AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT.
Edison—Vaudeville.
THIS SHOW IS GREAT.
Double Feature Performance Makes a Hit at the Edison.
George C. L. Snyder and the great dog, Ted, shared the honors at the vaudeville theatre last night, both making a big hit at each performance. Mr. Snyder sings "The Holy City," accompanied by colored motion pictures, and the effect is extremely beautiful, the magnificent voice of Mr. Snyder being heard to great advantage in this great song. The dog had everybody guessing, his wonderful intelligence creating a real sensation. All the children in the city will surely visit the Edison this week, as this dog and his great tricks amuse old and young alike. Arthur Seymour, in a neat Dutch monologue, made a good impression, and thoroughly entertained every minute he held the stage. Stanley and Carlise, presenting a sketch entitled "Mrs. O'Grady's Washday," introduced some fine comedy work on the slack wire, and also good singing and clever dancing. Mr. Stanley makes up as Mrs. O'Grady, and his partner, Miss Carlise, as a pretty young girl of the neighborhood. This sketch makes up the proper amount of variety necessary for a good vaudeville entertainment, and consequently rounds out a very fine performance. Prize matinee Saturday. Be sure to have the children see Ted, the great dog.

Burnett Saves Jury Trouble.
After all of yesterday had been consumed in taking testimony the case of Myer vs. Livesley was brought to a sudden termination by the judge, who directed the jury to bring in a verdict for Livesley. This case had been pending in the courts for several months. At the conclusion of the trial all members of the jury were discharged and allowed to go home.

CITY NEWS

A Collection of Important Paragraphs for Your Consideration.

There is a certain worthless man in Salem who ought to be lynched, and save expenses; he will be finally.
It will bring rich red blood, firm flesh and muscle. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Taken this month keeps you well all summer. 35 cents, tea or tablets. Stone's Drug Store.
A man remarked to a Journal reporter today that it was a shame the way some women came down town these days, with their babies in go-carts with no sunshade on the cart to protect the baby from the hot sun.
If you cannot eat, sleep or work, feel mean, cross and ugly, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea this month. A tonic for the sick. There is no remedy equal to it. 35 cents, tea or tablets. Stone's Drug Store.
More money in town today—the S. P. pay car was here yesterday.
Be good to the horses these hot days. As for the dogs and cats they can take care of themselves.
If taken this month, keeps you well all summer. It makes the little ones eat, sleep and grow. A tonic for the whole family. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, tea or tablets. Stone's Drug Store.
Perhaps one reason why the weather don't suit you as well as it does the crop is because you have to wear pants, and shoes and a shirt.
Buy your meats for cash, and buy them right at Farrington's, 444 State, phone 1991 Main.
Does advertising pay? A Salem furniture man advertised a reduction sale in Monday's Journal, and before 10 o'clock the next morning he had sold $200 worth of goods.
Miss Chapler will read at the recital this evening; her first appearance, since returning from the School of Oratory at Chicago. Be sure and hear her.
Nothing is too good for the good people of Salem, therefore, you are cordially invited to attend the recital given by Prof. Goodrich this evening at the M. E. church. Admission 50c; children under 12, 25c.
A Salem young lady who was about to make a trip to Chicago brought the notice of her intended departure to The Journal office, and at the end of the notice added: "Chicago papers please copy."

Tonight at the auditorium on the exposition grounds, at Portland, will occur one of the greatest concerts ever given in the Northwest. We cannot all attend this entertainment, but we can go to the pipe organ recital at the M. E. church, and hear one of the best organists on the coast. Come and enjoy a treat.
Why the difference? Two grocery stores, one next the other, had water melons out of the same shipment on sale yesterday. One store advertised the melons at 1c per pound, and the other at 2c.
There is a man in Salem who boasts that he is not afraid of anything. Perhaps the man has never seen anything unchained larger than a mouse.
Attend the pipe organ recital at the M. E. church tonight.

Six of the housekeeping questions are settled:
tea baking-powder spices
coffee flavoring extracts soda and settled for good.

Girls Establish a Tea House.
Two girls are going to add a foreign aspect to a Long island summer village this season. There is no place in this popular resort where either the owners of the cottages or the dwellers in the numerous boarding houses can entertain, with the exception of the clubhouse piazzas, which are not always accessible, although invariably expensive.
In a place of the same size and popularity in Europe there would, of course, be restaurants and a casino and some means of living outside the house. But such features of summer life seem unknown in this country except at Newport, and one or two large resorts. So these young women are waiting with some uncertainty the result of their experiment.
They have taken a floor of what was formerly a country store, provided with rather a deep platform or piazza overlooking the street. A similar piazza has been provided on the side of the building.
The interior has been decorated with dark green Japanese paper that gives the room a delightful cool appearance. Japanese bamboo tables are scattered through these rooms and on the piazzas, which are covered with vines and hidden from the view of the street by matting screens.
This is the first tea room that the resort ever boasted. Here it will be possible to have tea every day, and the piazzas may be engaged by persons who want to entertain a large number of guests.
The two young women who furnished this place did it to make money. Now they are wondering whether the investment will pay, after all.—New York Sun.

RECKLESS AUTOIST DEAD.

Millionaire Hancock's Machine Hits Buggy—Entire Family Injured.
Los Angeles, July 21.—M. T. Hancock, the well-known millionaire plow inventor and manufacturer, is dead as the result of an automobile accident late to night, in which also his wife, son and daughter were seriously injured. Hancock himself sustained two fractures of the skull and concussion of the brain. He died at the receiving hospital without recovering consciousness.
The party, in a large machine, were traveling 40 miles an hour on South Main street, near 40th, when the machine collided with a buggy. The car swerved to the curbstone and crashed into a telephone pole, demolishing it and hurling the occupants to the street. Following are the injured:
Mrs. M. T. Hancock, cut and seriously bruised; Eugenia Hancock, left arm broken, concussion of the brain; M. T. Hancock, Jr., severely cut and bruised; J. Saul, dairyman, scalp wound and internal injuries.
Saul was the driver of the buggy into which the automobile dashed. He was thrown from his vehicle to the street.
M. T. Hancock, Jr., a 16-year-old boy, was driving the machine at the time of the accident. With him in the front seat was his younger brother, Newton Hancock, who was the only member of the party to escape unhurt. In the rear seat was Hancock, his wife and daughter. All were hurled to the pavement by the terrific impact of the machine against the curbing and the telephone pole, and several of them were rendered unconscious. They were promptly removed to the receiving hospital. The machine was wrecked.
Hancock was known here as one of the most reckless automobile drivers in the city. He had been in the police court on different occasions for driving his machine in excess of the speed limit, and on one occasion a few months ago was fined $150 for fast driving. He paid his fine at the time with a check, which he insisted should bear the inscription across its face: "For driving an automobile 60 miles an hour in the city of Los Angeles."

Los Angeles, July 21.—M. T. Hancock, the well-known millionaire plow manufacturer, died at 12:45 o'clock this morning from injuries received in an automobile accident on Main street early in the evening.
His automobile, while being driven at a high rate of speed, crashed into a buggy, and was wrecked.
