NEW LINE TO BE BUILT.

Harriman's Agent Says That Harriman Is All Right.

That Harriman's intentions with reference to constructing the proposed line from Natron, on the Southern Pacific, to Ontario, on the Oregon Short Line, exclusively announced in the Telegram last week, are sincere is declared to be true by local officials of the O. R. N. A dispatch to the Telegram today from San Francisco states that a certificate has been filed there with the county clerk to the effect that the Southern Pacific proposes to build the line, and the representatives of the system at the Bay City are quoted as declaring that the project will go through.

A large gang of surveyors is now in the field, seeking a route through the Cascades, and it is said that if they succeed in showing there is a feasible route through the mountains, the actual construction will be started. Portland railroad men say that while there have been several different parties in that section of the state at different times, seeking a route, no actual surveys were made from the vicinity of Eugene, but rather the investigation assumed the form of reconnoiters. Consequently the details of a proper survey remain to be worked out, and this now being prosecuted.

The latest railroad project announced that of the Great Southern, now being Dufur with its line from The Dalles, is about to be extended on to Hood. John Heimrich, president of the road; W. F. Nelson, constructing engineer; Julius L. Meier, secretary and purchasing agent, and George W. Joseph, general consul, have completed a trip over the new line in company with superintendent Tobin, and, as a result of the journey, it has been given out that operations will continue until Bend is reached. The track is now within three miles of Dufur, and it is expected steel will be laid to the town by next week. A right of way has been secured from Dufur for a distance of 25 miles.

The Value of a Trade-Mark.

A trade-mark is usually some one particular mark on goods to show their origin, but, as a matter of fact, may be any original quality, feature or characteristic of an article of manufacture, if widely made known through advertising, becomes valuable as a trade-mark, and is protected by the courts, so that one article may have many "trade-marks" that belong to it alone. Thus, for example, in the case of Cascarets, Candy Cathartic, the name "Cascarets," the expression "Candy Cathartic," the peculiar shape and color of the box, the octagonal tablet, and the letters "C. C. C." on each tablet, are all expressive trade "marks" of that popular medicine, because they indicate their genuineness, distinguish them from imitations and have become universally known to the people.

Commencing September 1st

The Southern Pacific will sell special tickets to Portland and return, account Lewis and Clark exposition; rate: One and one-third fare for round trip, $1.85. Limit: Thirty days, but not later than October 31, 1905.

CRAWFORD PATTON WHITNEY

Trio of Mighty Hunters Who Found Everything in the Mountains Except

It seems quite certain that since the return of the Crawford-Patton-Whitney crowd that the first-named gentleman has started a press bureau for the purpose of belittling the mighty deeds of his fellow tourists in the mountains. Regard for the eternal principles of truth impels us to state that General Crawford was not the whole cheese. Cooke Patton, maintaining a modest silence, still manages to give away some of the details of the trip, and incidentally does justice to Whitney. The latter distinguished himself in many ways; his thoughtfulness and care adding much to the comfort and pleasure of the trip. When the party started from Roseburg, among its other conveniences was a pot, a big, shining galvanized iron coffee pot holding a gallon. When the party reached their first camping ground 30 miles from no place, they found Old Man Van Eaton holding down the location. Van was a whole-souled hermit, innocent and bland; an unsophisticated child of nature, ignorant of civilization and its wiles, and soap and combs and other encumbering bric-a-brac. Whitney, somehow became imbued with the idea that the company coffee pot was too small, and as Eaton's place was on the periphery of civilization concluded to show his New England descent by making a swap. He came into camp after having done Old Man Eaton up in the trade, with a tin coffee pot of the vintage of 1812. It only held a quart, and it wouldn't hold that long, owing to some breaks below the water line, due to the infirmities of age, and the fact that the holes were only partly stopped by the remnants of Eaton's one-time, but long-ago discarded dish rag, which previously had served him for an undershirt.

After the first boiling of coffee Whitney was given to understand that he was to do no more trading, for the company, and he was also pretty thoroughly informed that a printer who would permit himself to be done up, 16 to 1, on the edge of no place by the connecting link between Roseburg and the other shore, was a disgrace to the profession, and a discredit to the camp.

At the Lake of the Woods McCall killed a bear. General Crawford has persistently insisted that it was an Italian bear, but (and or compels us to state, that the bear, when shot, called McCall to one side and told him confidentially that he had come down to be shot by Whitney, and then murmuring, "In Lauterback habe mine strumb verloron," he turned over on his back, realizing that the Attorney-General would be in at the inquest. It was the same thing with the other game, a sort of "come and kill me, Hiawatha," but Crawford and McCall were always there, and had their scalping knives out. Whitney was the one the wild denizens of nature came down to be sacrificed to, but what was the use? Cooke Patton went up on to the highest peak in the Crater Lake neighborhood and brought down by the power of his hypnotic eye one of the biggest grizzlies in the state, but when he saw Crawford coming with a gun and a camera he let him go. Cooke wants justice done to Whitney—but still it is against the law to shoot him.

No Benefit No Cost.

If you are weak and worn-out—if you are nervous, irritable, have headache, backache, neuralgia, or periodical pains, it is because you have exhausted your nerve force.

If you cannot sleep, and are thus robbed of the rest which nature demands for the restoration of mental and physical vigor, your system will continue to run down.

Dr. Miles' Nerveine restores vitality by soothing and strengthening the nervous system, thus inducing refreshing sleep, and imparting strength and vigor to all the organs of the body.

There are very few instances where Nerveine will not benefit; if not, your druggist will refund the money.

"When I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerveine I had a very sour stomach, with pain extending far around on my left side—attended with extreme nervousness. I dreaded to have night come, as it was impossible for me to sleep. Everything I ate distressed me. Before I had finished one bottle of Nerveine there was such a change that my husband bought six more, which has restored me to health."
MRS. JENNIE SIMMS, Rushville, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Nerveine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Can't Use the Money. At the request of the fish warden the attorney-general yesterday handed down an opinion in which he held that no part of the hatchery fund can be used for the improvement of the fishway at Oregon City, even though such improvement would benefit the proposed hatcheries. He held that the hatchery fund was appropriated for a special purpose, and that it can be expended by the commission for this purpose, and no other.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought. See the Signature of J. C. Watson.

Every day we see people throwing hard-earned money away. They pay all sorts of prices for groceries and provisions. That's about the same thing as squandering cash. Always remember that money spent here will do its full duty.
