

Women's Ready-to-Wear Garments

Here is absolutely the most magnificent selection of Ladies' Winter Suits, Coats and Skirts we have yet had the opportunity to offer. Our display contains the choicest efforts that the artist designers could evolve, fascinating in their graceful elegance. These garments, manufactured from the highest quality materials and finished with characteristically exquisite care, are offered at prices which others would ask for garments of lesser quality. The styles, while markedly smart, reflect that indefinable something, a staidness, which is at once suggestive of good taste.

MISS NORMA LESLIE MUNRO.

Miss Munro, who is one of the most beautiful women in New York and whose debut is about to make her debut as a playwright under the direction of David Belasco. Miss Munro is the daughter of the late Norman L. Munro, a wealthy publisher. For several years Miss Munro has been a contributor to the magazines. Her play, it is said, will hold the mirror up to fashionable life in New York.

had little control. Competition has, of course, played an important part, but that is the only point for which any responsibility rests upon the manufacturer. The method of making changed with remarkable rapidity a few years ago, and the introduction of mechanical appliances to supersede the old-fashioned hand-closed boot, necessitated a large output if the machines were to pay their way. This has led to over-production, and the market has been flooded with millions of pairs of cheap boots and shoes. But the bulk of the money which the public pay for their footwear is represented by the cost of raw material, namely leather. The price of the latter has been steadily advancing for about four years, and it has now reached a point never known in the history of the trade. Compared with 12 months ago, the cost of all classes of leather has increased by fully 12 1/2 per cent, which is an important item in the original expenditure of the now popular half-guinea boot. The increased competition among manufacturers caused a corresponding shading of profits, which for a while was permissible in consequence of the saving effected in the make-up by machinery. But against the advance in the market values of leather manufacturers have been almost powerless. The burden has therefore been borne more or less patiently by the boot manufacturer until today he is one of the most embarrassed of traders. The English public were never more neatly shod than today, and boots are being sold cheaper than ever, although the cost of leather is now fully 50 per cent higher than, say, five years ago. Taste has also played an important part in bringing about the present situation. The boot manufacturer, too, complains that paterfamilias does not now spend so much as of old in "clothing" the foot. The consumption of boots and shoes is, therefore, pro rata, much smaller than in the days of our forefathers. Besides all this there is the constant craze for something cheaper.

Yom Kippur.

Today is Yom Kippur, or the Day of atonement among the Jews the world over. The Jewish New Year was celebrated September 30th. Today is supposed to be the most solemn time in the Jewish calendar. It occurs on the 10th day from the morning of Rosh Hashona, the new year, and thus falls on Monday this year.

The day is strictly observed and not a drop of water or a morsel of food passes the lips of any Jew during the 24 hours, but, of course, not all the members of the church as strict as the older disciples. The prayers which are held on this day are prayers of forgiveness of sins against God, not against the people. It is held by them that even God can forgive sins that have been committed against a fellow man, unless the man who suffered through that sin forgives him.

Driving Out the Gamblers.

Douglas, Wyo., Oct. 9.—The keepers of the gambling houses of Douglas were cited to court today for trial. As a result of the vigorous action of the authorities it is believed that gambling here will eventually be closed down, and the gamblers apparently are preparing to accept the inevitable.

A FAMILY SAFEGUARD

Dr. Green's arranges with the niece of Dr. Boesch to handle her famous Uncle's Great Throat and Lung Cure.

The best family safeguard is a reliable household medicine that will cure croup, coughs, colds, chilly sensations, running eyes and nose, sore throat and bronchial affections—that will keep the children proof against all contagious diseases.

Such a medicine is Boesch's German Syrup, which has a record of 35 years in the cure of consumption, catarrh and all lung and bronchial troubles.

The fame of German Syrup as a consumptive cure, since its purchase by Dr. Green from the niece of the famous Dr. Boesch, has extended to all parts of the earth. It has big sales everywhere.

Two sizes, 25c and 75c. All druggists.

PALACE PHARMACY.

Residence Burned.

The home of Richard G. Keene, on the corner of 13th and Lewis streets, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night. It was shortly before midnight that the fire was discovered, and before the department could reach the scene the flames were beyond control.

No member of the family was at home Saturday, and the origin of the fire is a complete mystery. The fire entailed almost a complete loss, as the amount of insurance carried was small.

SALEM HOP MARKET

A slight movement in hops took place the last of last week. More sales were reported Saturday than have been recorded for any one day yet this season. So far, however, the price has shown no tendency to rise. There are now something over 2000 bales stored in the warehouse of the Southern Pacific company, and this is being added to daily.

Sales were made Friday and Saturday as follows:

Pineus purchased 140 bales of choice hops at 11 cents per pound.

Ralph Williams of Dulles purchased of three different parties, amounting in all to 450 bales, at 12 cents, while the Bob Whitney hops were bought by Gilbertson of Aurora at 12 cents. These last hops were not considered choice by many dealers.

Harris of this city also purchased a large quantity of 1904 choice hops at 10 cents. These hops could have been sold last year for 30 cents, but dealers now say that all of last year's hops will be selling for even less than that before very long. They assert that the present low prices are due in a measure to the large quantity of last year's hops that were held over.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had kidney trouble, which caused me great pain and suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." J. C. Perry, druggist, guarantees them at 50c.
