

CIRCUS COMING TO SALEM

Barnum & Baileys Great Show Will Entertain Young and Old August 23

Barnum & Bailey's advertising car No. 1 is at the Southern Pacific station. It is a very attractive looking car, covered with gold leaf on the outside, and arranged inside very much like a workshop on wheels. There are 22 bill-posters on the car and two agents. This morning at about 6 o'clock a number of the billposters left the car with teams, and went out on all the country roads to post bills. These men will be gone all day long, returning in the evening about 7 o'clock. As all the roads leading out of Salem will be posted with bills by these men, the roads radiating like the spokes of the wheel from the hub, the country around about this city for 35 miles in every direction will be completely covered with the attractive posters of Barnum & Bailey's shows.

Other men belonging to the car will post in this city on the boards belonging to the local bill poster. And still others will place attractive one-sheet posters in the store windows. By the time they will have finished their various labors of placing their attractive advertisements in the most conspicuous places, there will have been put up something like 5000 sheets of paper. This work will be duplicated by the next advertising car when it comes here a week later and triplicated by another car coming a week after that, so that by the time these three cars with their complement of men will have posted their bills, the country round about and the railroads and various towns in the immediate vicinity of Salem will have all been extensively advertised, at least 750 miles of country roads will have been traveled and posted by the men on these three cars.

Therefore, it is no wonder that large crowds of people come to towns where the Barnum & Bailey show is advertised to exhibit, and it is reasonable to expect that at least 25,000 strangers, or more properly speaking, those residing in the country districts, round about Salem, will be here on the day that Barnum & Bailey pitch their tents.

Poisons in Food.

Comforts the heart, strengthens the mind. Is good ill or well. Makes the face bright as the summer morn. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Cures when all else fails. 25 cents. Dr. Stone's Drug Store.

The big reduction sale on ladies' and men's Oxfords, in tan and blacks, is still on at E. L. Irvin & Co's this week. This is the largest reduction sale ever made in Salem. dw-1t

When you feel a sense of weight and oppression after meals it means indigestion. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea positively cures indigestion, constipation and stomach troubles. 35 cents, tea or tablets. Stone's Drug Store, Salem Oregon.

The Capitols and Merchants will play ball at Willamette University field this evening at 6 o'clock. This is the third game of the series of twelve to be played this season. Better go and let out a yell or two for your favorite.

The bill posters are putting the "paper on the wall" for Barnum & Bailey's circus that will soon show here.

If you love your dog, you had better take out a license for him right away, for the marshal will soon begin a roundup of all dogs not having a tag license on their collars.

A thunder storm early this morning passed over the city and woke up the sound sleepers, because a thunder storm in this section of Oregon is a rarity.

The smallpox scare in South Salem seems to be without any serious foundation.

Eleven bill collectors were noticed in a Commercial street store at one time yesterday afternoon, but the proprietor never turned a hair, and paid the b. c. off as good-naturedly as a book-maker cashing tickets on a 100 to 1 shot winner.

Marion county will receive $17,357 of school money under the year's apportionment. The county has a school population of 19,219, which, at $1.70 per capita, makes the above amount. Last year the amount per capita was $1.61.

There are lots of rubber-necks in town today—looking at the circus paper being put on the wall.

It was quiet at police headquarters today—so quiet that you could hear a house fall down.

People are always satisfied with meat bought at Farrington's cash market.

Some of the Salem merchants say that matches are becoming poorer all the time. If you use matches often you will have noticed that nine times out of ten the first match you strike will splinter and break. This, the merchants claim, is caused by the matches being cut across the grain of the wood. By making matches this way they are easily broken, and the sale is notably increased.

A Salem man says there is almost as much excitement in being the chauffeur of a lawn mower as a ski-doodle wagon.

Advertising Creates Value

One of the receivers of the National Salt company testified in court that a certain trademark was considered "a valuable asset," as it was the brand of salt that brought the highest price and had a good market.

Asked how this salt was different from other salts sold by the company, the receiver, hesitating, admitted that there was no difference; that they all came out of the same kettle. When the court then inquired what caused the high price and good market for this particular product the witness replied:

"Simply the extensive and attractive advertising the brand got."

One thought suggested by this curious confession is the testimony it bears as to the efficacy of advertising to create "a valuable asset," even where, as in this—let us hope exceptional—instance, the advertiser was not quite candid about the quality of the goods.—New York Herald.

THE HOP CROP SHORT

New York Gives Low Estimate, and Pacific Coast Good for 175,000 Bales

Portland, Or., Aug. 2.—With only about 800 bales of hops left unsold in this state, the market has taken on a decidedly firmer tone. Some speculators lately have been selling out at 18 cents, but growers generally are holding firm for 20 cents, though many of them will not consider even this figure.

The bears are becoming nervous, and some of them are on the point of covering. It is understood that a leading bear dealer in Washington has been covering his sales quietly during the past week. Although they are backward about confessing it, men in the trade who early in the season predicted a crop of 115,000 or 120,000 bales—some even went as high as 135,000—have materially reduced their estimates, and few now talk of a crop exceeding 100,000 bales.

Growers' estimates are much below this, and some conservative hop men believe the crop will not exceed 80,000 bales. The latest Southern Pacific figures give the 1904 crop of Oregon at 85,000 bales. A private dispatch from California yesterday said the yield of that state would be between 40,000 and 45,000 bales, from which it looks as if the entire coast crop would not exceed 175,000 bales this year.

A number of telegrams were received from New York yesterday on crop conditions and prospects in that state. One gives John Cross' estimate of the New York crop as one-fourth short of all former estimates, owing to a bad fire blight during the past week. Mr. Cross is well known all over New York state, having been connected with the firm of S. & F. Ullman, of New York City for 25 years or more. Mr. Cross lives in Oneida county. A dealer in Madison county telegraphs that, owing to the fire blight, the crop will not be over one-half of last year's. A wire from Cooperstown, Otsego county, says the crop will be one-third of that last year. A report from Schoharis estimates the New York crop from one-third to one-half, while a wire from Franklin county says the crop will be one-third short of 1904. It is these conditions prevailing in New York state, together with reports from this coast, that have caused the firmness noted in the New York market in the past ten days.

A number of transactions have taken place in this market in the last few days, and the prices paid show that the holders have refused to make any concessions. The largest sale reported was a lot of 107 bales disposed of by T. A. Riggs to Catlin & Linn at 18 cents. Riggs also sold 12 bales to William Brown, and 50 bales to a Tacoma dealer at the same figure, and now has but 66 bales of his original stock left. Pinco & Lachmund bought 56 bales of John Carmichael at 17½ cents, 12 bales of Mrs. Massey and 16 bales of Kiger, of Fairfield. Seavey & Metzler purchased two lots at 17 cents, 53 bales belonging to Inman, of Butteville, and 26 bales from Struve, of the same place.

There were some inquiries in from the East yesterday for 1905 contracts at 15 cents, but little can be done in this line in Oregon, as growers will not contract under the present short crop conditions in Oregon, California and New York state.—Portland Report.
