

DAILY CAPITAL JOURNAL

BY HOFER BROS.

OFFICIAL CENSUS SALEM.
MAY, 1904, 13,287.

A CONFIDENTIAL TALK.

The Journal has just closed its second special sale day with much satisfaction to itself and its subscribers. There have been several hundred renewals and several hundred new subscribers added to our lists. This may not sound large, but it is satisfactory, and means a healthy and rational growth, such as every well-conducted paper can be proud of. The Journal is constantly reaching out for new patrons, but it does not care to do the sensational act. A satisfied customer year in and year out is what builds up a newspaper and enables it to do a solvent, permanent business. This class of business is what the Journal strives for and is proud to have. It is, however, not content to rest upon its oars, but is constantly striving to help its subscribers as well as itself. For this reason it has another great offer to make to old and new patrons alike. We don't believe in a "something for nothing" campaign, and therefore don't pretend that we are giving away all we have and more too, but we have a good thing which we want to share with our family of subscribers. By an advertising deal with a large Eastern concern we are enabled to give our patrons a year's good reading matter as a premium for yearly subscriptions paid in advance. Here is our proposition: To all who will pay a year in advance we will give as a premium, without any additional pay, a year's subscription to each of the following valuable publications:

"Madame," a home magazine similar the Ladies' Home Journal.
"The Farm and Home Sentinel."
"The Agricultural Epitomist."

And their choice of one of the following papers: Weekly Inter Ocean, the Orange Judd Farmer, or the New York Tribune, each of which is worth a dollar a year.

This is the most liberal offer ever made in the subscription field, and includes a class of papers that is desirable in any home. Send us a year's subscription in advance to the Daily Capital Journal and you can have this magnificent list of papers absolutely free for a year.

Floral Conundrums.

What herb is most injurious to beauty? Thyme.
Why is green grass like a mouse? Because the cattle eat it.
When is a note of hand like a rose bud? When it is matured by falling dew.
What did Jack Frost say when he kissed the rose? Will thou? And it wilted.
Why is a widow like a gardener? Because she tries to get rid of her weeds.
When is a man an herb? When long experience has made him sage.
Why is asparagus like a dry sermon? The most enjoyable part is the end.
Why is a young lady like a sheaf of wheat? She is first cradled, then thrashed, and finally becomes the flour of the family.
What is the sun's trade in the month of May? Mason.
Why is a woman's age like a Bural bell? It is never told.

The prudent, far-seeing man lays the foundation of a fortune much as a mason builds a brick wall—a brick at a time. The man who will not lay the first brick because it falls short of a complete wall, will not make much progress. Many people live up their incomes and decline to save because the amount available to start with appears too small. Remember you can start a savings account with us with only one dollar, and when once started it is sure to grow. Many a fortune has resulted from such a beginning. Begin saving today.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes, 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. Ask your own doctor about taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for thin, impure blood. We have no secrets! We publish the formulas of all our medicines. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Why is the letter A like a honey-suckle? Because a B follows it.
Why is an Easter lily like a poor marksmen? It shoots before it has pistols.

LET YOUR STOMACH HAVE ITS OWN WAY.

Do Not Try to Drive and Force It to Work When It Is Not Able, or You Will Suffer All the More.

You cannot afford to treat your stomach as some men treat a balky horse; force, drive or even starve it into doing work at which it rebels. The stomach is a patient and faithful servant and will stand much abuse and ill-treatment before it "balks," but when it does you had better go slow with it and not attempt to make it work. Some people have the mistaken idea that they can make their stomachs work by starving themselves. They might cure the stomach that way, but it would take so long that they would have no use for a stomach when they got through. The sensible way out of the difficulty is to let the stomach rest if it wants to and employ a substitute to do its work.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work of your stomach for you and digest your food just as your stomach used to when it was well. You can prove this by putting your food in a glass jar with one of the tablets and sufficient water and you will see the food digested in just the same time as the digestive fluids of the stomach would do it. That will satisfy your mind. Now, to satisfy both your mind and body take one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating—eat all and what you want—and you will feel in your mind that your food is being digested because you will feel no disturbance or weight in your stomach; in fact, you will forget all about having a stomach, just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act in a natural way because they contain only the natural elements of the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach. It makes no difference what condition the stomach is in, they go right ahead of their own accord and do their work. They know their business and surrounding conditions so not influence them in the least. They thus relieve the weak stomach of all its burdens and give it its much-needed rest and permit it to become strong and healthy.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine as of them. In fact, physicians are prescribing them all over the land, and if your own doctor is real honest with you, he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Professionals in College Athletics.

New York, Nov. 24.—A peculiar selection has been made of a subject for the annual debate between Pennsylvania and Columbia, which will be held here today. The question will be: "Resolved, that any bona fide college student under 21 years of age, and having completed one year's work in good standing, be allowed to represent in athletics the institution at which such work is done, regardless of any compensation he may have previously received for his athletic ability."

The University of Pennsylvania will be represented by speakers from the Zetosophic literary society and Columbia by the Barnard society. It is believed that the result of the debate will be of considerable weight regarding the future policy of the large colleges in this country concerning the much-discussed question of professionalism in college athletics. The matter has become particularly important in consequence of several cases at the beginning of the season in which protests were made against certain semi-professional college athletes.

Man's Unreasonableness.

is often as great as woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. of the "Republican" of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable, when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife, for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and five (5) physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters, she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by J. C. Perry, druggist, price 50c.

TO FIX STATE LINE

Oregon and Washington Each Claim Jurisdiction Over Sand Island

Sand Island, which has grown since 1841 from a bit of treacherous sand bar in the mouth of the Columbia river to respectable size, large enough to support a small fishing village, will be the principal prize in the boundary dispute shortly to be argued by the attorney-generals of Oregon and Washington, before the supreme court of the United States. This mangle bit of shifting sand has gathered to itself a good deal of the silt the mighty Columbia tears from the mountains near its headwaters, and carries down to the ocean. It has now a length of over four miles, and a width in some parts of almost two miles.

This island is bisected by the imaginary line that, at the time Oregon became a state, was the boundary separating this commonwealth from the then territory of Washington. It was valueless until the fishing industry assumed large proportions. Then it was eagerly sought after as a location for fish traps, nets and wheels. The land was sold by the state for high prices, as was land on a large number of neighboring sand bars which the river by its building up process raised to the dignity of islands.

If the boundary line fixed 64 years ago by congress is recognized as unchanging by the United States supreme court, then much the greater portion of the new island will belong to Washington, though this state has always claimed it, and has sold the land to private persons. The money will have to be refunded in that case to the purchasers, and sovereignty relinquished.

According to the enabling act which fixed the boundaries of Oregon, an imaginary line commencing one league from the shore line, continuing to a point in the center of the main channel of the Columbia, was to be drawn to the east, until it struck the north ship channel of the river, and be continued through the center of that channel, up the Columbia until it strikes the 46th degree of latitude.

This line at the time it was fixed, passed to the north of what was then Sand Island. At present the line passes through the island, giving the greater portion to the state of Washington. This state will probably contend that the line is not stationary, but a fluctuating one, and is fixed only by the center of the north ship channel of the river. Washington will most likely urge that the boundary should remain permanent and not change with the varying movements of the river.

The boundary suit has been instituted by Washington and the complaint papers prepared. They have not yet been filed in the state house, and of course the attorney general of this state has therefore not commenced to prepare Oregon's side of the case.

Pennsylvania National Guard.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 24.—The most important military gathering ever held here was opened today when the annual convention of the national guard association of Pennsylvania was called to order in the convention hall of the Seavey hotel at 9:30 o'clock this forenoon. Col. A. J. Logan, the president of the association, opened the meeting and delivered his annual address, in which he outlined the various important matters which will come up for consideration at this convention. The morning session was devoted principally to the transaction of routine business and the discussion of various matters of interest to the national guard. Among those present at the convention were Governor Pennypacker, Brigadier Generals John A. Wiley of the Third brigade, J. W. Schall of the First brigade and J. H. P. Gobin of the Fourteenth regiment, and many other officers of the national guard, as well as some officers of the regular army.

There will be another session this afternoon in which a number of interesting papers will be read by officers of the national guard. The reading of the papers will be followed by discussions. The question of state armories will be thoroughly discussed. It was this association which framed the bill that resulted in an appropriation of $250,000 for state armories.

This evening a banquet will be given to the delegates. Several prominent regular army officers will be present and will deliver addresses on military subjects. It is suggested that some valuable suggestions will be made for the betterment of the militia service and for placing it upon a more strictly military basis than that upon which it is now.
