SALEM'S OLD FASHIONED CELEBRATION

THOSE WHO HAVE LISTENED WILL NOW TALK

Marion Square Will Resound With Flights of Oratory, Sweet Song, Brazen Melody and Other Things

Decorate, decorate, decorate. Let the band play, the bombs explode, and the flags fly.

Every business house in the city should fly the national colors on the Fourth of July.

Every house should be decorated and every home should show the trappings of patriotism.

Business houses in general will observe the day, but will be open in the forenoon. The banks and public offices will close.

The workmen's celebration for Salem promises to be more of a howling success every minute. The committee on finance has succeeded in securing an abundance of funds, and the financial part of the affair is assured. The committee on program has arranged an interesting and profitable program, which will be given in Marion square in the forenoon, and the committee on sports has arranged a program in the line of athletics, the equal of which has seldom been seen in the Capital City. The carpenters' union will parade the streets, and everybody will be expected to throw off all formality, and have a good old-fashioned time, if they never had one before. Seats for 5000 people are being placed in Marion square, and there will be plenty of room on the grass for those who prefer that kind of a seat.

The reform school band will head the procession at union labor hall, on state street at 10 o'clock a. m. The celebration will be called to order at 10:30 o'clock at Marion square by Mayor Waters. Rev. W. S. Gordon, of the Leslie M. E. church, will pronounce the invocation, and the big thing will be on. The first man to open up the fireworks will be Mr. Bunyan, of the carpenters' union. His theme has not yet been announced, but it will be appropriate. Ike Manning, of the Statesman; City Attorney Inman and Geo. F. Rodgers, of the Business Men's League, will be the next speakers. Each of these men will deliver an oration of not more than four hours in length, and if any one succumbs before they have finished the committee will furnish an ambulance to remove them from the grounds, free of charge. A member of Capital Typographical Union, Mr. W. H. Dunlap, will be the next of the loud speakers. After he has finished Ed. Averill will entertain the audience with a reading, which he alleges is humorous. The next number will be worth the price of admission, even though you saw or heard nothing else. It will be a vocal solo by George Lee Curtis Snyder, and one composed himself. The title of it is "Among the Fir Clad Hills of Oregon," and it is better than anything that has yet hit the trail. Mrs. Minnie DeLong-Wells will read the Declaration of Independence, and Frank Davey, the wit of Salem, will bring this part of the proceedings to a close.

In the afternoon will be pulled off the carnival of sports, for which the committee has arranged the following:

Grand Program of Sports.

MITCHELL TALK FEST IS OVER

Case Will go to the Jury Tonight and no Verdict Until Wednesday

Portland, July 3.—Honey talked all morning, and said he would give the jury an hour more this afternoon, which means the arguments will be closed at 3 o'clock. The charge to the jury is expected to be a long one, and the case is not expected to go to the jury until late tonight. It is therefore probable that tomorrow being a legal holiday, a sealed verdict will be brought in, or the jury discharged in case of disagreement. In the former case the verdict will not be made public until Wednesday.

The judge read his charge to the jury. He holds the government must show guilty knowledge on the part of Mitchell when the money was taken. The case will go to the jury late today.
