TILLAMOOK BEAR STORY

The people in the Tillamook country are being bothered a great deal with bears. They grow quite bold and come down and eat with the pigs at the farm houses. An interesting little "bear story" comes from Tillamook county, which occurred on the large ranch of H. F. Fraser. One afternoon Mrs. Palmer Tucker, of South Salem, who is visiting on the Fraser ranch, in company with a small Fraser boy, started out to hunt a bear. After climbing over logs, tripping over roots and jumping water ditches, they struck a broad trail, which led them into a small swamp, which was surrounded by large fir trees and underbrush, and made a complete enclosure. They had just entered the same, when they were surprised and startled by hearing the angry growl of a large bear. Before they could get out of the little swamp the bear got in their way, and they saw they must shoot. The boy was braver than Mrs. Tucker and shouldered his gun in a hurry, while she hung behind. The first shot brought the bear lunging toward them, and while Mrs. Tucker was saying her prayers, the boy shot again, and the bear fell, apparently dead. So they went to him to examine their prize, when he ungallantly helped himself to the ruffe of the lady's dress. The boy immediately shot again, and this time the bear gave up the ghost. The bear, which was a fine black one, weighing about 300 pounds, was taken to camp and dressed. Mrs. Tucker is having the hide tanned as a memento of her first bear hunt.

IDAHO EDITORS

Say They Were Well Treated, and Appreciate It.

The Idaho editors and their wives, after viewing Salem yesterday, had a short wait for the train at the depot, and took advantage of it to appoint a committee of three who drafted and submitted the following resolution, which was adopted with much enthusiasm.

"We, the Idaho State Press Association, on excursion through Oregon, take this means of thanking the good people of Salem, the beautiful capital of the state, for the many courtesies shown, giving us the much-desired opportunity of viewing the many points of historic and industrial interest in and about the Capital City of the oldest and greatest and most populous of the great states of the Pacific Northwest. We especially desire to thank the Press Club and the representatives of the press at Salem, Mayor F. W. Waters and the city government, the state officials, Superintendent James and Warden Curtis of the Penitentiary, Dr. Calbreath of the asylum and the Citizens' Light & Traction Company, members of the Commercial Club and others for their kind and hearty welcome, and for the pleasant ride about the city which they were able to see from the vantage point of the street car system; for the inspection of state institutions and other courtesies; for the bounteous luncheon furnished by the hospitable people of the city, we would express as best we might the gratitude of a hungry throng of sightseers, who were eager to observe for themselves the wonders of the Willamette valley, and were scarcely prepared for the open-handed manner in which they have been received. And that a copy of these resolutions be supplied each of the daily papers of Salem with a request that they print the same.

"Respectfully submitted,
"D. L. BRADLEY,
"JOHN LAMB,
"B. W. WHITTIER,
"Committee."

BRIEF TELEGRAMS

SEVEN DAYS FROM LOS ANGELES

Auto Crowd Makes Good Run Across the Mountains.

An automobile party of five men, who are making the trip from Los Angeles to Seattle in their machine, arrived in Salem in their machine shortly before 2 o'clock, having been seven days on the road. The men are: Dr. Moore, Dr. Lawton, Mr. Stimpson, Mr. F. O. Johnson and H. R. Zimmer. The machine, a Toledo Gasoline, was perhaps the largest ever seen in this city. It has stood the trip well, and is making remarkably good time. The men are dusty and sunburned, but they were in the best of health and spirits, and are enjoying their outing to the fullest extent. The worst part of the journey was the exceedingly hot weather that they were compelled to experience in the Sacramento valley. The thermometer only registered 120 the day they passed through Marysville.

UP ABOVE MOUNT HOOD.

Strange Portents and Omens Hover Over the Old Peak.

Monday afternoon a telegram was sent from Cloud Cap Inn on the north side of Mount Hood that a strange object was hovering over Mount Hood. It was at first taken to be an escaped balloon and was traveling towards Portland. People up about Hood River thought are divided some think it is Hon. E. L. Smith's boom for governor; others that it is the price of real estate gone to seed; still others that it is one of Jim Langille's stories that he forgot to anchor. The writer's own opinion is that it is the testimony in the Williamson land fraud cases that escaped both sides, and is afraid either to go to Portland or go home.

Gauging Stations Established.

State Engineer Lewis, who has just returned from a trip up the valley reports that he and his assistant, Mr. Allan, have located the sites for 10 stream gauging stations, and that Mr. Allan is now at work on the station at Albany.

The stations that have been located so far as follows: One on the north fork of the Santiam at Mehama, one on the Willamette at Albany, one on the Santiam at Jefferson, a cable gauging station on the south fork of the Santiam at Waterloo, another on the McKenzie near Eugene, one each on the north and south forks of the Umpqua near Roseburg, one across the Rogue river at Gold Ray, a bridge gauging station at the bridge across the Willamette at Springfield, and one at the bridge across the coast fork of the Willamette, six miles above the junction.

These stations are being established for the purpose of determining the water supply of the different rivers and their tributaries. More will be established as soon as the engineer can get around to it. Men will be appointed to make daily observations at these stations and the flow of the river will be known at all times of the year.

Where? First M. E. church. What? Grand pipe organ recital. When? Friday evening, July 21st.

Damage Case Non-Suited.

The case of M. M. High against the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., being an action for damages, tried before Judge Cleghad, of Portland, was non-suited today. The case was brought by Mr. High, who is the superintendent of the county poor farm, to recover damages for horses which were killed by a train near Chemawa. In a former trial Mr. High won a verdict, but the railroad company filed a motion for a new trial, which was granted. All yesterday afternoon was consumed in taking testimony, and this forenoon with arguments on the motion for a non-suit.

Harness Case in Court.

The case of Ullman & Rutherford against McIlwain is being tried in the circuit court this afternoon. This is a suit for the possession of a set of harness of the value of $5, but which will cost somebody several times that amount before it is settled.

A BEATING DESERVED

New York, July 18.—Prompt retribution was meted out tonight to Samuel Brooks, a bather at Audobon beach, whose foolhardy mischief imperiled the lives of three young women. Brooks was rescued by the police after having received a terrible beating at the hands of hundreds of people, who had seen him rock a boat until it was capsized, and its occupants thrown into the water.

Carrie Bauer, Nellie Hatten and Agnes McLaughlin, each aged about 18 years, were rowing in the vicinity of many bathers when Brooks and a companion, who were in the water, approached and, heedless of the protests of the young women, climbed into the boat. Taking positions at either end of the craft, the men began to rock the boat and although the thoroughly terrified girls begged the intruders to desist, continued until the boat was upset.

Bathers attracted by the plight of the screaming girls, swam to their rescue, and, after a struggle, brought the three ashore in a semi-conscious condition.

Meanwhile Brooks and his companion swam away, and the latter escaped. Brooks was less fortunate and, when he reached the shore, an infuriated mob that had witnessed his performance set upon him with an umbrella and sticks and might have killed him but for the timely intervention of the police. He was placed under arrest.

A Pleasant Way to Travel.

The above is the usual verdict of the traveler using the Missouri Pacific railway between the Pacific coast and the east, and we believe that the service and accommodations given merit this statement. From Denver, Colorado Springs and Denver there are two through trains daily to Kansas City and St. Louis, carrying Pullman's latest standard electric-lighted sleeping cars, chair cars and up-to-date dining cars. The same excellent service is operated from Kansas City and St. Louis to Memphis, Little Rock and Hot Springs. If you are going east or south, write for particulars and full information.
