Swells of Ancient Egypt.
From what has come down to us, written, painted or etched, the Egyptian lord must have been a great swell. The details of the twelfth dynasty show Egyptian elegance at its best. The lord has a male housekeeper, his mistress d'hote, called "superintendent of the provision house." There was a "superintendent of the baking house," and the mixer of drinks had the title of "scribe of the sideboard." Perhaps he was a butler and regulated the supply of wines from the cellar. There were gardeners, porters, an handicraft men, all busy in attending to the master. "A preparer of sweets" must have been a confectioner. The Egyptian when he was no longer mortal had hopes of being well fed in the hereafter, as he believed he would be nourished in his particular heaven with abundant goose and beef. Offerings to gods show the variety of the Egyptian menu, and in one are included ten kinds of cooked meat, five kinds of birds or game, sixteen varieties of bread and cake, six assorted wines, four brews of beers, eleven sorts of fruits and an endless number of sweet things.

Flowers in Northern Russia.

An English traveler in northern Russia writes to the Gardener's Chronicle that nothing surprised him more than the universal presence of well grown flowering plants in dwelling rooms. Even in the cells of monasteries and in the studios of city photographers farther north than Archangel he found such plants as clematis, crotons, pelargoniums and fuchsias in almost every room. The double windows, so necessary to keep out the cold, have a draft light space between them filled with flowering plants, and it does not seem necessary to open them for air during the short hot summer. From September to June the country is buried in snow and shut in by ice. The average temperature for January is only 10 degrees. The July temperature, however, has an average of 60 degrees F., which is hardly to be wondered at when it is remembered that the sun shines 24 hours out of the 24.

ROASTED ALIVE ON STREET.

Playmate Drenches Clothing With Gasoline, Then Touches Match.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Hannibal, Mo., says: Charles Christian, 11-year-old son of Lee Christian, was roasted alive in Union street Thursday night, by another boy named McLain, who dashed a can of gasoline over the clothes of young Christian, and then applied a lighted match.

Christian was playing on the street with several other boys when McLain walked up swinging a gasoline can. After twice threatening to roast the Christian boy alive, he finally made his word good. He unscrewed the cap of the can, rushed upon Christian and drenched him from head to foot with gasoline. Before the unfortunate lad could get away he touched a lighted match to his trousers, which were soaked with the gasoline. Instantly the boy was enveloped in flames. He fell to the ground screaming in agony and fighting the fire. Many persons ran to his rescue and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Every stitch of clothing was burned from young Christian's back, and his injuries proved fatal.

Ghetto Romance.

(From the London Mail.)

Unannounced and unrecognized, Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes and her millionaire husband on Saturday visited No. 17 Black Lion yard, Whitechapel, where she, as Rose Pasteur, had lived until she was 11 years old.

The neighboring residents, taken thus by surprise, failed to realize that the lady in gray motor-coat and cap to match, accompanied by a tall, youthful looking man in tweeds and a straw hat, were the one-time daughter of the Ghetto and her American husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes arrived in a motor-car, which they left in Whitechapel road. On foot they walked quickly up to No. 17 Black Lion yard, where they stopped but a moment to look at the very ordinary dwelling which had known Mrs. Stokes long before she became poetess, poorworker and wealthy bride.

Mrs. Stokes was seen to speak excitedly to her husband, pointing out the rooms which her family had occupied. Then the couple passed swiftly to old Montague street and by a roundabout way back to the waiting motor-car in Whitechapel road.

Earlier in the day Mrs. Stokes called on Mr. Samuel Levine, an uncle living at No. 7 Chahbord street. Here she was expected, and a crowd gathered as soon as word was passed that a motor-car had stopped in Calvert avenue. Several hundred persons followed Mr. and Mrs. Stokes as they made their way along Mount street, and gathering in front of the house in Chahbord street filled the street to the building lines, held in check by two policemen.

For an hour and a half Mr. and Mrs. Stokes sat talking to the old uncle who had known her only as a little girl. He had a story of hardships and falling health to tell, for the old man is a chronic invalid, although he still works at his trade of bootmaking.

"You must start at once for America," said Mrs. Stokes, and gave him the address of the settlement in New York City which owes so much to her and her husband's untiring effort. An aunt named Mrs. Maurice Rosenthal, who lives in Duval street, arrived before the visitors left, with her husband, son, daughter-in-law and grand-children. The old lady wept when she saw "little Rosey."

"I shall see you all again on Monday," as she prepared to leave. Chahbord street raised cheer after cheer as Mr. and Mrs. Stokes returned to the motor-car.

Grave Trouble Foreseen.

It needs but little foresight to tell, that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young, of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by J. C. Perry, Druggist, m. Or., at 50c a bottle.

Lost the Prize.

James Crossley, a noted English bibliomaniac, bid him one memorable day to a bookstall in Shudehill market and, spying a little volume, took it up and glanced carelessly through it. After awhile he asked its price from an old woman and was told it was two and sixpence. "I'll give you sixpence for it," said Crossley. "Nay," replied the poor old dame; "it cost me two shillings." Whereupon our book devourer threw it down in disgust and retired. A gentleman, overhearing the altercation, stepped forward and purchased it at the sum demanded. Crossley returned soon after and, noticing the book had gone, anxiously inquired what had become of it. "Sold," answered the woman, "for what you refused to give." "Tell me who bought it, and I'll give him 10 shillings for it!" said Crossley eagerly. The moral is self evident.

A Contrast in Salaries.
(Springfield Republican.)
It is said that Admiral Togo's salary is $3240 a year, and Admiral Rojestvensky's $55,000. American life insurance salaries generally work in about the same way.
