OFFICIAL CENSUS SALEM, MAY, 1904, 13,287.

IS ROOSEVELT ANOTHER JACKSON?

President Jackson's election announced the triumph of the radical over the moderate democracy.

For the first time professional politicians and the crowd took possession of the White House.

The dynasties of state that had ruled with a high hand was discontinued.

Jackson overshadowed all his cabinet and the leaders in both houses of congress.

President Jackson became the President of the masses. He had been their idol, and now became their leader.

The aristocracy of land-owners, slave-owners, and the bourgeoisie of traders had long been supreme.

Apply the parallel to Roosevelt. He is the idol of the people, and overshadows the party leaders pretty badly.

But the politicians and the mob are not exactly running things at Washington. There he differs from Jackson.

But as a fighter, a good shot, an intrepid soldier, a man of fearless heart, Roosevelt again resembles the Democrat of Democrats.

He is not the president of the trusts and monopolies. The big corporation and tariff barons are lying awake nights to study his defeat.

BEGINNING CITY POLITICS EARLY

The circulation of anonymous bulletins accusing the city officials of not enforcing the laws has begun with a vengeance.

It is a high-minded style of blackmail, but has back of it the purpose of defeating certain men in their political aspirations.

As Mayor Waters and City Marshal Cornelius have each about a year and a half to serve, it cannot be aimed at them.

Business is dull for some months yet in the political line, and no wonder the street politicians and political newspapers jump at the chance to air the conditions of Salem.

The city of Salem has been very quiet this summer. It has never been kept free of objectionable elements and abuses.

There have been city administrations when every other door was a gambling place in some blocks.

According to the circular there are only two places in the city where any gambling is permitted or carried on. That would make Salem the cleanest town on this side of the Rockies. Time something was being done.

The city council and the city officials who have brought this about have broken the record for moral cleanliness.

It is time to begin an agitation and sweep this all away, and get back to the good old days, when the city was run wide open.

AFTER REAL LAND THIEVES.

The indictment of the Tillamook timber land thieves has a little of the right ring.

There is no doubt that large frauds have been perpetrated in that part of the state.

Will they be convicted and then used to indict and convict some more big fish?

The Lane county land fraud specialists were all let off, and promised immunity.

The whole purpose of the government has been to convict senators and congressmen.

Why not convict a few of the real thing professional land thieves and send them to prison?

Does any one believe the Tillamook land thieves will be convicted, or sentenced if they are convicted?

Does any one believe that Claude Thayer, the son of an ex-governor, a member of the legal profession, and a Democrat, will be convicted by Honey? Honey is after the "big fish" for political effect, to make way for other politicians who want their places.

Let us all see what becomes of the Tillamook land thieves, who are of the professional class.

IN THE WORLD OF MUSIC.

Probably the first of the "European invasion" of musicians for the coming season will be Harold Bauer, the pianist. He comes in September for the Worcester festival, after which he proceeds direct to the Pacific coast.

A pianist who can visit America four times in six years and each time with increasing success must indeed be an idol among the musical elect. Such a one is Harold Bauer.

A young American tenor, who has made marked advance in his profession, is Ellison Van Hoose, who will again devote the coming season to concerts in this country.

He is of Holland descent, but being born in Tennessee, he can justly be claimed by America. Much of his schooling was obtained here, being supplemented by courses of study with the leading European masters.

Last season a new woman violinist came into the view, Marie Nishols, who, an American girl, had lived and studied abroad most of her life.

Although the youngest of the three she ranks with Lady Halle and Maud Powell, and the vogue she has already attained promises to make her the most famous of the woman violinists.

HIGH SOCIETY WOMEN SMOKE.

It is stated in great headlines in the Sunday blanket sheet newspapers that smoking is on the increase among women in high society.

It is stated that the ladies of the nobility in Japan and the American society women do not smoke. Tally one for American society.

It is the women of high society in Europe who have caused more than one bloody revolution.

In the days of Edward the Third, in England, it was high society women who caused the first peasants' uprising.

It is stated in history that they neither feared God nor the chaste voice of the people, and were killed in the revolt like rats.

It was the practices of high society women that caused the downfall of the Roman empire and overthrew the empire.

It is said to be the common practice for the ladies of high society in Europe to finish their dinner with a cigar in the smoking room.

Well, there is one satisfaction about it: That kind of women leave no vigorous offspring, if they leave any, which is better still.

They perform a great service if they pave the way for the destruction of the effete monarchies, and the introduction of better forms of government.

THE OREGON HOP CROP.

Estimates on the crop of 1905 vary from 80,000 bales to 100,000 bales, with indications that it will come nearer the latter figure.

The quality will be of the very best, depending on the skill and care of the employee and managers who make the crop.

As to prices, the indications are that most growers who have contracts will get far above the market price.

Prices are apt to vary between twelve and twenty cents, and we advise growers to sell at any figure above fifteen cents, unless able to hold.

We have always regarded any price above twenty cents as purely a speculative figure. We have always advised sales at reasonable profit.

The careful grower, who does his own cultivating and manages picking and drying with his own fuel, can make hops at less than ten cents.

That includes estimating all cost of his own labor and services at good prices, and he can grow and sell hops at ten cents and make money.

Of course, there will always be those who will speculate, and this advice is not for them. No one can advise a speculator or gambler.

Another Inventor.

Herbert Gamble has now invented a new kind of reverse attachment to the steam engine. The throttle being the reverse the engine may be run backwards and forward. This invention works to perfection. He will probably apply for a patent. No questions will be answered concerning the invention. He is now building a 4 1/2 horse power locomotive, to which the reverse will be attached.

Americans and Publicity.

The editor of the Independent prints a long screed under the caption "Publicity Topsy-Turvy," which raises the question whether it is the habit of leading newspapers, or whether he reads any newspaper at all. This is the way, according to his assertion, the American newspaper regards the office holder: All this, however, is only one-half of the American theory and practice of publicity. The other half is quite as interesting and more important. It consists in the assumption, tenaciously held and religiously regarded, that matters of real public concern, upon which every citizen should be fully informed, ought to be very carefully covered up, and that to reveal them, is always a grave breach of decorum. Chief among such concerns are the fidelity or faithfulness of all public servants, the management of political parties, and the conduct and accounts of public service corporations.

An official having been elected or appointed to a position of public trust should be "honored" and in general taken at his face value. To inquire too curiously into the conduct of his office is to "open the door to scandal," which is annoying to any administration. In like manner, party bosses are deserving of the esteem of mankind. Their services are indispensable. Moreover, they are astute men, and for ordinary humans to question them too closely or call them to account is a presumption that no sane politically minded person would think of being guilty of. That is to say, he would not think

A Record Breaker.

It is said that the greatest and quickest permanent advertising success on record is that of Cascarets Candy Cathartic, which have been persistently advertised in every way, but chiefly in newspapers for about six years. In that time the sale of Cascarets has grown from nothing to over one million boxes a month. This wonderful record is the result of great merit successfully made known. Those who tried Cascarets as a direct result of advertising were pleased and recommended the article to their friends, until its fame was spread to become universal.

Another Logging Injury.

Frank Dixon, an employe of the Button-Benninger logging camp was brought to the Eugene hospital Friday evening in an unconscious condition, suffering with a wound on the head, which was caused by a limb striking it while falling a tree. He is in a dangerous condition and the physicians will probably resort to trephining to relieve the pressure on the brain caused by indentation of the skull or hemorrhage. An unfortunate circumstance is the fact that no one knows where Mr. Dixon is from, so that his relatives, if he has any, can be communicated with.—Eugene Register.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is unquestionably the greatest blood and liver medicine known. It positively and permanently cures every humor, from Pimples to Scrofula. It is the Best Blood Medicine.

of inquiring into the boss' conduct, in so far as it is political. If, however, the boss should be so unfortunate as to fall upon domestic duties, that would be another matter altogether. These should be fully aired in the "sunlight of publicity." The newspaper reporter should by any means, lawful or unlawful, obtain possession of the originals of any tender epistles that may have passed between the gentleman and his wife, and especially any that may have passed between himself and other ladies, and should print them in full. If possible, he should produce a complete series of family daguerreotypes, or other portraits, revealing the development of facial expression since infancy.
