GLOOMY OUTLOOK IN RUSSIA

Manchurian Army Restless and Threatening to Revolt

St. Petersburg, Jan. 17.—Newspaper advice says the attitude of the soldiers in Manchuria is constantly growing more threatening, and the gravest consequences are feared. Chinese activity in Mongolia is endangering the Russian influence there. It has been decided to station troops along the frontier to quiet dissatisfied Chinese, and restore the Czar's prestige. It is understood a state of siege will be declared Monday, in anticipation of trouble, when the people plan to celebrate the first anniversary of "Red Sunday."

JENNINGS FOUND GUILTY

Jury Says He is Guilty of Deliberately Killing His Father

Grants Pass, Or., Jan. 17.—After one of the most spectacular trials ever held in Southern Oregon, Jasper Jennings, 27 years old, was at 9:30 last night convicted of the murder of his father, Newton M. Jennings, in his cabin at Granite Hill, the night of September 7, 1905. Jennings, Sr., was shot in the head as he slept in a room in the cabin, which was also occupied by Dora, a girl of 16, and another daughter younger. Two sons slept upstairs. All denied hearing any noise during the night.

Jasper alleges that the shooting was done by his sister, Dora, with his rifle, which she afterwards hid. He also alleges that his mother might have induced someone to commit the crime.

In his summing up the district attorney declared the evidence showed that Jasper brought about the murder to obtain $650 cash he believed his father possessed, and to get hold of a wood contract by which the father made $100 a month.

The trial of Dora Jennings, jointly indicted with her brother begins today.

TILLMAN ATTACKS PRESIDENT

Denounces His Official Conduct With a Storm of Bitter Invective

Washington, Jan. 17.—Tillman announced in the senate this morning that he would occupy much of today's session with a denunciation of what he characterized as executive encroachment upon the rights of the press. He said he would present specific instances of news suppression and ejection from the White House of correspondents. Shortly after he buried at the President his famous pitchfork, whetted to sharpness and dipped in venom. He repeatedly denounced the President's official conduct, and used such a storm of personal invectives as the senate has not heard in years. The opening of the assault was based upon a resolution Tillman recently introduced, calling upon the President for information about San Domingo's relations with this country. He declared that for ten years there had been nothing in the islands but a military dictatorship.

In reciting the history of San Domingo, Tillman declared the government and the President had been dealing with one of "cut throats, assassins and libertines, in fact a class of people to whom applies everything the English language can express of degradation, debauchery, boastfulness and brutality." He said: "The President is a strenuous man, who likes his own way," and declared the senate must say "no," and say it loudly before Theodore Roosevelt would listen.

He said: "The President has long known the value of a press agent," and referred to Bishop, of the Panama canal, and to Roosevelt's march up San Juan hill, "which," he declared the speaker, "Roosevelt never mounted." He moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the ejection of Mrs. Morris, and got into an altercation with Hale, who declared he had no right to presume the President guilty of unwholesome conduct, of which he had no proof. Hale said not a Republican would object to an investigation.

PACKERS ARE ON TRIAL

Chicago, Jan. 17.—After six months' delay, the hearing of the preliminary plea in the cases of the packers, accused of conspiracy in restraint of trade, began this morning. Judge Humphrey presides. Twenty of the shrewdest lawyers in the country are engaged. The issue of the trial is merely to determine whether the constitutional rights of the packers were violated by Garfield, when he forced them to produce the records for examination by the department.

AGAINST POLICY OF PRESIDENT

(Four O'Clock Edition.)
Washington, Jan. 17.—The national board of trade convention, in session here today, with delegates representing commercial bodies from all the principal cities of the country, went on record against the President's railroad rate policy. A compromise resolution was adopted, recommending that whenever a United States court of competent jurisdiction shall have determined that the existing rate is excessive the interstate commerce commission, or some other authority shall be given power to compel the substitution of a reasonable rate, such rate to go into effect within a reasonable time, and remain in force not longer than one year, the rate to be subject to revision in a proper federal court.

BUFFALO BILL SHOWING JOHN BULL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—"I did some educational work with the railroads in England and France and showed them how to make some extra revenue by a plan common enough over here, but which, it seems, they had never considered," remarked Buffalo Bill at the New Willard Hotel.
"What I put them onto was our Yankee scheme of running excursions and making cheap rates. The first provincial town I was to show in gave me the opportunity. I went to the railroad people and said: 'See here, I am going to give a great exhibition that ought to attract the people for miles around, and will if you will only make a low rate so that the multitudes can attend.' They laughed at me and said they had never heard of such a thing, but finally after much confabing they agreed to run the excursion trains provided I'd guarantee so much money, which I did."
"The result was a success even beyond my dreams. I had flaming big ads stuck up everywhere, and on the day of the show the crowds poured in just as I had figured. After that it was an easy matter to get the excursions, and I never was asked again for a guarantee."

FULTON TO THE FRONT

(Four O'Clock Edition.)
Washington, Jan. 17.—Unexpectedly the senate yesterday found itself considering the railroad rate question which was precipitated by Fulton taking the floor to make a brief speech in explanation of an amendment offered by him to the Dooliver bill, giving to courts of justice authority to modify orders of the interstate commerce commission imposing an unreasonable rate. He had not preceded far when he was switched from a general explanation of the terms of the provision to a defense of the principle which it seeks to establish, and a general debate of the bill followed.

Fulton held the floor throughout, but there were many interruptions. He said, in response to a question from McCumber, that he did not consider the determination of what was a reasonable rate in a given case a matter of legislation, but rather for judicial determination.

Fulton urged that the courts were daily engaged in fixing future rates and quoted authorities in support of the proposition that the courts may fix reasonable rates and argued that the preponderance of precedents was favorable to that position.
