Hops Go Lower.

North Yakima, Wash., Aug. 16.—The prices of hops are going lower as the season advances. A number of the big growers of Yakima have lost money during the year. Three lots have just been sold at prices ranging from 15 to 17 cents. As high as 31 cents was offered last fall for some of these hops, but the growers were holding out for a higher price. E. B. Preble sold 100 bales to G. C. Mitchell for 17 cents. Fred Alter bought the Evans lot of 30 bales for 16 cents, and the A. W. Morrison lot of 95 bales at 17 cents. P. J. Lynch sold 176 bales to Charles Carpenter on consignment at 15 cents. For the last lot the owner was offered 31 cents last fall, but he refused, expecting a higher price. The prospects for a fine crop this year are good. Some damage will be done in the "School Section" by lice.

A Welcome Home.

The editor of the Bickleton News took a vacation recently, and engaged a "sub" to keep down the tripod during his absence. This is the way he found matters on his return: "When the editor returned home Tuesday evening he found the temporary editor, Lester, down—he having left that morning. We found the office in a frightful condition, and only one page of the paper up, where there should have been three pages. During our absence he also sold four crates of lemons and two crates of oranges for us, for which he failed to leave the money. He will probably be returned here if he can be captured. We have been working night and day to get this issue of the paper out on time."

A Pleasant Way to Travel.

The above is the usual verdict of the traveler using the Missouri Pacific railway between the Pacific coast and the east, and we believe that the service and accommodations given merit this statement. From Denver, Colorado Springs and Denver there are two through trains daily to Kansas City and St. Louis, carrying Pullman's latest standard electric-lighted sleeping cars, chair cars and up-to-date dining cars. The same excellent service is operated from Kansas City and St. Louis to Memphis, Little Rock and Hot Springs. If you are going east or south, write for particulars and full information.

BOOKKEEPERS PLAY BALL.

Take the State House People Into Their Camp Easily.

By a score of 15 to 5, and amidst the greatest excitement, the bookkeepers took the Capitols into camp last night on the 'varsity field. There was plenty of brilliant playing and heavy hitting, and some that was not so brilliant, but, amid it all, the greatest feature of the game was Gatens. The genial "Irishman" was certainly the whole show, and if it had not been for him the crowd would have demanded their money back at the box office. If his team lost it was not because he did not talk enough, for he was everywhere all the time, and keeping up one continuous string of talk.

Although this was the first victory for the ink-daubers, they certainly had everything their own way last night, and put up such an article of ball as to cause many to pick them as the winners of the series. First Baseman Riggs opened up the brilliant part of the performance by swatting the horseshoe over the fence and trotting around the bags for a home run. This was repeated by Damon, who put the ball clear over the center fielder. Charley King, who was in the box, plainly had the better of Kozier, his opponent, and kept the Capitols guessing all the time. The next game of the series will be played Friday evening, and will be between the Bankers and the Merchants.

BARNUM & BAILEY METHODS.

Successful Way in Which the Great Show is Advertised.

The coming visit of the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show on Earth to this city fresh after its unparalleled triumphs throughout Europe, ought to arrest the attention of every business man.

The public already knows that this last of several visits to foreign lands made by the Barnum & Bailey Show, has been its longest and greatest. It has been for five years in Europe, and it has been a revelation abroad of American magnitude and merit. Perhaps no other one element has entered more largely into the enormous increase of American foreign trade—and this is said in all seriousness. This fact is likewise a reminder of the further fact that the Barnum & Bailey Show will very likely attract to this town the biggest crowd that it has ever held. It is well known by those who have ever studied the subject that crowds who come to this town to attend a circus, come not only for a holiday, but for marketing and shopping as well. These crowds are drawn by the reputation of the show, and that reputation is made first by the stupendous scale upon which it is advertised, and next by the exhibition itself.

The unthinking observer might imagine that the vast advertising of this acknowledged greatest show on earth is superfluous, but its owner and controller, Mr. James A. Bailey, is a business man, and invests his money only where he sees a return. His business experience carried him through the experimental stage many years ago, and he knows exactly what to expect from every investment he makes, and when he invests in advertising he does it with the certainty that he is going to get a return for his money. Now, if it is necessary for such an enormous establishment, as large as Barnum & Bailey—the Greatest Show on Earth—to advertise in the manner which it does, how much more necessary is it for business enterprises not so well known, to advertise? Indeed, the coming of this show is an object lesson in advertising that ought to be seriously considered by every business man in this community, and the example it sets in advertising is one which ought to be followed by everyone thinking to do business as a matter of common sense procedure.

The date of the exhibition of the Barnum & Bailey Greatest Show will be Wednesday, August 23, and this hint to the wise ought to be sufficient.

Railroad Commissioners' Convention.

Deadwood, S. D., Aug. 16.—The National Association of Railroad Commissioners opened its seventeenth annual convention here today. President Ira B. Mills of Minnesota delivered his annual address and Secretary Edward A. Mosely of Washington, D. C., submitted his report. Many important matters are to be considered by the convention this year. The convention will remain in session here to the end of the week and will then go to Portland, Ore., where the work of the convention will be concluded.

Keystone Democrats in Convention.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 16.—The Democratic state convention met here in adjourned session in the Lyceum theater at noon, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the supreme court. Chairman J. K. P. Hall called the convention to order and explained the object of the meeting. After the usual committee had been appointed the convention took a recess.

There is a strong sentiment in favor of endorsing John Stewart, the Republican nominee for the supreme court, to follow the fusion with the independent Republicans of the state in favor of William H. Berry, on the Democratic ticket for state treasurer. An effort was made to induce the Democratic state central committee to endorse Stewart, but Chairman Hall ruled out the proposition. As there is no other candidate of importance in the field, the candidacy of Stewart will probably be endorsed by the convention.

WOMAN DRIVING OUT MAN

Has Gradually Taken His Place in all Indoor Occupations

Detroit, Aug. 16.—The annual convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors opened here today. About 150 delegates were present. The speech of Mr. Boden, superintendent of compulsory education at Chicago, was the feature of the day, and created a mild sensation among the delegates. The speaker produced federal statutes covering the past 20 years, showing that the industrial competition of women, children and machine labor was driving the men out of the large cities to fields of heavy manual labor in mining and agriculture. He declared the women were destined to be the ruling sex in industrialism, and continued:

Women Driving Men Out.

"Man, like the Indian, is dying out and being driven out. In 1890 there were 3,941,571 women who were employed in the gainful occupations in America. In 1900 the number had increased to 5,329,807. The birth rate among the female occupations is increasing and the death rate decreasing. It is just the reverse among the males. We are rapidly drifting to the age of the 'terral feminine,' when man will be a back number and forced to return to the soil, and to those fields of labor where only his physical endurance will save him in the struggle for survival."

In discussing the competitive life for the leadership in society, the speaker said:

Society a Maze of Glass Houses.

"Society is dying out at the top. It is a crystal maze of glass houses, where no occupant dares cast the first stone; the dangerous example, the academy of divorce. Society has mothers who are slaves to the siren calls of fashion and frivolity, who look more often into their mirrors than into the faces of their children. With a fashionable mother gadding about at social functions and a fashionable father at his club, the result will be that within a decade the question of the neglected children of the rich will become as great a social problem as that of the neglected children of the poor."

BULLION EXHAUSTED.

Explanation of Suspension of Coinage at Philadelphia Mint.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The suspension of gold and silver coinage at the Philadelphia mint, beginning tomorrow, is explained at the treasury department by the statement that the stock of silver bullion is entirely exhausted, and there is no call at present for gold or minor coins. Some time in October, it is thought, the accumulation of uncurrent silver will warrant the resumption for a time of recoinage of silver dollars into subsidiary coins, as has been proposed. The outlook for continued active operations at the Philadelphia mint are not regarded as good.

During the coming suspension of coinage, the mint will be open to receive deposits of gold bullion, as usual.

Trouble Was Bruin.

Sumpter, Or., Aug. 16.—A party of campers near here have just had a unique experience with a black bear during their sojourn in the woods. It was while the men folks were away from the camp, and it was defended only by two frail women, that the monarch of the forest made his appearance. The women had gathered a bucketful of luscious huckleberries, and to these the bear immediately laid claim. With fear and trembling the women watched the beast devour the fruit of their toil. They dared not run for fear that in their flight they might attract the attention of the bear to themselves, and thus furnish another delightful morsel for his ravenous stomach.

After the berries were finished the animal proceeded to help himself to other staples in the camp larder. He tore the flour sack, to pieces, and when he finished looked more like his polar brothers than aboriginal of these woods. After having eaten his fill, which, by the way, about denuded the larder, he departed and left the wreck for the ladies to repair. The party passed through here yesterday, the women feeling that they had about all the camping experience they wish for this season.

Verdict of the Van Dran Jury.

Portland, Or., Aug. 16.—We, the jury, find that the deceased, Minnie Van Dran, came to her death about 10 o'clock Saturday evening, August 12, 1905, at her residence, 33 1/2 North Seventeenth street, Multnomah county, Oregon, that from the evidence the jury finds that the deceased came to her death from drinking a portion of a glass of ginger ale, which contained large quantities of cyanide potassium. When, how, where and by whom said poison was placed in the bottle is to this jury unknown.

Why He Wept.

During the funeral of one of the Rothschild family in Paris a beggar was noticed standing among the on-lookers sobbing bitterly. A bystander, touched by the man's grief, endeavored to comfort him. "Do not weep so bitterly, my poor friend," he said. "See, even his relatives are able to restrain their grief more than you are doing." Then, as a new idea struck him: "Surely, you are no relative of M. de Rothschild?" "N—not!" sobbed the beggar. "That is just why I am so unhappy."—T. P.'s Weekly.

Trouble in Poland.

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 16.—Details of the rioting in Bialostok have been received. A bomb was thrown into a detachment of soldiers, two being killed and three wounded. Troops were called out and fired on the citizens in different parts of the town. At least 40 were killed and over 200 wounded.
