THE OLD WHITE CORNER

OUR STORE POLICY

When the quality of an article is sacrificed to the point where it will not satisfy its purchaser it becomes worthless and no matter how low the price the purchaser is justified in harboring a grievance against the merchant who made the sale. If a person, through either ignorance or poor judgment desires to invest in shoddy goods, we feel it our duty to protect either him or her. We enjoy the confidence of our customers and will not take advantage of them by selling them anything that will not prove a profitable investment.

POWDER EXPLODES

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The dynamite works of the Nitro Powder Co., at Mingo Hollow two miles south of here, blew up at 2:15 this afternoon. It is reported that 50 lives were lost.

Sweden Rests Easy.
Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 3.—The extra session of the riksdag was dissolved today, the speaker saying the situation still has its disquieting elements, but Sweden will be absolved from all blame. Another special session will be called as soon as Norway is ready to meet the Swedish conditions. King Oscar gives a fete tonight in honor of the German squadron, which arrived last night.

GOVERNOR HAS A TIME.

First Wined and Toasted, Then Stuffed With Clams.
Marshfield, Or., Aug. 3.—Governor Chamberlain is the guest of the people of Marshfield today. While his coming was unheralded and it was known but a few hours in advance, he was welcomed on his arrival by a throng of people. It is a rare occasion that the state's chief executive ever visits this section, and Governor Chamberlain is the second acting governor to place his foot on Coos county soil, and his trip into Curry county will probably entitle him to the distinction of the first call in that part of Oregon by the chief official during his term of office. This afternoon Governor Chamberlain is the guest of the merchants of Marshfield on an excursion around the bay, and at a clam bake on the beach at the entrance to the harbor.

FOR HOP GROWERS ONLY.

Foreign Dealers Call Attention to Arsenic and Dirt.
A prominent London firm of hop dealers send the following letter to Mr. Kola Neis, of this city. The letter is dated London, June 20th, and is as follows: "Dear Sir: Before entering into next season's business, we should like to call the serious attention of Pacific growers to the handling of their hops, as, unless greater care is used, the outlet in this country will be considerably reduced. Many complaints have been received from consumers the past season on the following points: 1st. Arsenic—On analysis, several growths have been found to contain a much larger amount of this poison than is now allowable by recent acts of our government. From careful inquiries it has been traced to the use of crude Japanese sulphur in the kilns, and we believe can be entirely eliminated by using other brands of sulphur, easily procurable, and practically free from this obnoxious element. 2d. Dirty Picking—The excessive amount of leaves, stems and other foreign matter have often amounted to 15 per cent of the contents of the bale. Many of the large users of these hops refuse to accept bales so packed. In former years clean picking was a great feature in Pacific hops, and materially assisted the sale. 3d. Heavy Cloth—On all hops sold here, actual weight of cloth is allowed to the purchaser. We find that not only a heavier sacking, but an unnecessary quantity is now being used; often amounting to 9 to 11 pounds per bale. If this continues, actual tare in future will have to be allowed by growers. In no case should the weight exceed 7 to 8 pounds. We hope you will kindly give the above your best attention, and notify those growers whose hops we are in the habit of handling."

SALEM AFFAIRS

All Sorts of Local Paragraphs Left Over From Other Pages.
A Salem duchess, wearing one of those shovel hats that sticks out about three feet in front, was riding in one of the open cars yesterday afternoon, when a strong puff of wind came up and carried off the duchess' headgear into one of the side streets. The conductor stopped the car, and it took three men and the duchess to capture the hat, while the rest of the passengers looked on and offered advice.

Yesterday afternoon at the depot just as the northbound passenger train came in there was a kissing and hugging scene between a young man and woman that was a delight and joy to the passengers. A person who kept tab said there were nine hugs and kisses before the couple broke away.

The ball game last evening at the University grounds between the Capitals and Merchants was won by the former club by a score of 5 to 4. A good-sized crowd saw the five innings played, and the game throughout was interesting.

John Ross, the man taken into custody last night by Officer Shedock, and who claimed to be an escaped patient from an Eastern insane asylum, was up this morning before Recorder Moores. The man told the recorder he was on his way to California, did not appear to be daffy, and the recorder told him to move on, which he did.

It took the fire department just 33 seconds from the time the alarm was turned in this forenoon to get out of the house onto the street.

FIGHTING THE FEVER

New Orleans, Aug. 3.—Two deaths from fever were reported up to 1 o'clock. There was official report of new cases. The excitement in the country districts is growing more acute with the discovery of cases at other points. Doctors here are disposing of the question whether all the cases can be traced to New Orleans. A trainload of passengers on the Iron Mountain railway has been held up in Concordia parish, removed from any habitation. They loudly complained by telegraph to the railroad commission, declaring that they have had neither food nor water, and nothing has been done to relieve them. Efforts are being made to move the train. Monroes, La., with fever on three sides, has placed militia and armed citizens on every road. New Iberia, La., has a curfew law. Columbia, Miss., has decided to guard against infection by the use of rifles, and many of the smaller towns are passing mosquito ordinances.

New Orleans, Aug. 3.—Governor Blanchard this afternoon ordered out the Louisiana troops.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The postoffice department will co-operate with the marine hospital service in the effort to prevent the spread of yellow fever in the South. Circulars describing methods of screening against and destroying mosquitoes will be sent to 15,000 post-offices.

New Orleans, Aug. 3.—Over 200 men of the naval brigade in five schooners and by special train will arrive at Rigolets tonight. Governor Blanchard also issued orders to the sheriffs of the coast parishes to arrest all boats and patrols of Mississippi found in Louisiana, to seize all property of such and secure indictments for trespass. The matter is very serious, and soldiers in the armory when the order came immediately started on a vessel of the state oyster commission. Rigolets is in the city limits. From there several vessels will sail to cover the Louisiana coast. It is possible bloodshed will be involved, if the Mississippians cross the state line. The excitement is intense here, and the crowds cheered the men as they marched to the boats. At noon the report is, no new cases and only two deaths.

MILL CITY BRIDGE.

Marion and Linn Counties to Unite in Building It.

The Marion county court, which has been in session yesterday and today, has so far spent all its time considering claims, except this forenoon, when members of the Linn county court came down. The object of the conference of the two courts was to consider the matter of rebuilding the Mill City bridge. A reasonable understanding has been arrived at between the two courts, and the time has been set for visiting the bridge site as next Friday evening. Some are of the opinion that the bridge should be repaired where it is. Others think it should be removed from its present site, and it will not be known just what action will be taken until the two courts have visited the scene.

Commissioner Butler stated that the break in the bridge was the most peculiar he had ever seen. The bridge has two spans, and the end is at the sawmill plant of the Curtis Lumber Company. In the one span a timber is broken in the center. The timber is 7x15 inches, and is as sound as a dollar, and he cannot explain why the break occurred. It is not uncommon for bridge timbers to give way where they are spliced, but in this case the splice held, and the timber broke in the center of the span. The Linn county court rather favors building a new bridge either above or below the present structure, one span being sufficient in either place, and a new bridge could be built for less money than it would cost to rebuild the old one, broken as it is.

ADDITIONAL PERSONALS.

Dr. Clarence Crane and wife, of Boston, came up from Portland this morning to attend the funeral of the former's grandmother, Mrs. H. K. McCully, and will remain several days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Murphy. Dr. Crane was born and raised here, and will be remembered by many Salem people, especially old-time residents.

Congress of Esperantists.
Boulogne, Aug. 3.—An international convention of Esperantists opened here today and will continue for a week or 10 days. The Esperantists aim to bring into use a universal language along the lines attempted by the followers of "Volapuk" a number of years ago. The Esperantist movement has already made considerable progress, as is evidenced by the fact that the convention is attended by representatives from almost every European nation, as well as delegates from India, Japan and New Zealand.
