CHARLES E. WOLVERTON APPOINTED

Takes Bellingers Place as United States District Judge for Oregon

Washington, Nov. 21.—Charles E. Wolverton was this morning appointed United States District Judge for Oregon. He is now on the state supreme bench.

(Charles E. Wolverton comes of pioneer stock, and is one of the four sons of John Wolverton, who crossed the plains in the early days, and settled in Polk county, where the new federal judge was reared from boyhood to manhood, almost within sight of the dome of the state capitol. Judge Wolverton received his education as the majority of the foremost men of the state in those times received it, in the common schools of Polk county, and later graduated from the Monmouth State Normal School. Judge Wolverton early chose the law for his profession, and made use of such opportunities as came his way for acquiring a legal education. until he was, at a later time, enabled to complete his law studies at the law school at Lexington, Ky. After graduating there, he returned immediately to Oregon, and at once engaged in the practice of his profession at Albany, in 1874. A few years after this Judge Wolverton was married to Miss Clara A. Price, the daughter of a sturdy, honorable, pioneer resident of Lin county, Hon. Nimrod Price, who, though of great age, still has his home near Albany. In the practice of his profession Judge Wolverton was an inveterate worker, and nothing turned him aside from faithful and diligent care of the interests committed to him, and in his practice before the courts he was an unusually successful practitioner.

In 1894, after 20 years' of hard, earnest practice, Judge Wolverton received the nomination for justice of the supreme court at the hands of the Republican state convention, and the nomination was endorsed by the people at the polls at the ensuing election.

The judge sometimes jokingly remarks that "the convention picked up a justice of the peace and nominated him for the supreme bench," he having, at an early age, served as a justice of the peace at Albany, and thereafter never held a public office until his election to the position of justice of the supreme court. Since his election in 1894 the judge has been continuously honored by re-election. His work upon the bench of this state is preserved in the Oregon reports, beginning with volume 26, and extending to 45, inclusive, and the legal profession will testify that his opinions are among the very ablest ever promulgated by a justice of that court; being clear, and unusually attractive, because of their diction. The public and bar of the state will find the new judge a man free from reserve, and of a genial and companionable nature, and "all who know him know that attorneys and litigants in the federal court of Oregon will appear before a judge of absolute independence, profound learning, and one imbued with a deep sense of justice.

Breakers in Salton Sea.

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—Information has come to the Southern Pacific headquarters here today that the gale that blew inland from the sea this morning lashed the waters of Salton Sea into huge breakers, which damaged the railroad track and cut off telegraphic communication along this route.

The railroad had just finished extensive works to protect the track from the encroaching waters that flowed from the Colorado river, and believed it had finally overcome the difficulty. Today's winds, however, caused great breakers to wash over the tracks.

A Gathering of Oranks.

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—The annual session of federated child study circles held a session here today. Mrs. W. W. Murphy, presiding, recommended a city ordinance to prevent children attending theatres without guardians. She argued that cheap theatres was the greatest cause of the deterioration of homes. Mrs. Murphy, president, and all of the officers were re-elected.

Witte Reported Ill.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—It is persistently rumored here tonight that Witte is seriously ill.

SHOULD HANG THEM

No Other Punishment Will Fit the Crimes of the Insurance Grafters

New York, Nov. 21.—John A. Nichols, the lawyer, who wrote Senator Depew, "Your cantankerous friend is around as usual," was a witness in the insurance cases this morning. Nichols said he had been attorney for the Mutual and Equitable in their general He told how he "took care" of persons inimical to the company. The "cantankerous friend" was W. S.

BURTON'S SECOND TRIAL

Accused of Sending Telegrams on Private Business at Government's Expense

St. Louis, Nov. 21.—Telegrams, admitted to have been sent by Burton to the Rialto Grain Co., and alleged to have been paid for from government funds, were introduced at the trial of the senator this morning. Over a dozen were brought by Randall. Randall could not tell from what appropriation the messages were paid.

and will be entertained at the fair grounds of the International Fair this afternoon. At 9 o'clock this morning the visiting veterans and their local hosts assembled at the foot of the Confederate monument on Travis square, where a band concert was given. From there they went to the fair grounds in trolley cars. Upon their arrival at the grounds they were received by the officials of the fair and marched to the auditorium, where the Confederate Day exercises were held. Chaplain W. G. Wood opened the exercises with prayer. Miss Nellie Lytle sang "Dixie," and was followed by Mr. J. M. Webb, who delivered the welcoming address. Miss Sallie Maverick sang "Bonnie Blue Flag," and then the Hon. A. W. Terrell, of Austin, the principal orator of the day, delivered an oration. The afternoon will be spent by the visiting comrades in sight seeing.

Would Not Stand for It.

Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—The Federation of Labor this morning heard the introduction of a resolution denouncing the Western Federation of Miners, and declared it out of order.

MARRIED IN THE NAVY

Secretary Hitchcock's Daughter Marries Commander William Sims

Confederate Day at the Fair.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 21.—Several hundred Confederate veterans, mostly from Western Texas, are the guests of the local Confederate Veterans today.

Platt took the stand a few minutes before noon.

Thomas Cowan, formerly a magistrate and a member of Tammany, took the stand. He said he was employed in the Equitable real estate department. He admitted that he did not "do much" and in reality was employed as a go-between for the Equitable and the city departments. His salary for several years was $6000, but was reduced to $5400. When Platt took the stand his steps faltered. He was supported by the counsel, as he needed assistance in reaching the witness stand. Platt said: "I have received contributions for campaign expenses from the insurance companies, particularly the Equitable, for about ten years, but kept no record. It was about $10,000 for state campaigns, but never any for city campaigns. It was brought in cash by a special messenger, and turned over to the treasurer of the committee. I did not solicit contributions, and so far as I can recall the New York Life never contributed to the state committee. The companies never sought my influence in legislative matters. When the companies contributed they expected to call upon those to whom they contributed for aid; they never called upon me. In making contributions the question was necessarily involved whether the companies contributing do not expect legislators to be under moral obligations not to attack them." He was excused, thanked the committee and was assisted from the room.

Newspapers With Witte.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—Newspapers have appeared today after a five-days' suspension on account of the strike. Most of their articles show a reaction against their former revolutionary sentiments.

RAILROAD FRANCHISE

Yes, the council will hold a meeting this evening for the purpose of considering a new electric railway franchise, and everybody wants to see that railroad come. It will do a great deal for Salem. In fact there are many influences at work for Salem people just now, and one of the most interesting is the man who brings scores of people into town to do them good. It is Dr. B. E. Wright, who relieves them of their tooth troubles. He extracts and fills teeth by the painless process and hence is everybody's friend. Call and see him in the Stuedoff building, and he will tell you about those two elegant gold watches he is going to give away.
