WILLAMETTE OUTPLAYS PULLMAN

Hot Contest Under Perfect Conditions Puts Cardinal and Old Gold Waving in the Air

Although outweighed 15 pounds to the swift Willamette football team yesterday afternoon swept the Pullman giants off their feet, and defeated them by a score of 11 to 6, in the best game ever played on Willamette field. The visitors, though putting a strong game, were really outplayed more than the score would indicate. A single touchdown was the result of a fumble, and a cleverly timed fake play, which enabled Hardy to go down the field for 25 yards and a touchdown.

Willamette started off with a rush, which seemed to completely demoralize the Washingtonians, and the only play that prevented the scoring of a touchdown within four minutes after the whistle blew was the fact that the Pullman boys very politely fumbled the ball when only one yard from the line. Captain Pollard was the brightest of the game, being sure of a gain every time he was given the ball. Philbrook, Rader and Ford, who took the place, were also in the star line. The way Philbrook and Rader pushed through the line was second to the famous Pollard, while Ford's gains were around the end, and nearly always good for from four to seven yards.

"Stonewall" Marker played the consistent game that made him the star last year, while Nelson, the center, covered himself with glory by pushing through the line and downing the Pullman man with the ball before he could but on the third they were held and Willamette took the ball.

A few plunges by Pollard, Rader and Nace, and the ball was down in about two yards from the line, in Willamette's possession. On the next down, however, Willamette fumbled. A Washington man got the ball behind his goal line, and put it just inside of the field before he was downed.

Washington punted out 20 yards and Willamette had the ball again.

Pollard brought it in ten yards, Philbrook six, and, after a few more downs Rader was sent through for the touchdown, and kicked the goal with ease, making the score 6 to 0, in a little less than eight minutes after the beginning of the play.

Willamette again received the kickoff on her 15-yard line, and run it in 15 more. Here they were unable to make their yardage, and punted to Nace, who received it on the middle line, and advanced it five yards.

Willamette made yardage easily the first time, but after three more downs surrendered the ball to Washington.

After a vain effort to go through the lines, Jones was given the ball and on a delayed pass came round the end for a 15-yard run. The visitors failed to make yardage again, and Willamette took the ball.

Although Rader and Philbrook advanced the ball four yards in two downs, it was passed back to Coleman on the third, and he booted it down the field for 35 yards.

Washington failed to make yardage and punted. After a good gain by Nace, Willamette fumbled and a Washington man dropped on the ball.

This time they made their yardage, but failed the next. The local team took the ball, only to make another disastrous fumble on the second down.

The visitors now took a brace, and made their yardage three times in succession, a performance not repeated by them during the game, and then on a fake for a run around Willamette's left end. Hardy went through on the other side for the touchdown. The goal was kicked with ease.

The remainder of the half was uneventful, save that the visitors were penalized 15 yards for holding. The half ended with the ball in Willamette's possession on the Washington's 30-yard line.

The second half was opened by Washington kicking to Willamette. Henkle received the ball on the 25-yard line and brought it in 15 yards. Here the locals were forced to punt. Washington, however, failed to make yardage.

Salem made yardage three times in succession, and the ball was given to Pullman on her own 25-yard line. She failed to make her yardage, and Salem again went down the field.

Ford made six yards, Nace six, Henkle two, Pollard five, Ford seven, and the ball was given to the visitors only seven yards from their goal line. They punted again and the ball is in possession of Willamette, on Pullman's 20-yard line.

Nace brought it four yards nearer, Pollard lessened the distance by four more, Rader carried it six and Pollard went through for the touchdown. Rader's kick for goal struck the cross-bar and the score was 11 to 6 in favor of Willamette.

The remainder of the game was played in the middle of the field. Thayer made a run of 25 yards on another delayed pass, and a second good run was spoiled through Washington's being penalized for holding.

Nace was finally compelled to go out of the game, a few minutes before time was called, but his place was ably filled by Lounsbury, who displayed a remarkable feat of strength by picking a man up bodily and hurling him back several feet.

The game ended with the ball in Willamette's possession in the middle of the field.

take a step, giving them a loss of nearly five yards. Keller played a brilliant game at tackle, and the ends both did good work, although it was only around them that the visitors were able to make any consistent gains. They both permitted themselves to be drawn in on delayed passes, Henkle once and Coleman twice. "Racehorse" Nace was injured early in the game, played like a feend until almost the last, but he did not come up to his usual high standard.

Patton, at quarter, though not being able to make very big quarterback runs, was there with the goods in every other department of the game.

In Jones, Hardy and Thayer, the Washington State College has three men who are stars of the first magnitude. These three men made the only sensational runs of the day. Jones circled the end for 15 yards, Hardy went through on a fake for 25 yards, and Thayer around the end for 20 yards.

The visitors played a much better defensive than offensive game. They were greatly surprised to find that, with their superior weight, they could not break up the Salem line, and were compelled to resort to end runs and punts to make their yardage. Their defensive work was almost, if not quite, the equal of Willamette, but they were clearly outclassed on offense. It was only on occasions that they were able to make their yardage, but when they did make it at all they made it big. Frequently they were unable to advance the ball at all, and were pushed back for losses.

If the visitors were surprised to find that they could not pierce the local line, they were chagrined to find that it was straight through their 200-pound line that Willamette made her biggest and most consistent gains.

Though the visitors frequently resorted to the delayed pass, and other trick plays, the local men were content to confine themselves almost to entirely straight football.

HINGES COMES HOME

Charles H. Hinges, who has spent the past six months in New York, and is now in San Francisco buying goods, expects to be back here in a few days and reopen in the jewelry business. He has secured the room now occupied by the Economy Store, on Commercial street, and proposes to fix the place up in a most satisfactory manner. He has purchased the gold medal fixtures at the Lewis and Clark fair, which are certainly of the best. He states that he is in fine health, and never in better shape to push a business than at this time.

Mr. Hinges has spent his time in New York studying and looking up new things in his line, and feels more than ever competent to please his customers. He has sized up many towns, from a business point of view, and has decided that Salem is the best place of its size on the coast. Mr. Hinges hopes to be ready for business within a few weeks, and will open up one of the finest stocks of the kind ever brought to this city. Watch for his further announcements.
