won the four-oared race, Syracuse second, Pennsylvania third, Columbia fourth, Wisconsin fifth. Time 10:15 1-5.

Syracuse won the four-oared race. In the freshman eight-oared race Cornell first. Time 9:35 2-5, Syracuse second, Columbia third, Pennsylvania fourth.

Referee Utis announced at 4:20 the official revision, declaring Syracuse the winner. Time 10:15 2-5, which is 17 seconds under the best record on the course. Cornell was given second place.

Meets Thursday Night.

The Greater Salem Commercial club meets Thursday evening at the city police court room to clean up a few matters of business connected with observance of Salem day, and the entertainment of the National Editorial association. There will also be a proposition from the members of some of the labor organizations to have a working-men's Fourth of July celebration in this city, instead of everybody closing up and going to Portland.

The mutineers threatened to bombard Odesa. The battleship is now cruising at sea, fearing to land, while the authorities fear bloodshed if they attempt to board the vessel.

Somebody Threw a Bomb.

Odesa, Russia, June 28.—Conflicts between the people and the police have occurred at several points. An unknown striker last night threw a bomb into the cathedral, killing the police inspector. The perpetrator of the outrage was badly wounded by the explosion. Colonel Tichebanoff, assistant chief of police and inspector for Tolkechew, was injured in the rioting.
