CITY NEWS

A Collection of Important Paragraphs for Your Consideration.

Did you read all the advertisements in yesterday's Journal?

Revival services begin at the Methodist church tomorrow night, led by Rev. W. H. Selleck, the pastor.

It will be money in your pocket to test The Journal's want ad columns on Thursday.

Clearance sales are in order. Over half the stores in Salem have reduced prices for this month.

A two-horse road scraper and a couple of men could make a big improvement in Salem streets in a week.

An accident and a damage suit may result in repairs to the sidewalk on Cottage street, north of Union. Something should be done there at once.

Crushed rock is being put at the sides of crossings on Commercial street to keep down the mud.

The intermediates and juniors of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Club are to visit Willamette University next Friday evening in a body, leaving the association at 7:30 p. m. Prof. Boyer will explain the X-Ray to them.

Spotted Her Beauty.

Harriet Howard, of W. 34th street, New York, at one time had her beauty spotted with skin trouble. She writes: "I had salt rheum or eczema for years, but nothing would cure it, until I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve." A quick and sure healer for cuts, burns and sores. 25c at J. C. Perry's drug store.

Pleasant and Most Effective

T. J. Chambers, editor Vindicator, Liberty, Texas, writes December 25, 1905:

"With pleasure and unsolicited by you I bear testimony to the curative power of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it and my family can cheerfully affirm it is the most effective and best remedy for coughs and colds I have ever used." Sold by D. J. Fry.

20 Per Cent Off on Rubber Capes

We will close out the remainder of our huge capes at 20 per cent discount. These fine long fellows with double shoulders at 2.70.

The same quality in shorter lengths, $2.20.

This is a mighty good time to buy.

What few heavy buggy robes we have left, and they're not many, we will close at most any price. Our Christmas trade nearly cleaned them out, and we want to finish the job.

TONIGHT.

Grand—Jerry from Kerry.
Edison—Vaudeville.

Bright and Lively is Jerry from Kerry.

Farce comedy with plenty of fun makers who endeavor to please, and when such interest is taken, a farce comedy is sure to be a success. Many specialties are introduced and the stage is never left vacant for a single moment during the time the curtain is up. It is certain to drive away the blues and leave the spectators in good humor.

Jerry from Kerry will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House this evening. The company carries its own band and orchestra. The band gave a concert on the street at noon, and all we can say is if the inside attraction is as good as the outside it is all right.

Reserved seats are now selling.

DR. WYTHCOMBE HERE

Leading Candidate for Republican Nomination for Governor Was in Albany Yesterday.

Dr. James Wythcombe of Corvallis was in the city yesterday noon on his way to Salem. Dr. Wythcombe is one of the most prominent candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor, and is receiving reports of satisfactory condition from all parts of the state regarding his candidacy. In speaking of his work in this direction yesterday, the doctor said:

"I am not spending my time working up politics, but am attending strictly to my duties at the college and the experiment station, my candidacy practically taking care of itself. My duties keep me pretty close, too, but I am receiving the most encouraging reports from all parts of the state, and I have no doubt of my nomination. As I have never been identified with factional politics, I find my support equally strong with all classes of Republicans, and all classes of the citizens of the state are bringing me their support. The strength of my candidacy is greater than I had hoped for so early, and this is very gratifying to me, and I hope I will be able to come up to the expectations of my friends when I am nominated and elected."—Albany Herald.

Rev. Carlyle B. P. Martin, L. L. D. of Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a phlegm and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat and lung trouble." Sold by D. J. Fry.

Want Ads Free of Charge.

In order to give its many friends another chance to test its want ad columns, The Capital Journal will publish any want advertisement free of charge in its issue of Thursday of this week, if handed in at its business office between 8 a. m. and noon of that day. The Journal's classified columns bring quick returns, and this free day will enable you to advertise for what you want without cost. For more than this one day the rate is 25 cents for three days or 50 cents for one week for any advertisement not over 25 words.

Y. M. C. A. EDUCATIONAL WORK.

What the Association Is Accomplishing in Teaching Young Men.

Few people know the extent of the Y. M. C. A. night school, and the excellent work it is doing for the young men of Salem, who take advantage of it. This is the only night school in the city, and the course is arranged to accommodate boys and young men who are working and unable to attend any other educational classes. A competent teacher is employed in all branches taught. For the next three months the charges for the studies have been greatly reduced. The classes in arithmetic, grammar, spelling and reading meet on Monday and Thursday nights and those in penmanship and bookkeeping on Tuesday and Friday evenings. For the three months remaining of the term the charges for each of these classes will be $2.00, except bookkeeping, which will be $4.00.

A number of young men are taking lessons in typewriting, and this class arranges its hours to suit individual students.

A popular class has been that in window-card writing, taught by a competent window decorator. A new class is now being formed in this study, which is of special interest to clerks. It would pay merchants to have their clerks take up this study.

The regular class schedule starts tonight for the new term. The class fees are in addition to the cost of association membership.

NORTHWESTERN GOLD FIELDS.

Productiveness of the Yukon and Alaskan Placers.

Like a large number of others who have exploited the gold fields of the Northwest and returned to civilization with well-earned fortunes extracted from their rich placers, Wilson Foster, who has earned the cognomen of "the Klondike king," bears witness in a St. Louis interview to the extraordinary auriferous wealth of Alaska and Yukon Territories. The gold fields already opened in them, he affirms, produced last year $24,000,000, and he predicts that within the next decade their output will be ten times as large.

There is nothing unreasonable in such a prediction. According to engineers, L. S. Robe and J. W. Astley, who were specially employed by the executive council of Yukon territory to examine its auriferous deposits and estimate their metallic contents, it is assumed that at least $200,000,000 of gold remains to be recovered from the gravels of the Klondike alone. This district has already yielded $125,000,000 since the discovery of gold by George Carmack in 1897 at the mouth of Bonanza creek. In the known auriferous field of that district Mr. Robe says there are 425,250,000 cubic yards of gravel unworked, whose value he fixes at the modest average of 50 cents per cubic yard. This estimate places the total gold contents of these placers at $214,125,000. But no one is rash enough to venture the assertion that all of the gold-bearing deposits existing in the Klondike have been discovered, and that there are no other fields to conquer in the district. Moreover, Yukon territory embraces a vast gold-bearing area which has not yet been explored, and which may, in time, when the prospector has fully exploited it, develop districts as productive as the Klondike.

Every successive year bears evidence of the fact that Alaska's gold-bearing area extends over a vast extent of territory which has not yet been invaded by the adventurous miner, for Nome, Tanana, the Porcupine and Circle City districts are widely separated and constitute only small areas in the great mineral belt of the territory. These districts have been only barely scratched, while the major part of the mineral belt awaits that development which follows the settlement of the country by a larger population. Congress can help this development by making laws for the territory which will prevent the monopoly of the mineral lands, in accordance with the wishes expressed in a memorial recently adopted by the Alaskans in convention assembled. At present the absorption of the mineral lands of known worth is being done by a few individuals through the right which the law allows them to multiply their claims indefinitely by proxy locations based on power of attorney obtained from non-residents, and many of them from persons who have never seen the United States. The mineral laws of Alaska must be amended to enable every man who enters the territory to get a fair show, and yet make it impossible for him to deprive others of enjoying equal rights with himself. So amended and prospecting will be encouraged and development will follow.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Modern Child.

Born scientifically,
Studied terrifically,
Clothed very carefully,
Dieted sparsely,
Aired systematically,
Bathed most emphatically,
Played with quite dexterity,
Punished speedily,
Sweet infantility,
Steeped in gentility,
Santa Claus banished,
Mother Goose vanished,
Where are the babies,
The real human babies,
The olden times knew!

Harnessed scholastically,
Drilled superlatively,
Cultured prodigiously,
Lectured religiously,
Classified rigidly,
Reasoned with frigidly,
Loved analytically,
Listened to critically,
Dosed with the "ologies,"
Rushed through the colleges,
Crammed pedagogically,
"Finished" most logically,
Where is the childhood,
The fresh, happy childhood,
The olden times knew!

Children successfully
Reared most aggressively,
Paying eternally,
Weighed infernally,
Planned for initially,
"Formed" artificially,
Will they submit to it?
Never cry "Quit" to it!
Will not analyze
Stop from paralysis?
Till our distraction
Ends with reaction,
Brings back the childhood,
The bright, careless childhood,
The olden times knew!

A Pleasant Way to Travel.

The above is the usual verdict of the traveler using the Missouri Pacific railway between the Pacific coast and the east, and we believe that the service and accommodations given merit this statement. From Denver, Colorado Springs and Denver there are two through trains daily to Kansas City and St. Louis, carrying Pullman's latest standard electric-lighted sleeping cars, chair cars and up-to-date dining cars. The same excellent service is operated from Kansas City and St. Louis to Memphis, Little Rock and Hot Springs. If you are going east or south, write for particulars and full information.
