TONIGHT.

Edison—Vaudeville.

TONIGHT AT THE EDISON.

Program Promises to be one of Splendid Variety.

Coming to the vaudeville theatre for three nights only, beginning tonight, are Marautts and Hull, who present a military sketch that is extremely clever, witty and thoroughly entertaining. This team has a reputation to be proud of, and will certainly delight Salem audiences. Zarelli, the great character impersonator, is another fine number on the program for tonight. He comes from the Orpheum theatre in San Francisco, where he has just closed a three-weeks' engagement. Walker, the musical rube, will be a novelty sure to please all who see this clever act. The illustrated song is a good one, and the illustrations are a work of art. The Edisonoscope will show a new lot of fine motion pictures. Coming Thursday night, Ted McKenna and his wonderful $5000 dog, Ted.

Skipped from Chemawa.

Two Indian boys, Willie Arasmith and Artwin Tyler, ran away from the school at Chemawa Friday night, and came here, with the intention of getting back to the wildwoods on the first train. Their intentions were cut short by Officer Frank Shedeck, who arrested them and locked them up. It is in the blood of the Indian to get close to nature, and the mountain streams; the dense forest, the berry patches and wildwood draw him irresistibly at this season of the year. The desire for an outing comes with double the force to him it does to his pale-faced brother. Poor kids, their capture has a pathetic side, for their outing was only an inning in jail.

Greatly in Demand.

Nothing is more in demand than a medicine which meets modern requirements for a blood and system cleanser, such as Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are just what you need to cure stomach and liver troubles. Try them. At J. C. Perry's drug store, 25c, guaranteed.

Miss Chapler, who has just returned from the Chicago School of Oratory, and who is already a great favorite of Salem people, will take part in the program at the M. E. church on Friday evening, July 21.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Pleasant Event.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mitchell, on Cottage street, was ruled by girls Saturday evening, when their daughter, Miss Olive, entertained a number of her friends in a most delightful manner. The evening was spent very pleasantly, the picture drawing contest being a special feature. In this Miss Lena McIntire won first prize, and Miss Emma Mueller the consolation. The saddling of the mule "Maude" provoked much merriment. A large drawing of that well known character had been drawn on canvass and pinned on the wall, and each young lady, blindfolded, tried to saddle her. The first prize was won by Miss Matilda Eckerlen, and the second by Miss Margaret Putnam. Numerous musical selections were also given.

About 10 o'clock in the evening a grand march was formed, and the young ladies indulged in dancing. Punch was served throughout the evening and later refreshments were served. Miss Mitchell was assisted in serving by her sister, Miss Jessie Mitchell, and Miss Matilda Eckerlen.

The invited guests were: Misses Etta Karten, of Gervais; Leah Belle, Matilda Eckerlen, Mary Eckerlen, Emma Mueller, Loise Cronin, Lena McIntire, Bessie Schultz, Edna Schultz, Ernestine Halley, Grace Fineman, Margaret Putnam, Jessie Harriett, Nettie Reddieopp, Lou Cary, Barbara Eakin, Eunane Craig, Jessie Mitchell, Alice Meyers, Mayme Babcock, Claire Jones, Mercedes Sims and Kate Perrine of San Francisco.

Lawn Party.

The home of Guy Hoyt, in South Salem, was the scene of merry festivities Saturday evening, when about 60 young people were entertained by the members of the baseball club. The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns, and was very pretty. Games of all kinds were played, and fun reigned supreme. Refreshments were served toward the close of the entertainment.

Card of Thanks.

The undersigned wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness and sympathy in our recent sad bereavement. Mrs. H. W. Botsford and family.

CITY NEWS

A Collection of Important Paragraphs for Your Consideration.

You should not miss hearing Miss Hurley's splendid contralto voice at the recital on Friday evening, the 21st.

BURIED THIS MORNING.

Remains of the late Rev. Geo. Booth Laid to Rest.

The funeral services for the late Rev. George Booth, who died at his home in The Dalles, Friday, July 14th, was held yesterday at that place. The remains were brought to this city on the morning train, and the burial took place in the Lee Mission cemetery, Rev. W. H. Selleck, Rev. Royal and others taking charge of the services.

Deceased was 53 years old. He was well known throughout the state, and was presiding elder of the M. E. church for The Dalles district. He came to Oregon when but four years old, and has been a very useful man all his life. During his ministry his labors have been confined to the Columbia River conference, with headquarters at Spokane, Moscow and The Dalles. He has been a member and delegate to four general conferences, and attended the last one at Los Angeles. His death was due to nervous strain, brought about by overwork.

This is the first death in a family of 12 children, leaving four brothers and seven sisters. He also leaves a wife and four children. Hon. J. H. Booth, of Roseburg, and Hon. R. A. Booth, of Eugene, are brothers of the deceased. Mrs. Z. T. Keyes, of this city, is one of the sisters.

Spotted Her Beauty.

Harriet Howard, of 209 W. 34th St., New York, at one time had her beauty spoiled with skin trouble. She writes: "I had salt rheum or eczema for years, but nothing would cure it until I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve." A quick and sure healer for cuts, burns and sores. 25c at J. C. Perry's drug store.

Mrs. Hugh Muir, of Paris, Ontario, Canada, died at that place July 2. She ceased formerly lived in this city. Her son, A. B. Muir, lives at Dallas.

CAPTURED THE NEW YORK MARKET

Snake River cherries sold for the record price in New York this season, when $3.50 per box of ten pounds was paid for Bing cherries shipped from the orchard of W. L. LaFollette, at Wuwawai, in Whitman county, Wash., says a writer from Colfax. Mr. LaFollette shipped a carload of cherries to New York and received net returns of $1100 for the carload. They were mostly Royal Anns and kindred varieties, but a few boxes of Bings were placed in the car as an experiment. These took the New York market by storm and sold for $3.50 per box, wholesale, at auction. It is said the fruit retailed at 50 cents per pound.

Mr. LaFollette had about 10,000 boxes of cherries in his orchard this year and shipped to St. Paul, New York and other eastern markets. He has not had returns from all of his shipments yet, but the returns so far received show that the fruit sold for unusually good prices and that Washington fruit is becoming known and in big demand in the eastern markets. Mr. LaFollette expects net returns of from 75 cents to $1 per box for his cherries this season. At these prices this is proving one of the most profitable kinds of fruit that can be grown on Snake river.

J. W. Offield, who owns an orchard on the opposite side of the river from Mr. LaFollette's orchard of 250 acres, is engaging extensively in grape growing, and has a young vineyard of 15 acres, which is bearing its first crop this year. Mr. Offield said: "Grapes promise to be one of the best fruit crops we can grow on the river, and our location is one of the best grape districts in the west. California cannot beat us for quality nor yield of grapes. I have planted 15 acres of the best varieties obtainable and believe that grape growing will soon be recognized as one of the best industries in which we can engage. Mr. LaFollette had four acres of grapes, which yielded 2000 boxes last year, and he sold them for an average price of $1.25 per box. This is 500 boxes, worth $625 per crate. The expense of raising grapes is less than that of peaches, or several other varieties of fruit, and you can readily see that there is a big profit in the business."

Beaver-Like Bird.

Regarding some of the popular characteristics of that strange link between birds and beasts, the duck-billed platypus of Australia, a writer says: "It makes its home like an otter in a bank, tunneling up from the entrance under water some 30 or 40 feet, which its powerful forearm muscles make nothing of, to a place where it can find a dry and well-drained burrow. Its food consists chiefly of insects, crayfish or 'yabbies,' which it bolts hard shell and all. It will stay for 10 to 14 minutes at a time under water, searching the mud and stones for delicacies with its duck-like bill. It makes a most fascinating little pet, becoming very tame and squeaking with delight when fed. Its antics are a constant source of pleasure, though if care is not taken it will over-eat itself, seeming to have in captivity difficulty in digesting the hard crayfish shells. Its coat is, like the mole's, of an unusually silken and glossy texture."

The common council of Hood River has called another election on the question whether the city shall put in its own water system.
