QUEER RACE ON SAKHALIN

Ainos Tribe, Worship the Sun and Sea and Live Under Ground

Seattle, Sept. 25.—Nicolay Kirilleff, of Vladivostok, a man who was sent out through the wilds of Siberia by the Historical Museum of New York city for the purpose of studying the primitive races found there, reached Seattle yesterday morning and departed last night for his oriental home.

While he has spent nearly a year in this work, his last trip ending in Seattle, occupied but a little more than three months. As he could not speak a word of English, it was necessary to interview him through an interpreter. A physician by profession, he is also an author and lecturer, and proposes to travel throughout Russia exhorting the people to do something for the enlightenment of the races he found on the northeast coast of Siberia.

"Siberia some day will be a grand country," he said. "It is rich in furs and minerals. It is as a sleeping giant awaiting the touch of a magic wand to spring into life and activity. I have traveled extensively through that country, and I know it is rich as Alaska is. I have found tribes of natives who wear roughly fashioned gold ornaments as other natives wear bear teeth and claws. They know nothing of mining, and that gold must have been where they could pick it up off the ground.

"I might say that that entire country is but waiting the coming of the railroad that will some day, I am sure, encircle the globe. It will be essentially a railroad of the north, and I believe the time not distant when they will find that two hands of steel will be able to cross Behring sea. When the railroad comes bringing civilization into the wilderness, then you will see great stakes lost and won, in the gamble with fortune on the wild wastes of Siberia.

"You see the Historical Museum of New York is greatly interested in the study of primitive man as he exists today. They have sent all told three of us out on such mission. I am but following in the footsteps of Borgorass and Jessup. Borgorass began this work as a naturalist, Jessup as a scientist, and now I am following them as a physician. It is interesting, this sort of study, because one is often stopped by sheer wonder to think that in this day and age of the world there should be races of people who have not advanced in civilization a single step in 400 years.

"The most interesting race of people I have ever found was the mere relic of a nation in Sakhalin Island, off the coast of Siberia. They are known as the Ainos people. Of all the oriental nations, they are probably the most primitive.

"The tribe is living entirely apart from all other people. They have a form of religion and a system of medicine founded on sorcery and witchcraft, and these forms they have maintained and clung to for the past 400 years.

"During that time the Russian government has not lifted a finger to help them to more enlightened ways, and what little shreds of culture they have obtained were given them by American whalers who occasionally touch at the islands for food, water and supplies."

The Post Card Craze.

London, Sept. 29.—The post card craze which originated in Germany some years ago, seems to have found fertile soil in Great Britain. Judging from the enormous number of such illustrated post cards mailed every day in all parts of the United Kingdom. In this connection considerable comment has been caused by the fact reported to the local postal authorities, that after the recent visit of the British squadron, now in the Baltic, to Holland, over 25,000 such view post cards were found in the mail boxes of Haarlem, a small town near Amsterdam. Practically all these cards had been mailed by the officers and men of the British fleet.

Incredible Brutality.

I would have been incredible brutality if Chas. F. Lemberger, of Syracuse, N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son, "My boy," he says, "cut a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye." Good for burns and ulcers, too. Only 25c at J. C. Perry's Drug Store.

COIN BUT NO LOVE

Woman Sues in Civil Courts While Man Relies on Cupid

Tipton, Ia., Sept. 29.—In a suit upon a $1000 promissory note by Mrs. Katharine Ralston, of Portland, Or., is revealed a shattered romance. R. S. Walters, the wealthy defendant, claiming in his answer the woman was to marry him for the $1000, but did not.

It appears that Walters in 1903 and 1904 went to Portland, Or., and there met Mrs. Ralston, a widow. Walters proposed and was accepted, says his answer, adding that Walters gave Mrs. Ralston considerable money and went home, understanding that she would soon follow to Tipton, where the marriage would take place.

Shortly after he got home, he says, Mrs. Ralston wrote him stating that she had been robbed, and wanted more money, which he sent to her. A little later, he says, she telegraphed she had been hurt and was in a hospital. Walters says he sent more money, and then sent a draft to pay her railroad fare. She was to arrive in Tipton on a certain day, but came several days earlier and, unknown to Walters, took a room at a hotel and began to investigate his financial condition.

Finally, says Walters, she got him to sign a promissory note as a sort of pre-nuptial contract, saying she wanted the money to educate her little son. Walters gave the note on promise that the wedding should take place at once. The woman consented, but before the marriage ceremony could be performed disappeared.

Later, in Cedar Rapids, she is said to have tried to sell the note. Then she went to an attorney, and suit followed. Walters got an injunction restraining Mrs. Ralston from disposing of the note in any manner, and alleging it was secured by fraud and misrepresentation and through unfulfilled promises.

Mining Association Reorganized.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 29.—The International Miners' association, whose membership includes mining men from all over the great Southwest, particularly the territories of New Mexico and Arizona, the state of Texas and the Mexican states of Sonora and Chihuahua, has been reorganized, and the membership is now at work to help make the coming gathering of the American Mining Congress in this city, November 14-18, a big success. This association alone will send a large delegation and the display which it will have of the great mines in the southwest will be instructive and interesting to the visitors.

The Colonel's Waterloo.

Colonel John M. Fuller, of Honey Grove, Texas, nearly met his Waterloo from liver and kidney trouble. In a recent letter he says: "I was nearly dead of these complaints, and, although I tried my family doctor, he did me no good; so I got a 50c bottle of your great Electric Bitters, which cured me. I consider them the best medicine on earth, and thank God who gave you the knowledge to make them." Sold and guaranteed to cure dyspepsia, biliousness and kidney disease, by J. C. Perry, druggist, at 50c a bottle.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhoea, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others. They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

The Syracuse Chilled Plow

Is a mighty good plow. The share is attached with two bolts and is firmly seated, there being no cross strains on it to break it.

The slope of the shin helps clear the trash, and there is no bother from that source.

The moldboard is longer and higher than common, making a splendid turn to the furrow.

The heel of the landside has a slope like a sled runner, hence the plow may be "backed up" without straining your back.

The handles are longer than usual, making it an easier plow to use. It runs very steady and will scour wherever a chilled plow will scour.

The jointer is a splendid pattern with a peculiarly shaped shank that clears better than the ordinary straight shank common to most jointers.

There are scores of these plows in use all over the Red Hills. The men who have them are the best friends they have.

When you need a walking plow come and try one. They come in all sizes every one guaranteed.

Farmers to Form Unions.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—A determined effort will be made on the part of the American Federation of Labor to bring about the unionization of the farmers of this country, and their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor for mutual benefit and protection. In Wisconsin and Minnesota a number of farmers unions have been formed already, and according to the statement of the officials of the federation, the affiliation of these farmers' unions with the American Federation of Labor is merely a question of time. The leaders of the federation are highly enthusiastic over the prospects of an alliance between the city wage workers, the farm hands, and the farmers. It is expected that the western farmers will be well represented at the next meeting of the American Federation of Labor, which will be held in Pittsburg in November. It is not expected that the plan of affiliation will meet with any opposition from the federation.
