WOMEN WANT TO SUFFER

Meeting Is Enthusiastic and Everybody Seems to Be There

Portland, Ore., June 29.—Several hundred women filled the cozy auditorium of the First Congregational church this morning and the thirty-seventh annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association auspicious. The church was tastefully decorated, the most noticeable emblem being what is called the woman's flag, which contains the usual number of stripes, but only five stars, one for each of the states which, by their constitutions, have granted the right of suffrage to women. None the less, all the states of the Union were represented. The delegations were assigned to particular pews marked off by little banners and blazoned with the name of the commonwealth.

About the rostrum, occupying seats of honor, were the national officers and pioneer workers of the equal suffrage movement. Some few familiar faces were missing, but others there were who have been active in the suffrage movement since its inception half a century ago and who have devoted their lives to its promotion and extension.

The convention was called to order by the national president, the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw of Philadelphia, who made a vigorous address in which she gave a brief epitome of the events of the last year, in so as they related to the suffrage movement. He could not report much, she said, in the line of actual progress at the last session of congress, but according to custom a bill had been framed and introduced to give women the right of suffrage. She was especially encouraged by the outlook for future success in the far east.

After the opening paper the official call for the gathering was read. This was in part as follows:

A government of men and women—not by women alone, not by men alone, but a government of men and women, for men and women—this is the aim and ideal of our association. One hundred years ago Oregon was an untroubled wilderness. The transformation of that primeval territory into prosperous communities, enjoying the highest degree of civilization, could not have been accomplished without the work of women. No restriction should be placed upon energies and abilities so potent for good. The extension of the right of suffrage would remove a handicap from the efforts of women and give them an opportunity to work for the welfare of the state.

"We do not claim that women's voice in the government would at once sound the death knell to all social and political evils. But we do believe that a government representing the interests and beliefs of women and men would prove itself, and is proving itself, where it now exists, to be a better government than one which represents the interests and beliefs of men alone. The movement for the enfranchisement of women is based upon the unchanging and unchangeable principles of human liberty, in accordance with which successive classes of men have won the right of self government.

"On such a foundation ultimate victory is assured—and, in truth, is conceded by those who oppose. The day is ever drawing nearer when the nation will apply to women the principles which are the very foundations of its existence; when, on every election day, there will be reaffirmed the immortal truths of our Declaration of American Independence. Then indeed will this be a just government, 'deriving its powers from the consent of the governed.'"

The remainder of the opening session was devoted chiefly to the appointment of the necessary committees, the reception of reports from officers and other business of a perfunctory character. The convention is to continue for one week during which there will be addressed by a number of men and women of national prominence. The afternoon and evening sessions each day are to be opened to the public at large. Executive sessions will occupy the mornings, at which the actual business of the association will be transacted. The work of over half a century will be reviewed, and statistics will be presented to show the development of the movement since its inception, also to show what has been done in some states where the suffragists have won more or less complete victory. A campaign of broader usefulness will be inaugurated and the Pacific Northwest will be marked as one of the battlegrounds, for in this

Heart Weakness.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure has made many hearts well after they have been pronounced hopeless. It has completely cured thousands, and will almost invariably cure or benefit every case of heart disease.

Short breath, pain around heart, palpitation, fluttering, dizzy, fainting and smothering spells should not be neglected. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and see how quick you will be relieved.

It cannot make a new heart, but will restore a sick one by strengthening the heart nerves and muscles, relieving the unnatural strain, and restoring its vitality.

"I had a very bad case of heart trouble. For six months I could not work. Last July I was plowing corn and feeling bad all day; in the afternoon in plowing one row I had to lay down, or fall down, three times. My heart throbbed as though it would burst through, and I had difficulty in getting my breath. I purchased a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and before I had used half of it I could lay down and sleep all night. Previously I had to get up from five to ten times a night. I have taken several bottles, and my heart is as regular as clock work. I feel like a new man, and can work considerable for an old man, 84 1/2 years old."

E. D. McGILL, Frost, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

The suffragists hope to gain many victories.

The homes of many of Portland's foremost citizens have been thrown open to the delegates and the plans for their reception and entertainment have been made on an elaborate scale.

BOUGHT CIGARS

A dispatch from New York, dated the 25th, says:

A box of cigars given to him by his wife at Christmas time nearly cost the life of Martin J. Kennedy of San Francisco. He was a passenger on the Twentieth Century Limited, which was wrecked at Mentor, O., Wednesday. He is now at Hotel Cumberland, in this city. Two minutes before the Twentieth Century ran into the open switch at Mentor, Kennedy was sitting in the combination buffet and smoker of the train, smoking one of Mrs. Kennedy's Christmas cigars. He was not a habitual smoker, but being an appreciative husband he promised his wife that he would smoke the cigars on his way East.

After dinner he selected one and went into the smoker. He had not smoked more than a third of it before he decided he had fulfilled his obligation. Throwing the cigar away, he returned to his section in the sleeping car just behind. He had scarcely seated himself when the crash came. Everybody in the combination buffet and smoker was killed.

Furious Fighting.

"For seven years," writes Geo. W. Hoffman, of Harper, Wash., "I had a bitter battle, with chronic stomach and liver trouble, but at last I won, and cured my diseases by the use of Electric Bitters. I unhesitatingly recommend them to all, and don't intend in the future to be without them in the house. They are certainly a wonderful medicine, to have cured such a bad case as mine." Sold, under guarantee, to do the same for you, by J. C. Perry, druggist, at 50c a bottle. Try them today.
