WHITNEY AND CRAWFORD LOST.

Are Setting Fires, and Will Be Found if Fuel Holds Out.

Before Attorney-General Crawford left this city for a hunt in Southern Oregon he remarked that if he ever got lost himself, and was satisfied of that fact, he would set out a fire, and make it as big as possible. Then, if any forest rangers were within sight they would come to him. He said, of course, he would be arrested and fined, but if fined he would be found. This may account for a telegram that came to the state printer's office from Roseburg from one of the forest rangers. It reads: "Forward 500 fire notices. Bush, Whitney and Crawford lost and are firing the timber. Posse gone." Foreman Godfrey sent the fire notices on the first train.

C. A. Bort, Ralph Taylor and W. S. Spaulding took their seine down below town yesterday and removed from the Willamette river 145 bass and catfish. Many of them were large, and one weighed six pounds. The fish were disposed of at the local markets, and Salem people are having a rare feast.

FARMERS ARE NOT WANTED BY PORTLAND PUSH

Combination Said to be Forming Between the Machine and Eastern Oregon Candidate

It is reported from the political center that the machine interests at Portland have decided that Charles A. Johns, of Baker City, is the most "available" man to nominate for governor.

THIS MEANS THAT "FARMER" WITHYCOMBE, OF WASHINGTON COUNTY, IS NOT THE CHOICE OF THE INNER CIRCLE WHO HAVE BEEN DOING THINGS.

The fact also leaks out that Wm. P. Keady and other gentlemen, who have manipulated spoils along the old lines, have their knives out to slaughter the aforesaid agriculturist.

It will be remembered that several avowed "farmers" have been defeated. Col. Cornelius, D. P. Thompson and T. T. Geer were downed by the Portland politicians, and Portland men who were not farmers elected.

A PORTLAND MAN OF SOME OTHER PARTY IS PREFERRED TO ANY "FARMER" OR ANY KIND OF A "FARMER."

It remains to be seen whether the cards can be so shuffled as to shut out a Willamette valley farmer like Withycombe. For he has a good stock farm, can talk farm, and in fact has the backing of the farmers today more than any other aspirant for a state office among the Republicans.

A SURE TOUGH PAIR

John Vanderman and a lady claiming and claimed to be his wife were arrested Saturday evening by Chief Cornelius, near the depot. They were charged with indecent conduct, and indeed had so demeaned themselves under the oaks, and in plain sight of the residents of that neighborhood, that several telephone calls were sent to Chief Cornelius.

Vanderman is a cripple, with not much visible means of support, as one leg was gone and the other rendered somewhat uncertain from having to carry a phenomenal deckload of booze. His better four-sevenths (one of his quarters was gone) had, with true wifely self-abnegation assumed as much of the load as she could wiggle with, and heroically endeavored to carry it beyond the city limits. They were both weary by the time the depot was reached, and there was where their trouble began.

When Cornelius, in response to the numerous and accumulative calls, put in an appearance, and invited them to go with him and enjoy the luxurious hospitality of the city jail, they both objected. The man's protests were ardent, but they paled into the shadow of a shadow beside the torrential vocabulary that literally broke its "dam" and flooded the atmosphere along State street. A cowboy, properly primed with booze, can do stunts with the italics of the English language, with some things emphatic on the side, in Mexican. A canal boat captain is no slouch and a pirate has a reputation along that line. A soldier in the regular army is supposed to be a past master in the art, and the man who punches bulls in a logging camp or skins mules on the sage brush plains of Nevada and Arizona each has a brand of profanity that can safely claim to be the only one born in captivity, but that woman could put the whole crowd together, and beat them so far they would think they were left at the post.

The man claims to be an upholsterer by trade, and took to drink only two short years ago to drown his sorrows over the death of his father. He begged not to be sent to jail, and promised never, never to touch anything red and fluid again as long as he lived. The woman is 30 and looks like 60. The cause of the downfall was a mixture of alcohol and port wine, a combination rarely equaled and never excelled as a drunk-producer.

Recorder Moores gave the man 90 days, and, as the woman refused to leave town without her husband, there was no other way than to give her the same sentence.
