

KICK AFTER GAME

Willamette Claims to Be the Better Team, and Pleads Many "Ifs"

An honorable defeat with all the honors of victory was what the Willamette football team suffered Saturday afternoon in their contest with the University of Oregon. Although Willamette was clearly superior, and fairly played the visitors off their feet, the final score was 11 to 6 against her, simply because she made an unfortunate fumble which gave Kerron, of Eugene, the ball clear of the bunch of players, and permitted him to go down the field for an 80-yard run and a touchdown. To do this, however, he was aided by Moore's interference, who, against the rules of the game, used his hands to keep off the Willamette players. That he did this, nearly every one of the thousand and more spectators who saw the game would be willing to go on the stand and swear to, yet the official, though admitting that this was wrong, said he did not see it.

The other touchdown was made on a brilliant end run by Moore's of 40 yards, though this was only made possible by the Eugene men holding, contrary to the rules of the game.

Aside from these two runs the visitors only succeeded in making their yardage four times during the entire game, while Willamette was held for down less than that many times. The local players smashed through the Eugene line as if it had been so much paper, and, if it had not been for fumbles, which were at times inexcusable, the score would have been 24 to 6 in favor of Salem. The game really would have been so one-sided that it would not have been interesting.

As it was, it was perhaps the most spectacular game played in the North west. The visitors, not being able to make their yardage, and being pushed back at every down, were compelled to punt nearly as soon as they received the ball, while Willamette was compelled to punt because of fumbles. But here, in the department of the game in which Willamette was supposed to be so much inferior to the Eugene team, the visitors were given a big surprise, when Coleman, the husky left end, fully equalled the famous Moulton in kicking. More than once he booted the pig skin down the field for 50 yards.

That the Willamette team is undoubtedly the strongest team in the opinion of all who saw the game, not only of Salem people, but Eugene, and the Eugene players as well. The following statements were made to a Journal reporter after the game:

Shorts, Oregon's coach—Willamette clearly outplayed us, both on offense and defense. It was not really a good game, because the teams were not evenly matched. Not that Oregon was weak, but Willamette was exceptionally strong. Willamette played well and deserved to win.

Referee Stow—Willamette lost because of hard luck. They outplayed Oregon two to one. Both teams played like true sports.

Bishop, Willamette's coach—Oregon did not deserve to win. There is no comparison between the strength of the two teams. We outplayed them from start to finish in almost every department of the game. In Moore's and Frizzell they have swifter sprinters. That's all.

Chester Murphy—Willamette is 30 per cent stronger in everything except fleetness. Pollard and Rader played great ball. Rader's defense was the best I ever saw in the Northwest.

Captain Latourette, of Oregon—Of course, I am satisfied with the result, but we were plainly outplayed.

Captain Pollard, of Willamette—We owe our defeat to hard luck. Every man on the team did his best, and we certainly deserved to win. I do not think they are in our class at all.

That the visitors did not put up a better game was a surprise to Salem, as well as to the Eugene supporters. With the exception of Latourette, at quarter, and Moore's and Chandler at ends, there was nothing to the game but Willamette.

The Salem team proved to be even stronger than the players themselves supposed it was. Nelson, at center, though outweighed 30 pounds, played all over and around the big giant, Spencer, while the Salem guards and tackles made "monkeys" out of their opponents. And the ends, which were supposed to be so weak, were only circled twice, and it is extremely doubtful if the ends were to be blamed for this. Frizzell went around Long on a fake, while Moore's went clear across the field to get around Coleman, who was held by other Eugene players, contrary to rules. Many a play which was intended to go around the ends, was broken up, and the man with the ball thrown back for a big loss by these same ends. While Quarterback Patton was weak in the catching and running in of punts, he played a good game as a whole. The three men in the back field were all "there with the goods" at all times, both on offense and defense.

Salem is proud of the showing made by her representatives, and is confident that both Multnomah and Corvallis will be easily defeated by the team from the Capital City.

The expected dash and vigor of the much-heralded Oregon offense failed to materialize, or was hopelessly snarled under by the whirlwind playing of the local team. The one touchdown which Willamette made was done by Pollard, after it had been bucked steadily down the field for 65 yards. This was done by giving the ball alternately to Rader, Pollard, Nace, Philbrook, Long and Patton, who went around Oregon's right end for 12 yards.

Taxes Nearly All Collected.

The greatest tax levy in the history of Marion county has been practically all collected. While almost $50,000 more in taxes has been collected this year than ever before, figures announced by Sheriff Culver this morning show that fewer delinquents proportionally are carried on the rolls than in years past.

Up to October 1st, the day on which taxes became delinquent, the sheriff had collected out of a roll of $301,775.39, a total of $285,859.49. There were delinquent $10,714.36, a considerable part of which has been paid up during the past month. Of the balance a considerable part is held by non-residents, on property which has changed hands during the year, and on which the new owner has neglected to pay his first taxes.

A gratifying thing about tax collections this year is the greater amount of rebates refunded to taxpayers. The 3 per cent discount given to all who pay their taxes within the first 30 days after they are due amounted to $7,073.88, greater than ever before.

To Welcome Visitors.

In order to avoid a clashing of dates with the excursion of the Portland Business Men's excursion, the Good Roads convention, that was to have convened at Corvallis on the 13th of this month, has been postponed one week, or until the 22d. Those who have in charge the arrangements for the gathering, by postponing the date of the meeting, wish to pay the visiting business men a compliment, and to remove any possible obstacle to their entertainment while in Salem and up the valley. The business men are expected to reach Salem the night of the 14th, and had the date of the convention not been postponed, many prominent Salemites, who were to attend, would have been absent from the city, and, consequently, not able to participate in the reception to the Portland visitors.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Hundreds of Salem Readers Find
It So.

The hustle and worry of business men, the hard work and stooping of workmen,

The woman's household cares, are too great a strain on the kidneys. Backache, headache, dizziness, kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

A Salem citizen tells you how to cure them all.

Jacob E. McCoy, bridge builder and contractor, residing on Capitol street, second house beyond Mill creek, says: "I have always enjoyed good health up to five or six years ago. Along about that time my kidneys commenced to bother me. There was not so much backache, but the principal symptoms were in connection with the kidney secretions. A strain or over-exertion very often caused hemorrhages of the kidneys. I cannot say that it was so painful, but it was very annoying. I used various remedies, and while some gave relief, others were worthless. In some way Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice, and when up town I dropped into Dr. Stone's Drug Store and procured a box, taking them as directed. A few doses gave very convincing proof that they were going to the right spot, and though I can't say they have cured me as I may never be cured, I can state that they gave me wonderful relief. I have a high opinion of Doan's Kidney's Pills and cheerfully recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.

School Board Allows Bids.

As two members of the board of directors were absent from the regular school meeting Saturday evening, the matter of purchasing the chairs for the new high school building, and the letting of the contract for the construction of the septic sewage tank for the Park school, was postponed until the next meeting. Directors Byrd and Croism were the ones who were unable to be present. No business was transacted, except the auditing of the usual grist of bills, and the opening of the bids for the construction of the sewage tank.

The bids were as follows:
Bernardi & Dunford$1160.00
A. L. Frazier 1210.25
Fred Erixon 996.00

The reason that the last one is so much lower than the others is because Mr. Erixon overlooked the cement in two closets, and he will probably be permitted to add this, or withdraw his bid. No action was taken on the bids, because all the members of the board were not present.

The teachers' salaries were all ordered paid, and in addition the following bills:
Welch & Maurer$2200.00
Welch & Maurer 162.00
J. B. Underwood 4.00
Salem Water Co. 45.50
O. L. McPeat 20.63

Man's Unreasonableness.

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. of the "Republican" of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist, price 50c.

Maybe They Voted Wrong.

Arthur Cutler, who lives in Englewood, ran down Chamaketa street this morning, trying to find the chief of police. To everyone he met he called out the startling news that ten or fifteen people living in his neighborhood, had been destroyed by some awful calamity. Cutler was later found by Chief Cornelius, and taken to the court house, where physicians will examine him as to his sanity this afternoon.

ELECTRICITY IN THE HOME

Much as electricity has done in adding to the comforts of the home, says the New York Electrical Review, it promises yet much more—that is, if we accept the predictions of certain eminent authorities who have for years past studied, worked with and advanced as much as they could, the application of electricity. Colonel R. E. B. Crompton, past president of the Institution of Electrical Engineers of Great Britain, has followed every new use of the new power into every field. He is familiar with the great work that has been done, and he sees great opportunities now offering. Upon some of these he dwelt recently at a lecture given during an electrical exhibition held in London. For industrial uses, he says, the electric motor easily distances all rival means of supplying power. It is more economical, more convenient, and is brought under perfect control. He hopes for a greatly increased use of electric power in London, not only on the street, but in the house, where great advantages would accrue and comfort would be much promoted. By its aid spring cleaning may be banished, and houses kept ten times cleaner than they are under the present cyclical system of displacing dirt and dust. He prognosticated that before long, electric power will supersede the manual labor of the housemaid, for there is no reason why motors should not be used to drive machinery for washing dishes, cleaning plates, roasting and grinding coffee, chopping meat, kneading dough, doing the laundry work, as well as being utilized for artistic and decorative effects. They should clean the metal work, polish the silver and the jewelry, cool the refrigerator, rock the baby, press the clothes—in fact the number of things that might be done in this way seems unlimited.

BOTH FOOD AND MEDICINE.

We like best to call Scott's Emulsion a food-medicine. It is a term that aptly describes the character and action of our Emulsion. More than a medicine—more than a food, yet combining the vital principles of both. It is for this reason that Scott's Emulsion has a distinct and special value in all wasting diseases. There is nothing better to remedy the troubles of imperfect growth and delicate health in children. The action of Scott's Emulsion is just as effective in treating weakness and wasting in adults.

More Cement Walks.

Street Commissioner Kurta is preparing to lay cement walks by wholesale in many parts of the city. The time limit given almost 90 property owners by the council last August, when they were ordered to lay cement walks in front of their property, expired the 30th of October, with a great majority of the walks not constructed. These the street commissioner is now empowered to build and charge the cost to the property owners.

While most of the people who were ordered to construct the walks under the provisions of the cement sidewalk ordinance, express themselves as willing to do so, they have shown great dilatoriness. The street commissioner is now compiling a list of all such delinquents, and as soon as it is completed he intends to start putting the walks down.

He has also prepared another list, which will be placed before the council tomorrow night, of still more walks that are required in different parts of the city. These the council is expected to order constructed. All the walks are five-foot pavements, mostly in the residence sections.

First Visit

Of Head Consul I. I. Roak, of the W. O. W., to Salem. Don't fail to hear him at the M. E. church tonight. Public cordially invited.

X-RAYS

A good loser always commands respect, but long-winded whys and wherefores bring forth only a cynical smile.

Willamette claims to have the stronger team, but, as Eugene beat them, it doesn't look well to say the latter is a weak team.

Rinaldo M. Hall is in Southern Oregon, seeking material for a write-up of that section. There is one thing the people down that way can depend upon, and that is that he cannot possibly give as little information in the same space as he did in his pamphlet, "Washington, Oregon and Idaho." The rest is that thing is an insult to clean, white paper, and it is not possible to duplicate it.

Additional Typewriter Smiles

Quite a boom in Klamath Falls.

To be perfect the U'Ren primary law ought to provide pay for candidates' livery rigs.

Too many of them in Oregon—the sour-dough bachelor.

A Michigan peat company has sent for several tons of peat from the peat beds near Woodburn, Or., and will analyze it and test the product thoroughly. If it comes up to the Michigan average it will be of great value as a regular product.

Moore's, of the second ward was shy only one vote. While he was up at the football game, rooting for the home team, Haas got in his deadly work. Haas is the German word for rabbit, and it might be assumed Fred had some running ability. He started in Salem as night telephone operator on a small salary, saved his earnings, married a Salem girl, and now owns a drug store. He is working hard at times and studying medicine at night. That kind of a man is hard to down. The business man who makes a success of his own business will not make a bad member of the city council.

Hear Governor Chamberlain at the M. E. church tonight.
