Blaine Jackson, a line man of Cottage Grove, met with a serious accident at the power house at that place Monday. A break occurred in the power line, and he had gone to repair it. He was in the act of bringing the ends of the last broken wire together, when the current was turned on. In some way one wire had caught in the pliers in his belt, and he received a severe shock, and was badly burned.

G. Davis, a successful aeronaut, will give an exhibition at Cottage Grove on Thanksgiving.

A SMOOTH SWINDLER

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 24.—Newton C. Dougherty, ex-president of the National Educational association, ex-president of the First National Bank of Peoria, and ex-president of the Peoria schools, pleaded guilty to embezzlement this morning, and was given an indeterminate sentence to the Joliet prison.

Objects to the Admira. (Four O'Clock Edition.)

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—The defense challenged Admiral McCormick, objecting to his serving further. It alleged that McCormick had talked with a high medical officer, Dr. Welton, who expressed opinions which might influence the admiral's judgment. It alleged that McCormick's judgment is so in accord with what he seeks to prove that he is not amenable to argument. It declared McCormick took such a decided stand that it disqualified him to sit further. The court was cleared, and McCormick retired to permit discussion of the challenge.

Made a Good Haul.

Mendon, O., Nov. 24.—The bank of Mendon was dynamited last night. It is reported that $75,000 was secured by the robbers.

ADAMS SWIPED THE DUST

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24.—George E. Adams, cashier of the U. S. assay office, charged with stealing gold dust, admitted his guilt to Parth and Bachus this morning, who immediately withdrew from his bond, and turned him over to the United States authorities. Adams is said to have sums aggregating $30,000 on deposit in different banks, and they, together, with $12,000 which was found on his person, would indicate a large steal than was at first supposed. His preliminary hearing is set for December 1st.

ABOUT ELECTION FRAUDS

New York, Nov. 24.—Alton B. Parker, for McClellan, and Austin G. Fox, for Hearst, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Ames today. Fox asked that the case be passed to Justice Geiger, who is sitting in extraordinary session, hearing the election cases, and Justice Ames so ordered, despite Parker's objections. Counsel appeared before Geiger's court, who sent them to the appellate division, which tribunal, he said, should say who should bear the cost for the opening of the ballot boxes.

Will Hold Autopsy.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—Just after the prosecution in the Moriwether case rested this afternoon, Lieutenant-Commander Robinson, for the accused, moved the court-martial to order an examination of the body of Branch. The judge-advocate suggested that permission of the family be first obtained. An executive session was held to consider the matter. Admiral Ramsey announced later that the court had decided to grant the request for an autopsy. The defense asked the naval surgeons, Ames and Cutwood, to be present, and the court consented. The autopsy will probably be held tomorrow.

Homesekers' Excursion.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 24.—The homesekers' excursion from the north and northwestern territories arrives here this evening over the Illinois Central railroad. A delegation of state officials and others interested in the colonization plan boarded the train of the excursionists this noon and will escort the homesekers to this city.

"LISTEN TO MY TALE OF WOE"

Divorced, Charged With Insanity, and Her Boys Put in the Reform School

With a tale of woe longer than the petition she carried, and the paper was well signed by almost the entire Italian colony in Portland, Rosalina Deaceo appeared this morning before Governor Chamberlain. She had a right to pull a long face, if her story, told principally by violent gestures, and by a mess of papers written by illiterate Italians, is anywhere near the truth.

Rosalina Deaceo is a hard-working Italian woman, sober and industrious, which she claims is not the case with her husband, who some weeks ago procured a divorce from her. His name was Antonio Deaceo, and, after the separation, as a protection from her better half's rage, she was compelled to ask the court to put Signora Deaceo under bonds. To increase the discarded wife's troubles, the former husband had her arrested once or twice as insane, and secured an order from the court giving him the custody of their two little boys, on the ground that the mother was incompetent to take care of them.

Then, to cap it all, the father put the two boys in the reform school, informed his former wife of the fact, and then glared at the sight of her speechless rage. But this is not all. The boys, cast into the reform school, knew no reason for their confinement, and, in fighting for freedom, brought the fatherly punishment of Superintendent Looney down on them. The mother called to see them yesterday and tried to secure their freedom, but was informed that the matter would have to be presented to the governing board at its meeting the 10th of December.

So, with her long and woeful tale, Signora Deaceo this morning sought out Governor Chamberlain, and, cheered by the accounts she had heard of his kindness and charity toward the unfortunate. But here again the sorrowing mother met misfortune, for she was told that she would have to wait until the board met next month, when her case would be considered.

City Recorder Holds Reception.

Whisky is a medicine, according to some physicians, and in the opinion of some patent medicine manufacturers, but Recorder Moore's this morning officially refused to consider whisky as anything else than liquor, and an intoxicant. The genial recorder reads Collier's and considers himself up to snuff on patent medicines, and he has always known more or less about the properties of whisky.

Two drunks who came before him for trial, attempted to tell him that the corn juice they had absorbed was absolutely necessary for the preservation of their health, but the judge was skeptical. He carried his skepticism so far that he required one to pay a fine of $10, and fined the other $7.50.

Joe Towers, who was not able to navigate last night, after he had shipped a heavy cargo of booze, told the judge that he had taken aboard the heavy load to drive from his system the poison that had entered through a wound on his finger. A $10 fine convinced him that blood poisoning may be ward off much more cheaply by some other medicine.

John Paulino, too, was compelled to take whisky to preserve his health. He took an overdose, but felt fine all the same. When he was asked if his health would be benefited by the payment of a fine, he began to feel a little sickly, and when he was required to fork over $7.50 he almost collapsed.

Holds for Full Term.

The question of whether a county superintendent, appointed by a county judge to fill a vacancy caused by death, could hold the office the remainder of the full term, or only until the next general election, was submitted yesterday by State School Superintendent Aekerman to the attorney-general for an opinion. The question arose through the appointment of D. E. Baxter to fill the position of superintendent, made vacant by the death of N. W. Keenely, of Wheeler county, who died while in office.

The attorney-general stated that, in his opinion appointments of school superintendents by county judges would be legal for the full term of office to which their predecessors were elected. This means that Baxter will hold the office of superintendent of schools of Wheeler county for almost three years, and that he will not have to try for election next June.

Salem's Greatest Growing Store MCEVOY BROS. Corner of Commercial and Court Streets

CHARLES H. HINGES BLOWN OUT OF WELL.

Opens a Splendid Stock of Up-to-Date Goods.

The Journal is today authorized to announce the opening of an elegant new store in Salem, for next Monday, viz., that of Chas. H. Hinges, the jeweler and optician. After nearly a year's absence from the ranks of Salem's business men, this active young pusher in his line, returns to his favorite town to resume business among those who have accorded him their friendship and patronage in the past. Mr. Hinges says that he appreciates all those favors which the people and the surrounding country have bestowed upon him in the past ten years, and he returns to show these friends that he is appreciative.

He will, next Monday, open his store adjoining the Capital National Bank with an entirely new outfit of fixtures, the finest that money can buy, and an absolutely new stock of goods. This stock has been bought after Mr. Hinges had spent six months among the manufacturers and wholesale houses in Eastern cities, and contains everything new and up-to-date in his line. He has also put in the most modern appliances for doing work in the jewelry and optical lines. Among other things, he has put in machinery for manufacturing optical goods from the rough, grinding and fitting lenses in the most approved manner. His bench work will, as in the past, be only of the highest character, and, aside from his own personal skill, Mr. Hinges will bring into requisition the assistance of a competent helper. Orders entrusted to him will, as of yore, be given the most punctilious attention, and he invites his old time patrons, and, in fact, everybody, to inspect his place at their earliest convenience, whether they come to buy or not.

ADDITIONAL PERSONALS.

Eugene Bosse is in Scio on business. Mrs. E. D. Gilbert is among the spectators at the O. A. C.-W. U. game today.

Mrs. Paul Schmidt, of Albany, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. M. Armstrong.

Cabinet Will Not Resign.

London, Nov. 24.—The cabinet has decided to appeal to the country. The suggestion that the cabinet resign was received unfavorably, because of the attitude of the liberals.
